'Resignation No Answer'

. . . Mansfield's Advice Is To 'Cool It'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top Democratic leaders of Congress pleaded Monday for an end to calls for President Nixon's resignation, saying they are fanning a flash fire of public opinion that could forever char the Republic.

"Resignation is not the answer," said Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont. "This is a time to keep cool — the expression, I believe, is 'cool it.' "

The President himself, meanwhile, was quoted by a cabinet member as reaffirming Monday that "there isn't any chance . . . whatever," of his stepping down voluntarily.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia declared that if Nixon were "drummed out of office" by public opinion, "this would change our system from one of fixed tenure to one in which a President would remain in office only by popular approval."

Meanwhile, sources said the House Judiciary Committee will consider on Wednesday whether to subpoena more tapes and other materials for its inquiry into impeachment of the President.

A notice to committee members did not indicate whether the proposed subpoena would be for some or all of the additional 76 White House tapes on Watergate, the ITT and dairy price-supports matters the panel first requested from Nixon on April 19.

Byrd and Mansfield were joined by House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., and a number of others at the Capitol in asking Americans to let the case against the President lay exclusively in the hands of the courts and the impeachment process.

Byrd said if Nixon resigned, his guilt or innocence might never be resolved. "Nothing is more important to the nation than the exercise of sober judgment," he said.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Caspar Weinberger said he brought up the subject of "the steadily increasing drumbeat of resignation talk" at a meeting with Nixon in the Oval Office.

"He said 'Don't worry. There isn't any chance of that whatever,'' Weinberger reported.

A short drive away, the President's lawyers appeared before U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica to argue that the White House should not be required to turn over any more Watergate tapes to the special prosecutor. The session was closed.

Presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair asked Sirica to quash the subpoena of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski for tapes and documents covering 64 presidential conversations.

The hearing lasted about 2½ hours, and none of the participants would comment on the proceedings. An aide to Sirica said the judge likely would not make his decision for at least a week.

Earlier, Sirica announced he would make public in about two weeks the final report by an independent panel of experts on the 18½-minute gap in the June 20, 1972 conversation between Nixon and former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman. He received also a report on the same matter from an expert working on behalf of the White House.

In a nearby courtroom, California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke appeared before District Judge Barrington Parker to argue for dismissal of perjury charges against him in connection with the Watergate special prosecutor's probe of the ITT affair. The matter threatens to swamp his campaign for governor.

At the hearing, Reinecke testified that federal prosecutors implied that they would not seek a bribery indictment if he cooperated in their investigation.

But assistant prosecutor Joseph J. Connolly denied categorically to the court that he had ever made any threats or offered leniency in return for Reinecke's cooperation. Reinecke has claimed the three-count indictment was politically motivated.

He is charged with lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee over his role in helping arrange to have the 1972 GOP convention in San Diego, later switched to Miami Beach.

The Senate Watergate Committee disclosed Monday it has subpoenaed President Nixon's two brothers for questioning about a $100,000 campaign contribution four years ago by billionaire Howard Hughes.

Onetime Nixon lawyer Herbert Kalmbach told the committee earlier this year that presidential friend C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo had used that money for gifts or loans to F. Donald Nixon and Edward Nixon, as well as to the President's personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods.

Suicide Try Foiled Again

A man police identified as John Rowland, 29, of Brooklyn, right, is approached by a policeman Monday near the top of the east tower of the Brooklyn Bridge. The same man had been talked down from the bridge April 25, but left the hospital where he was under observation to stage the second incident. He was brought down after two hours in the rigging of the bridge.

Demo Test Ballot Highlight

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Democratic voters Tuesday will name Gov. J. James Exon's general election running mate, and perhaps chart the future course of their party in Nebraska.

The Democratic donneybrook for nomination as lieutenant governor highlights the primary elections of 1974.

The other major contest of this spring's primaries is the eight-candidate free-for-all scrap for the Republican nomination to succeed Third District Congressman Dave Martin.

Local issues, including fluoridation, may swell the voter turnout in a number of communities.

But a light vote is anticipated in Douglas County, where 29% of the state's registered Democrats reside.

Exon is expected to sail through a primary contest with Lyman Mayor Richard Schmitz toward a showdown match with State Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings in November.

Unopposed in the GOP primary, Marvel makes the move from candidate to nominee on Tuesday.

The veteran legislative appropriations chairman will be teamed either with Anne Batchelder of Omaha or William Wylie of Elgin in the autumn. Either choice is acceptable to him.

But the Democratic match for lieutenant governor is another story.

Exon has endorsed Hastings attorney Gerald Whelan, the former president of the State Board of Education, as his preferred running mate.

Clearly not acceptable to the governor is State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, the Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate in 1972.

Carpenter, whose political ventures have spread across four decades of Nebraska history, can claim the best known name on the ballot.

Other entries in the Democratic race are State Sens. Jules Burbach of Crofton and Frank Lewis of Bellevue.

Burbach, the veteran legislative revenue chairman, has twice been a candidate for his party's gubernatorial nomination, and barely lost the last time out in 1970 — to Exon.

Lewis targeted his campaign at urban voters, organized labor and school teachers.

Under the terms of a 1970 constitutional amendment, Nebraska voters will elect their governor and lieutenant governor as a team for the first time this autumn.

But primary election voters determine who will compose both the Republican and Democratic teams.

The eight-candidate GOP congressional scrap in western Nebraska's sprawling Third District features two state senators, one woman, a dentist, a pastor, a professor, an insurance agent and a cattleman.

Republican hopefuls are Sen. Gerald Stromer of Kearney, Mrs. Havek Smith of Chappell, Sen. J. James Waldron of North Platte, Don Blank of McCook, Jack Langford of Kearney, James Wenger of Grand Island, Ronald Blauvelt of Thedford and Gerald Lundby of Hildreth.

The winner will meet either former State Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox or Ralph Miller of Wellfleet in November.

Ziebarth, a 1972 Democratic Senate candidate, is considered the likely nominiee.

The winner faces Republican Congressman John McCollister.

In the First District, Congressman Charles Thone and Democratic challenger Hess Dyas march toward their showdown without primary opposition.

Other Tuesday contests will produce nominees for attorney general, state auditor, state treasurer, secretary of state, the Public Service Commission, the State Board of Education and the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

Twenty-four legislative seats are up for grabs.

And voters must determine the fate of two proposed constitutional amendments — one to increase legislative salaries, the other to remove the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the Legislature.

Inflation Spiral's No Trouble

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Who isn't being hurt by inflation? Big Business, that's who.

There are exceptions, notably the housing industry, but generally speaking most corporate executives aren't at all scared by sharply rising prices, as long as they can raise their own prices to compensate.

Lifting of wage and price controls have given them this flexibility. The only restraint on prices now is the market itself — the limit to what people will pay.

One signal that big business has learned to live with the current high rate of inflation is that investment in new plant capacity is running at high levels.

"We are having the largest single capital expenditures boom I've experienced," said Buck Mickel, president of Daniel International Corp., a major construction firm based at Greenville, S.C.

Mickel's remarks came at a meeting of the Business Council, held in Hot Springs, Va., over the weekend. The council, whose members are the top executives of about 100 major corporations, has forecast increased capital expenditures in 1974 of between 13 and 19 per cent.

Capital expenditures rose 12.8 per cent in 1973 and 8.9 per cent in 1972.

Among those leading the way in new investments in plant capacity is the aluminum industry. The head of one major company said his firm is cutting back plans to enlarge its overseas operations because expansion at home now looks even more promising.

This executive expressed concern over inflation as dangerous to long-term stability of the nation, but not as a short-term threat to his corporation's profits.

The major factors in the decision to invest is that demand is staying high. Steel, aluminum, paper, chemicals — industry just hasn't been able to produce fast enough.

The head of a major Chicago-based retail chain said he has a six-month backlog for orders of barbed wire, and the firm is receiving major orders it cannot fill.

The administration is pleased to see the big investment boom since U.S. industry has been lagging behind overseas competitors in their investments in new plants and equipment.

A major example of how business lives with rapidly rising prices is in the petroleum industry, where profits have soared as high as 100 per cent in a year, despite the higher prices they must pay to oil-producing countries for petroleum.

They simply passed along the higher costs in their prices.

Hence, the opposition of large corporations to price controls — they forced businesses to absorb some of the cost of inflation.

They did this not only by limiting the amount of price increases, as with steel and autos, but by delaying increases through pre-notification procedures which required 30 days.

Some businessmen interviewed at Hot Springs argued this was counterproductive in that it encouraged them to increase prices as much and as pidly as they could, whereas they would be more flexible if there were no controls to worry about.

Even the record-high interest rates on loans are not hurting business investment plans. Mickel said money borrowed at 9 per cent during a period of 10 per cent inflation can be profitable.

Short-term interest rates are running over 11 per cent, but businesses borrowing for investment purposes generally borrow at the lower, long-term rates.

A key Treasury Department economist agrees that big corporations have learned to live quite well with inflation, but said small businessmen can be at a disadvantage since they do not have the same ready access to credit money.

The concern of business leaders attending the Business Council meeting was over the instability of governments, both the United States government and the government of its allies, Great Britain, France and Germany.

One executive said inflation was a factor in this instability, and for that reason — if no other — must be brought under control.

Police General Retires In Spain

Iniesta, whose 50,000-man force is responsible for maintaining public order in rural Spain, went into automatic retirement at reaching the age of 64.

Schools Advising Seniors On Jobs

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

"All of a sudden this year, I started thinking about what I'm going to do the rest of my life," recalled Lincoln High senior Lee E. Gerner.

He got his answer yesterday, the first day on a job he believes has a future, thanks to the Lincoln Public Schools.

"If it weren't for Mr. (Jerry) Gruber, I guess I wouldn't be here at all," said Gerner, 18, who began his work part-time at Bausch & Lomb, 650 N. 27th, even before his graduation on May 31.

Gruber, coordinator for the public schools Career Education Project, helped initiate in mid-April what he calls "exiting placement," assisting graduating seniors who want full-time jobs.

The program doesn't compete, rather complements the services offered by employment agencies, Gruber said.

He suggested that "maybe schools are in a better position to work with kids as far as job placement," adding, "We've had them for 12 years." As well as knowing students personally, counselors can rely on student records to aid in matching graduates with jobs, he said.

"Shouldn't we be helping kids with jobs as much as with college entrance?" Gruber asked rhetorically.

The public schools' commitment to the concept of furthering a student's career after graduation "is something new for us," said special projects director Carl. R. Spencer.

"I used to work at a service station for a year and a half," said Gerner, 27255 Everett. "I didn't want to stay there because there was nothing to advance in-," and the same held in his summer jobs with the city street department.

When Bausch & Lomb called Gruber and "told him they were looking for someone who wasn't planning on going to college," he set up the interview for Gerner, who got the job — learning to grind lenses — on his own merits.

The guidance departments in all four public high schools and Pius X are participating in such exiting placement, Gruber said, crediting teachers too for advising job-hunting seniors.

Gruber has a cooperative agreement with the State Employment Office, which provides him with up-to-date lists of 500-600 jobs available in southeast Nebraska. But "realistically, at this point, we're running a band-aid program," Gruber said.

He has found job possibilities for about 35 Lincoln High seniors. He screens each senior, then promises each applicant three interviews and calls prospective employers as a follow-up.

Employers who contact the schools are interested in getting career employes, Gruber said. "They're not anti-college. This is another alternative to going to school — you can learn on the job."

Gruber said he will work with jobless student applicants through the summer, not dismissing them after they receive their diplomas.

"Hopefully, next year we can get something a little more sophisticated," he said; for example, a central clearing point for employers to contact.

Crash Claims Second Victim

A three-car accident Friday night at 20th and Cornhusker Hwy. Monday claimed its second victim.

Debbie Graham, 18, of 2625 N. 9th, died at Bryan Memorial Hospital, where she had been listed in critical condition since the accident.

The accident earlier had claimed the life of her sister, Kendra, 16.

Both were passengers in a car driven by Tommy Croy, 18, of Hallam, which police said was eastbound on Cornhusker when it crossed a concrete median and was in collision with two westbound vehicles.

Croy was listed in fair condition Monday at Bryan Memorial Hospital. Also remaining in the hospital was Nita Johnson, 16, of 3046 W, who was listed in good condition.

Johnson was a passenger in a car driven by Phillip Gildersleeve, 20, of O'Neill, which was one of the vehicles westbound on Cornhusker. Johnson was dismissed from Bryan.

David L. Griffith, 22, of 285 Garber, driver of the third vehicle was not injured. His wife Grayce and their three-year-old son Justin were treated and released Friday night.

Israel, Syria Move Nearer Agreement

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Syria have moved closer to agreement on a disengagement line separating their armies in the Golan Heights, a senior American official said Monday.

But Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was making no predictions. After meeting with Premier Golda Meir and Foreign Minister Abba Eban, Kissinger was asked if an agreement was in sight for this week. He replied: "I don't make any speculation of this kind. . . I will go to Damascus tomorrow with the Israeli views on the Syrian considerations, and then we'll see where we are."

Kissinger was booed and jeered as he arrived for the talks and as he left.

Scores of demonstrators — and many other Israelis — were fearful that Kissinger was pressuring Jerusalem into risky territorial concessions on the Golan Heights in order to achieve a disengagement of Syrian and Israeli troops.

The high American source said it was still possible that Kissinger's mission might fall short of a settlement.

The offical said Kissinger was counting on Israel to make further "refinements" in its position before he shuttles back to Damascus to see Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Relatively small distances are involved in the dispute, he said, but the differences are of major concern to both sides.

The Israeli Cabinet met in special session for four hours shaping its response to Assad's demands for a broader withdrawal.

Information Minister Shimon Peres said: "I think tomorrow will be the most important day in the negotiations."

The crux of Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy is to achieve a compromise on where to draw the disengagement lines.

U.S. officials indicated that Israel and Syria are close to agreement on the kind of United Nations force that would stand as a buffer between the two armies. They were also approaching agreement on a "thin-out" of armor behind the lines.

U.S. officials said Kissinger has never suggested that Israel give up any of the paramilitary settlements strung along the frontiers won in the 1967 war with the Arab states. Nor are three strategic hills around the town of Quneitra, the provincial capital of the Golan Heights, the sticking point in Kissinger's 16-day effort, the officials said.

After he sees Assad, and certainly by Wednesay, Kissinger should know if he can accomplish a troop separation, newsmen were told.

In any event, the secretary intends to return to Washington no later than Sunday. Technical experts could be left behind to deliberate subsidiary issues once there is an agreement to dis-

If there is a settlement, Kissinger is prepared to convey private assurances on various sensitive points from one side to the other. He played such a role last January working out an Israeli-Egyptian troop separation on the Suez Canal.

Fighting on the Golan front was in its 63rd day as the negotiations proceeded.

Villagers Mourn Dead Children

Villagers in Kfeir, Lebanon, crowd around the bodies of two children Monday. A Syrian spokesman said the children and their mother were killed in an Israeli air attack Monday morning. Kfeir is the ancestral village of Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D.

FBI File Secrecy Upheld By Court

Washington (UPI) — Amateur investigators challenging the decade-old Warren Commission report on the assassination of John F. Kennedy failed at the Supreme Court Monday to force the FBI to make some of its records public.

The Supreme Court refused to review an appeals court decision that the FBI can keep the Kennedy files secret under provisions of the Freedom Of Information (FOI) Act.

Harold Weisburg, author of four books on the assassination, had sought FBI reports on bullet fragments taken from Kennedy's body.

The FBI turned down Weisburg, as it has others who wanted portions of Kennedy files, on grounds that the FOI did not apply to to "ingestigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes."

Weisburg contended that no possible harm could come by making public the files, now over 10 years old, unless the FBI knowingly had suppressed evidence. He said the courts acted as mere "rubber stamps" by allowing the secrecy "even though no federal law was violated, no prosecution is contemplated, and disclosure would not harm the agency's legitimate law enforcement functions."

Weisburg said the Warren Commission was told only that the bullet fragments were "similar in metallic composition," leading to a conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone when Kennedy was slain Nov. 22, 1963.

In asking for Supreme Court review, Weisburg said spectographic analysis could further determine if different guns were used by finding "trace elements" incompatible with Oswald's weapon.

"Weisburg maintains that the disclosure of the reports he seeks would disprove the official theory of the assassination and show that the FBI deceived the Warren Commission and the public as to what the results did in fact show," attorneys told the Supreme Court.

The appeals court in the District of Columbia said the FBI had met its obligations under FOI by providing testimony from a special agent claiming that release of the information would "seriously interfere with the efficient operation of the FBI and with proper discharge of its important law enforcement function."

Independent Truckers Keep Right On Rolling

By The Associated Press

Independent truckers kept their rigs rolling on Monday, generally ignoring a call for a nationwide strike over fuel prices and speed limits. There was scattered violence in a few areas, but authorities in most places said truck traffic was normal.

"We've got zero problems," said Bill Clark, a Maryland State Police spokesman.

Militants who called for the latest shutdown claimed it was highly effective in several areas, but their estimates could not be confirmed.

James Cox, information officer for the state police in Pennsylvania, where earlier shutdowns sparked violence and cut traffic, said at midafternoon: "Truck traffic is smooth and normal in volume and every other way. This is just an ordinary Monday." He said 11 incidents of violence had been reported, most minor and most before daybreak.

Other violence was reported in Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Oklahoma. Most of the incidents involved windshields smashed by rocks or sniper fire, and no injuries were reported.

Michael Parkhurst, editor of Overdrive magazine, a Los-Angeles based industry publication that called for the shutdown, said state officials couldn't prove their claim that truck traffic was normal. He said their reports were "pure guesswork."

Leaders of Monday's work stoppage said they wanted a fuel price rollback, an increase in the 55 m.p.h. speed limit, higher weight limits for trucks and an audit of the oil companies.

The Senate rejected a move on Monday that would have allowed states to raise the speed limits to 60 m.p.h. The proposal came from Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., who contended that the present limit imposes a hardship on truckers and residents of rural areas. It was rejected by a vote of 51-29.

Sens. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska, both R-Neb., voted for raising the speed limit.

GM Raises Prices 1.9%

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors announced Monday it is raising prices on its 1974-model cars and trucks an average $105 per vehicle.

The firm said the increase amounted to 1.9 per cent, plus a $10 per vehicle increase in destination costs.

The firm blamed cost pressures for the increase.

The firm said the price hike goes into effect beginning with vehicles shipped on Wednesday.

Included in the increase is a $52 jump in the base price, plus $43 for major options.

Last week, Ford increased its base prices an average $141, and boosted option and destination prices another $23.

Viet Cong Stop Talks

Paris — The Viet Cong announced Monday it was suspending the sterile Paris talks with South Vietnam on implementing the Vietnam cease-fire agreement. The suspension ended all formal contacts between the two sides, since their Joint Military Commission in Saigon also broke down. Actually, there have been no talks in Paris since April 16, when Saigon said it would attend no further meetings because the Viet Cong had captured a base at Tong La Cham.

Sri Lanka Faces Crisis

Colombo — Sri Lanka (Ceylon), short of food, is facing an economic crisis that Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike says has "almost squeezed the breath out of us."

Starvation Emergency Urged

United Nations, N.Y. — Henry R. Labouisse, director of the U.N. Children's Fund (UNICEF), warned Monday that up to 500 million children face the threat of malnutrition and even starvation as a result of high oil and food prices and continuing inflation. He suggested that the 30-member UNICEF board consider declaring an emergency.

Premier's Health Failing

Hong Kong — Pleading old age and poor health, Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, 76, has absented himself from a number of Peking state functions. There are hints that he has turned over some of his duties to deputies.

Plumbers Under Orders

Washington — Highly reliable sources reported that President Nixon, in a letter sent two weeks ago to Judge Gerhard A. Gesell of federal district court in Washington, said that the White House "plumbers" unit was operating under a general delegation of his presidential authority when it broke into the office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist in 1971. Gesell will preside over the trial of six men indicted in the break-in.

Six Get Most Funds

Washington — The nation's six largest cities will get most of the $24 billion in mass transit funds that would be provided under legislation being prepared by the House Public Works Committee. The funds would be used for capital and operating expenses over the next six years. They would be provided by new revenues rather than the Highway Trust Fund, as proposed by the administration.

Kissinger Wife Likes Trip

Jerusalem (Washington Star-News) — Nancy Maginnes Kissinger is enjoying her travels in the Middle East as her husband, the secretary of state, tries to bring about a cease-fire, but she is anxious to get back to her own foreign policy work as well as find a home for the couple in or near Washington.

Bank Head Dismissed

New York — The directors of the financially pressed Franklin National Bank, the nation's 20th largest, dismissed President Paul Luftig Monday and disclosed that Peter Shaddick, executive vice president and director, had resigned in the wake of the discovery of large foreign-exchange trading losses. The directors also approved omission of common and preferred dividends and said they plan to raise $50 million through a stock subscription offering.

Italy Upholds Prodivorce Law

ROME (AP) — Italians lined up almost 3-2 Monday to keep the nation's divorce law, after a bitter referendum campaign in this Roman Catholic nation. The voters handed a rebuff to the government and to the Vatican.

Immediately after the results were announced, thousands supporting the divorce law jammed Rome's Piazza Navona for a celebration, and others swept through the streets of the capital waving banners and shouting: "We won! We won!"

There also were prodivorce celebrations in Florence and other major cities.

The final count of more than 32 million ballots cast showed that 19,093,929 voters, or 59.1 per cent of those who went to the polls Sunday and Monday, wanted the divorce law retained on the books. A total of 13,188,184 voters — 40.9 per cent — wanted it repealed.

The outcome could mean serious trouble for the center-left coalition government of Premier Mariano Rumor, whose Christian Democrats strongly advocated doing away with the law.

The Communists, the most vocal among the groups supporting the divorce law, appeared likely to press their claim for a voice in the government.

The vote ensured the law's permanence at least through May of 1979. Italian law prohibits another referendum on the same issue for five years.

Prodivorce balloting was heaviest in industrial cities.

Bishops urged church members to vote for repeal of the divorce law, and Pope Paul VI said he fully supported the views of his bishops.

But even in Rome, where the bishop is the Pope himself, 68 per cent of the voters supported the divorce law. In Brescia, the pontiff's home town, opponents of divorce won narrowly — 299,980 to 295,612.

The Vatican issued no immediate comment on the outcome.

Supreme Court Decision Washes Out Over 600 Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held Monday that the Nixon administration violated federal law in a host of wiretaps against narcotics and organized crime suspects.

The court's decision washes out cases against some 600 defendants and perhaps more, because the evidence gathered in defective taps may not be used at trial.

In other action, the high court refused to hear appeals by International Business Machines (IBM) challenging an order forcing the computer giant to turn over documents to the government that it claims are lawfully confidential. The government has launched an antitrust case against IBM.

Following the court action, the corporation said it was turning over some 700 documents to the Justice Department trust busters. The alternative was a $150,000-a-day fine.

In still another case, the justices overturned a federal appeals court decision on trade secrets that the legal and business communities claimed would lead to chaos and have a multibillion impact on American industrial research.

The wiretap decision stemmed from practices at the Justice Department when it was run by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. The taps in question were authorized in each instance by a federal judge. The question in the case was whether the Justice Department had complied with provisions of the 1968 Omnibus Crime Control Act in applying for the taps in the first three years following the act's adoption.

The court found that the practice of allowing Mitchell's executive assistant to approve applications was contrary to the law's demand that the requests be approved by the attorney general himself or a specially designated assistant attorney general.

The court was unanimous in condemning the practice. Justice Byron R. White delivered the court's opinion.

It is apparent, said White, "That Congress desired to centralize and limit this authority where it was feasible to do so ... To us, it appears wholly at odds with the scheme and history of the act to construe (its) provisions to permit the attorney general to delegate his authority . . ."

In a second wiretap case the court did preserve some challenged taps. The applications bore the name of an assistant attorney general but were actually approved by Mitchell himself. The court found this no barrier to use of evidence gathered by the taps.

The trade secrets decision found that federal law on patents does not preempt state trade secret laws. The justices reversed a ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, which had applied the federal law.

"Congress, by its silence over these many years, has seen wisdom of allowing the states to enforce trade secret protection,' wrote Chief Justice Warren E. Burger for the six-two majority.

Justices William O. Douglas and William J. Brennan Jr. dissented. Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. took no part in the case

It arose from a dispute involving Kewanee Oil Co. and the four founders of its rival, Bicron Corp., who were former employes of a division of Kewanee.

The oil company charged that the four had pirated a trade secret. The circuit court had found in favor of Bicron.

That brought cries of dismay from the American Bar Association, which said the decision placed doubt on the enforcibility of thousands of contracts in the United States.

The Manufacturing Chemists Association said the lower court decision would encourage thefts of industrial secrets.

The documents involved in the IBM-government suit first surfaced in private antitrust litigation brought against IBM by Control Data Corp.

During that suit, which was eventually settled out of court, IBM turned over a massive amount of documents. In doing so, the corporation's attorneys argued they inadvertently included papers which they were legally entitled to keep secret. U.S. District Court Judge David N. Edelstein of New York told IBM to turn the documents over anyway and established a fine should they fail to do so.

U.S. Fliers Airdrop Cambodian Supplies

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A handful of Americans still draw combat pay in Indochina, flying supply missions to Cambodia from Thailand.

Perhaps four dozen of them at a time fly in Air Force C130 transports to places like Longvek, where 40,000 Cambodians are surrounded and under attack from the Communist Khmer Rouge.

The men fly out of the air base at Utapao, near a beach resort 116 miles southeast of Bangkok, Thailand's capital. Military sources say the airmen are on temporary duty from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines, 1,300 miles away, for periods as short as two weeks.

The military informants add that about 3,000 tons of ammunition, small arms, containers of fuel, medical supplies, food and sundry equipment were air dropped by United States planes to Cambodia in February and the tonnage slacked off to 2,000 in March.

But a month of bitter fighting in April, with Cambodian garrisons battling for their lives, brought calls for twice the March total.

The aerial supply effort in March accounted for about 10 per cent of the supplies provided to the Cambodian armed forces by the United States.

Military aircraft fly over Cambodia at 10,000 feet or less and feel secure; and at Longvek, a lone F4 Phantom jet, apparently on reconnaissance, is now and again seen at 3,000.

"It depends on what kind of situation you're talking about," one military source said. "Going into an airport if you're going to land, you've got to land and of course you could take some fire, but in an air drop they're going to stay out of the way of any ground fire."

What would happen if one of the supply planes was shot down or crashed in the war zone?

Air Force Gen. Timothy F. O'Keefe, head of all Southeast Asia tactical air operations and the highest ranking U.S. officer in the region, says: "We'd protect U.S. lives to the extent that we had to."

He adds that he would try to get authorization from the Pentagon before using armed planes but would go it on his own

Guinea-Bissau Rebels Ask End To Warfare

ALGIERS (AP) — Rebel leaders from Portuguese Guinea became on Monday the first in Portugal's three troubled African territories to propose negotiations to end more than a decade of guerrilla warfare.

A statement issued by the diplomatic mission here of the republic of Guinea-Bissau, the name insurgents have given to the two-thirds of Portuguese Guinea which they control, said the negotiations with Portugal's new regime could begin "with or without a cease-fire."

But it warned the rebels were aiming for "the total liberation of our people."

In Lisbon, Portugal's ruling military junta withheld comment on the reports from Algeria.

"We know of the reported offer," a junta spokesman said, "but we have no comment."

The rebels belong to the African party for the Independence of Guinea-Bissau and the Cape Verde Islands, known as PAIGC, and issued the statement after an "extraordinary meeting."

Independence movements in Angola and Mozambique, Portugal's two other African colonies, which are both larger than Portuguese Guinea, have rejected talks with the Portuguese junta of Gen. Antonio de Spinola.

Spinola's regime, which came into power April 25 after saying a military solution to Portugal's African problem was impossible, had offered negotiations and proposed that the rebel movements submit the conflict to a vote among the native populations.

PAICG's statement, while demanding independence, did not make it a prerequisite for negotiations.

For a cease-fire to precede negotiations, the rebel group said, Portugese forces in Guinea-Bissau, will have to "cease all operations and aggressive acts against our population" and regroup in command centers.

In Mozambique, military and police patrols circulated in Beira after whites and blacks clashed while radio broadcasts urged calm, the Portuguese news agency ANI reported.

Gen. Francisco da Costa Gomes, the No. 2 Man in Portugal's military junta, was reported to have told a news conference in Beira that Portugal has no intention of expanding the war in Mozambique, which has been going on for a decade.

The Portuguese news agency Lusitania reported from Beira that Gomes told a news conference Monday he made unofficial contact with Frelimo sympathizers in Lourenco Marques, the capital of Mozambique, asking them to tell guerrilla leaders he wanted to set up official negotiations for a truce.

'Malicious, Vicious Campaign'

Some of the tapes of Watergate conversations contain disparaging references about ethnic origins, according to unnamed sources reported in the national press. The reports said such reference included "Jewboy," "kike" and "wop" in speaking of certain government officials, and the White House reaction to the disclosure was predictable.

Counsel Fred Buzhardt, who said he has listened to some 40 of the tapes, said he doesn't remember the word "Jewish" being used, although ". . . somebody may have said somebody was Polish." The President only used such references in a joking manner, said another aide. And, said Buzhardt, none of the references was meant as a slur. Thus they are not denied.

And Buzhardt proceeded to do just what has come to be expected of the Nixon White House: he attacked those who turned over the stone and stripped away the covers.

"It's clear that a concerted campaign has been made to cause these to be publicized," Buzhardt said. "I can only characterize this as a malicious and vicious attempt to poison the public's mind against him (the President)."

Attacking those who carry the message, those who are depicted as powerful interests seeking to undermine the American way of life, has always been a vital part of the Nixon game plan. If he creates enough smoke and fosters enough discontent with the press, it will obscure what he did or said.

It's futile to ask the people in the White House to look inward rather than finding a scapegoat elsewhere. They are incorrigible in that regard. But by using the strategy so often, it has been unmasked for what it really is. Whenever the White House says a vicious and malicious attack is being mounted against the President, people can bet that something malicious and vicious happened or was said at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

The use of racial slurs surely is not shocking to the public. There is a great difference between the private thoughts and public words of many, many Americans. Bigotry is an unfortunate part of our national life. But the public does expect more of a president who has pledged to bring us together. Those private thoughts are as much or more a part of him as the conciliatory public statements.

While attempting to sugarcoat the racial references, the White House may find that the public, if it had to choose, would prefer an honest bigot.

Election: Barometer Of Interest

State Mexican-American Commission Director Stan Porras notes an awakening interest in government among Nebraska's Mexican-Americans. That interest is a sign of these times in which minority and other interest groups of all kinds have found that political clout is the way to get things done.

Five candidates of Mexican-American descent are running for school board or city council seats in Grand Island, Mitchell and Scottsbluff and according to Porras, "this is the first time in Nebraska's history that we've had so many candidates." Five candidates does not exactly represent a flood, but it is a heartening trend.

And while over the past few years minority and special issue groups have found relief in some measure through the ballot box, the average voter remains apathetic in large numbers. Now, that apathy is being attributed to the disenchantment with politics caused by Watergate.

Whatever its cause. Nebraskans are said to be somewhat apathetic about today's state primary and local elections. It's predicted that only slightly more than half of the state's registered voters will go to the polls.

It's May and the ballots feature interesting and important races and issues. There are contested congressional primaries in two of the state's districts; half of the Unicameral's seats are up for grabs; there is a tooth-and-nail fight for the Democratic lieutenant governor nomination and the fluoridation issue is on the ballot in 100 or more Nebraska communities.

It would be a pleasant surprise if Nebraskans turned out to be more interested in government than they are generally given credit for.

All For 10¢ A Stamp

WASHINGTON — Out of the higher postage that the public must now pay, Postmaster General Elmer Klassen has squeezed thousands of dollars to improve his living style.

He keeps two chauffeurs busy, at public expense, tooling his wife and himself around town. Their favorite driver put in so much overtime behind the wheel last year that he nearly doubled his government salary.

Several times a week, a chauffeur fetches Mrs. Klassen to dine with her husband in baronial splendor in the penthouse facility that he built at postal headquarters. This cost the taxpayers $50,000, which is a lot of postage stamps.

The taxpayers also pay a cook and a waiter to prepare and serve Klassen's meals with fitting elegance. Yet despite all this kingly treatment, the postmaster general still complains.

Not long ago, a stern memo went out from the front office. "The two-pedestal dining-room table delivered in the last few weeks for Mr. Klassen's use in the Postal Service is too massive," protested the memo. "Mr. Klassen stated that he wants a smaller table that can be expanded if necessary . . ."

The matter of the postmaster general's table was given top priority. Needless to say, the memo added, "the Postal Service will assume any additional cost involved in transportation, etc."

Last year, Klassen became bored with the two official Cadillacs at his disposal and ordered a fancy, new Lincoln Continental. In order to avoid channels, he had a trusted aide, Gen. Robert McCutcheon, handle the details of making the car over into a limousine. But the energy crisis made it awkward for government bigwigs to be seen shuttling around in gas-guzzling limos.

So Klassen quietly cancelled the Lincoln and ordered a more modest Chevrolet Caprice instead. But he is not one to carry economy too far. He ordered the Chevy seats ripped out and new power seats installed. The spokesman said the fancy seats were needed to accommodate Klassen's six-foot-five frame.

We recently reported that Klassen passed out expensive stamp albums to his friends at Christmas. We neglected to mention that the Postal Service also paid for two sets of Christmas cards mailed out by the Klassens.

The first design displeased the pampered postmaster general, because the crimson color was "funereal." He ordered another batch designed — at extra cost, of course, to the stamp-buying public.

These were delivered so late that Klassen had to pay his secretaries overtime to address the envelopes on a Saturday, so that the postmaster general could meet his own Christmas mailing deadline.

Still, the Klassen Christmas story isn't complete. He also ordered postal artists to design a special card for his grandchildren.

It's the public who pays, meanwhile, at the stamp window.

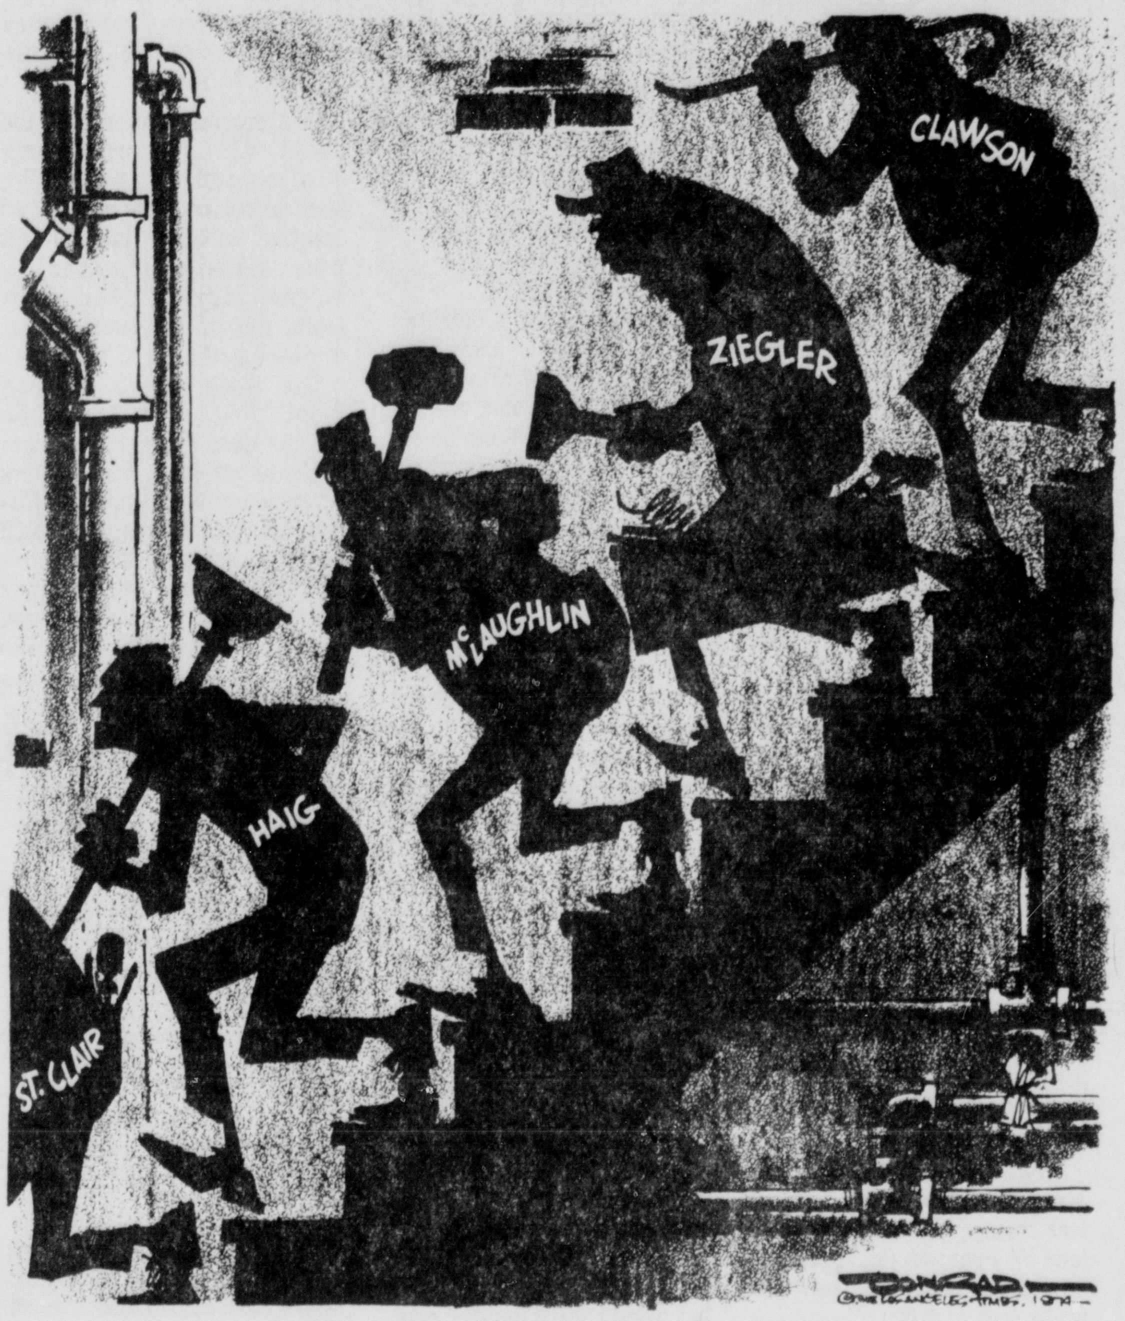
Committee To Unimpeach The President



Tech College Shored Up

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Education Writer

They were on edge, and rightly so.

Sixty administrators and supervisers in the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College had their jobs placed in jeopardy, when the governing board in effect fired every one in March.

The board's notice of no contract renewals until Area President Robert S. Eicher completed a reorganization of the area college represented a timely weeding out (apologies to Roger Welsch) of dead weight and duplication.

Although the Fairbury, Lincoln and Milford community colleges were merged last July 1 under an area concept for the state's vocational-technical schools, the three campuses were being operated much the same as in their previous single-unit status.

Neither the campus presidents nor the area staff had precedent or basis for a cohesive operation, and little aid from the fledgling area board.

After five weeks of study, Eicher recommended and the area board approved firing three persons under scrutiny, including Fairbury campus President Ivan Simpson. (A fourth individual not offered a contract renewal was retiring.)

Ousting four out of 60 doesn't outwardly represent much of an uprooting. But elimination — firing simply for reorganization's sake — wasn't the purpose of the board's directive.

Rather, it put Eicher where he belongs, firmly and unquestionably in charge as president of each campus. The campus presidents were renamed directors, eliminating confusion to outsiders that board members said resulted from having an area president and three campus presidents.

Eicher rightly pointed out he didn't care much what tags the board chose to place on the presidents, suggesting prestige titles were a hollow measure of importance and effectiveness.

Whatever they were to be called, Eicher's directors on the new college organizational chart retained their autonomy and responsibility to administer educational programs, held together and directed by the strengthened area concept. In the shuffle, the board more importantly okayed Eicher's proposals to reassign 11 employes to area-wide functions in the 15-county area.

At the same time, the board served notice that other administrators and supervisers had better step lightly with their renewed contracts. Board members warned if they decide they don't like the new operation, they'll try something else.

The board deserves credit for the brassy but warranted order to retread.

Brassy, because it ousted Simpson after seven years as president at Fairbury, based on objectives to his effectiveness, and it axed three other Fairbury positions, deemed unnecessary.

Warranted, because the board moved at a time when the direction of governing post-secondary education in Nebraska is flailing about, when none of the experts agrees yet on coordination.

Yet the board, it must be fairly pointed out, proceeds shakily at times. Case in point: The members voted last month to pay, almost belatedly, $1,115 in 1973-74 dues to the Nebraska Association of Technical Community Colleges.

Board Chairman Merle Ebers of Beaver Crossing objected, saying part of the dues goes to the pockets of lobbyists who wear too many other special interest hats. One newsman remarked in an aside that if the NATCC dues payment were to come out of the board members' pockets, they wouldn't have approved it as readily; that somehow, taxpayers' money is easier to spend.

Almost coincidentally, some board members themselves may be ousted, when voters in the primary election Tuesday will partially shape what will be the composition of the board this fall.

New members will be faced with continuing growing pains, light and heady, from dues payments to firings.

The board will lose the benefit of considered decisiveness from Don Ferguson of Lincoln, not running for re-election; Ferguson gets kudos for providing most of the vocal leadership and working stimulus for any straight-ahead direction the board has taken, including the reorganization.

Chairman Ebers offers another of the few outspoken board voices, forthright and honest among what has been called a "gutless" board.

Other members occasionally infusing thoughtfulness and reason into board proceedings are Howard Mannschreck of Fairbury, Loretta Draper of Plattsmouth and Alan Dunlap of Milford.

Whatever shape the voters make the board, its charge is clear. Robert Wekesser of Lincoln set a precedent of sorts when he told fellow board members — and they agreed — that they'll clean house again if that's what it takes to get on right with the business of educating.

JAMES RESTON

'Impeachable' Needs To Be Defined

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's best hope of avoiding impeachment and conviction now lies in the fact that there is no agreement in the Congress, the press, or even in the legal fraternity about what the grounds for impeachment of a president should be.

White House counsel is arguing that "the words 'treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors' . . . mean criminal offenses. Not only do the words inherently require a criminal offense, but one of a very serious nature committed in one's governmental capacity."

Counsel for the house judiciary committee, on the other hand, argues that this is far too narrow a definition, but that a president can be impeached and convicted if he does not meet his wider constitutional responsibilities and "take care" for "the over-all conduct of the executive branch which the Constitution vests in him alone."

The issue is not likely to be settled by trying to figure out what was in the minds of James Madison, James Wilson and the other architects of the Constitution, who knew a lot about human weakness and the corruption of power and secrecy but not much about tapes, MIRV's and other modern abominations.

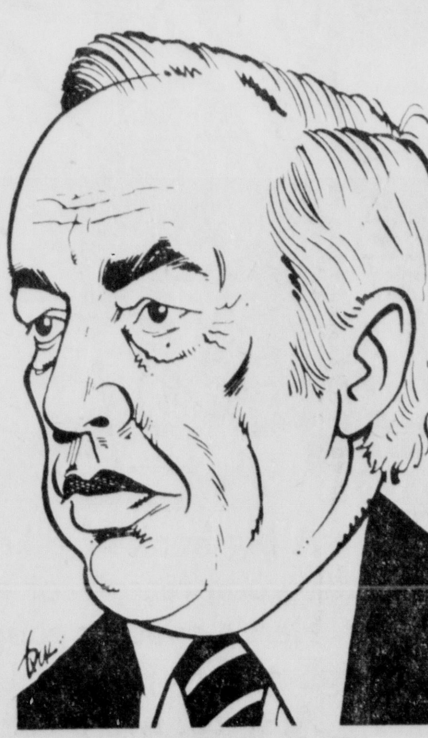
This does not mean that the constitutional precedents are not useful. They are a far better guide than Gerald Ford's conclusion, when he was trying to impeach Mr. Justice William O. Douglas, that an impeachable offense was whatever the House and the Senate consider it to be.

If the debate on what is impeachable is left to a controversy over the meaning of half a dozen words in the Contitution, or on the whim of members of the Congress, it could be incomprehensible and interminable. Left to historical precedent alone, it would probably end in a scoreless tie. Left to the test of others, it could deny the President a fair trial.

Accordingly, there may be no remedy for the members of the House and Senate other than to listen to the conflicting definitions of what is impeachable, study the evidence and have recourse to common sense in judging what is best, not for the past but for the future of the Republic.

The Congress will have to consider, for example, the White House argument that a president can be impeached only if guilty of a specific crime, and also Mr. Justice Story's argument that impeachment also applies to "political offenses, growing out of personal misconduct, or gross neglect, or usurpation, or habitual disregard of the duties of political office."

The fate of Richard Nixon may very well rest on whether the Congress accepts the narrow test that they must find him to be a "criminal" or the broader tests of misconduct, abuse of power, neglect of duty, subversion of the Constitution, etc.



JAMES ST. CLAIR
. . . argues for specific criminal offenses . . .

White House Counsel James D. St. Clair in his brief to the Judiciary Committee, Feb. 28, 1974 argues that broadening the definition of impeachment beyond specific criminal offenses "of a very serious nature" would be "destructive to our system of government," whereas the Judiciary Committee staff argues that a president can be impeached for "undermining the integrity of office, disregard of constitutional duties and oath of office, arrogation of power, abuse of the governmental process, adverse impact on the system of government. Clearly, it concludes, "these effects can be brought about in ways not anticipated by criminal law."

No doubt White House counsel can make a good case among the lawyers on Capitol Hill with this argument that you either have to prove the President a criminal or acquit him, but the common sense of the people may long for something better than a clever defense and hung jury.

After all, if you have to prove that a president is a criminal to get rid of him, and that anything less than criminal action is acceptable, then we're in trouble. For on this ground a vice president can be dismissed and disbarred for cheating on his income taxes and a president can be retained even if he cheated on the American people.

On this ground too, a president could be a drunk, or a liar, except under oath, or abuse his power or neglect his duty, or ignore his cabinet and leave things to men like Ehrlichman, Haldeman, Dean and Colson, who were not accountable to anybody but him. None of this is clearly "criminal."

The President is now counting on people's asking not what was right but what could he get away with, what was not clearly "criminal," and after all the clever tragedies of the last year, he is not only arguing that "criminality" is the only fair and constitutional test, but he is getting away with it much better than most people suppose.

All Lincoln To Benefit

Lincoln, Neb.

The Lincoln Education Association has scored a real breakthrough in regard to negotiations with the Board of Education. I can't recall a more successful package for the teachers than the overall benefits they bargained for and received this year.

A big pat on the back should be in order for Robert Peterson, the new executive director of LEA, and for the members of the negotiating team. These people stuck to their guns and proved that the LEA can be a powerful force to be reckoned with when it has top quality people working for it, under expert leadership.

I hope that this is only the beginning for the association in becoming a vital force in helping professional educators obtain their rightful place among other professions in our city.

A tip of the hat, too, for our current school board members who in recent years have called all the shots and have always managed to control these annual proceedings.

History has been made this past week and all of Lincoln is going to benefit by helping to keep outstanding teachers from leaving the ranks.

Danger All About Us

Lincoln, Neb.

This letter is in response to The Star's front-page article. "Know What Can Happen," printed May 3. I can sympathize with the motorcycle crash victim and his wife and family. Some of my good friends have cracked up and one was killed while on a cycle.

However, anyone who rides a motorcycle should understand and accept the possibility of a serious accident. A bike is not a toy. It's a piece of machinery designed for economical and a freer style of transportation. If potential riders can't hack the responsibility, they should never get on the bike. And once they get on and crack up, they have no right to complain. This is hard for a family to understand but they should respect the rider's decision, even when an accident occurs.

Pointing out the dangers involved in an activity is one thing; front-page notoriety is something else. No bus, truck, railroad, plane and most generally car-crash victim rates a front-page interview attesting to how dangerous their vehicle is. No phase of life is without danger — people still slip in the shower. We live and accept the dangers — or else we can be vegetables.

Too High A Price

Lincoln, Neb.

I am writing in regard to the proposed West Lincoln By-Pass that would intersect Wilderness Park in two places and would travel along the park's west edge. I feel that this by-pass would destroy the park's wildlife by destroying the habitat that the animals need to survive.

In this time of ultra-mechanization and super-highways, I feel it is important to preserve this small bit of wilderness that serves as a home for many wild animals and provides a place for me and others to escape the hectic life we lead among overwhelming concrete structures, impersonal organizations and masses of hurried people.

If Wilderness Park is destroyed in the name of efficiency, how soon will it be until the future generations of Lincoln can see "wild" animals only in cages in zoos?

I feel that it is important to preserve Wilderness Park and while a few acres would be gained by construction of the by-pass, it is impossible to preserve wildlife and wilderness with a super-highway passing through it and bordering the park. I hope that others who feel as I do will speak out and that the State Roads Department and the Lincoln City Council will reconsider building the proposed by-pass in the proposed location.

The by-pass may be needed but the destruction of the park is too high a price to pay for the convenience.

Defacing Park A Tragedy

Lincoln, Neb.

Wilderness Park is one of the only attempts at preserving a flood-plain forest area that I know of. This park, running through seven miles of Salt Creek flood-plain is nature at its natural best.

The park is already crossed by a number of streets and roads which have an unpleasant effect on the park in terms of noise and animal mortalities. To propose to run a four-lane highway across or even over the park at any point is ignorance of the facts. To propose to trade for land elsewhere is cheap bribery.

The destruction of this area by building of highways across the park because it is the shortest distance between two points or for "economic reasons" would be a tragedy for which the entire community must bear the blame if we fail to act now.

Aid, Comfort To The Enemy

Alexandria, Neb.

The Constitution states that the president shall be removed from office "on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors. Two definitions of treason are recited, one of which reads that treason against the United States consists of "adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

Who are the enemies of the United States? Are they not the politburo and Communist Party supporters against whom we maintain a $100-billion-a-year defense burden, unsure even that that sum buys us security? Has President Nixon given them aid and comfort?

In the summer of 1972, they were faced with famine. At that time Mr. Nixon caused to be sold to them about 393 million bushels of wheat which have actually cost them up to the present time only the interest they have paid.

Two years ago he stood in their Kremlin and in so many words told them they could do anything to their citizens and we would consider it none of our business.

Watergate stinks and may include high crimes and misdemeanors, but it is for positive and obvious treason that President Nixon should be tried, convicted and removed from office.

Stopping Destruction

Bennet, Neb.

I have been informed of the highway planned to go through Wilderness Park. Though my residence places me far from the area, I can appreciate all attempts to stop the highway from cutting through any section of natural woodland.

Mankind's so-called progress has deployed, depleted and destroyed a large percentage of the natural beauty around us. It's time to stop the wanton destruction of nature by superhighways and the like. People should take the time to drive around natural areas and maybe even stop once to appreciate the natural beauty.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Pleasures Of Raising Plants Extolled

By ROBERT PETERSON

Perhaps half of all older people have discovered the excitement of raising plants. Those who haven't should be pushed, persuaded and prodded to take up horticulture in some form, whether it be having a small garden or just tending a row of house plants on a window ledge. Plant life is the very key to human existence and warrants our fascination and study.

"Until I passed 60 I never realized plants could be so fascinating," an older woman told me yesterday at a garden show. "Observing plants and following their growth from insignificant seeds to a rich, leafy culmination has given me a new appreciation of the miracles of nature."

She went on to say that when she lost her husband she needed a new purpose in life and something to take her mind off her arthritis. So she decided to become an authority on house plants.

She dug, planted, pruned, mulched, studied and learned nearly everything there was to know about the more popular house plants. Today she has 48 potted plants on racks next to the sun-filled windows in her three-room apartment, and says she never feels lonely. She even talks to her plants at times, and is always inviting folks in to see her thriving specimens.

"When you mention house plants most folks think of that terrible rubber plant that used to be in Grandma's living room," she said. "But there are at least 60 attractive, inviting plants which can be easily grown in doors — many of which need little or no sun, such as dracaena, bromeliads, philodendron, ficus repens, fatshedera, oleander, episcia, coleus and hibiscus.

"Every home and office should have banks of living, breathing plants which symbolize nature itself and can transform impersonal rooms into home-like quarters which are alive and vital. Plants are particularly wonderful for infirm older people for they can bring the great out-of-doors to their very bedside.

"They may not be as responsive as animal pets, but they react in a positive way to good care and affection. When you treat them right they seem to demonstrate their gratitude by showing good color and creating new leaves and buds. As with animals pets, some give you trouble. Certain ones are stubborn and nonconforming and require extra patience and attention. It's not a static hobby. Each plant is different in its way and this is challenging. Yet they require little real work other than daily watering and occasional plant food.

"One of the pleasures of having plants is that you can give bulbs, seeds, cuttings and entire plants to friends and acquaintances. I haven't gone out and bought presents for anyone in years. I always give house plants and people seem very appreciative. They tell me it's a more imaginative kind of gift than handkerchiefs and scarves.

"Plants can also be profitable," she concluded.

Curtis Asked To Help Get Road Funds

By United Press International

Gov. J. James Exon has enlisted the aid of Sen. Carl T. Curtis. R-Neb., in trying to obtain additional highway funds for the state this year.

In a letter to the senator, Exon said the Nebraska Department of Roads has learned through the Federal Highway Administration (FHA) that cash payouts of federal highway funds at the national level are running ahead of original projections.

Because of that, the governor said, states which are able to claim immediate payments for the federal money already earned beyond their existing state-by-state obligational controls are in a position to receive additional funds at this time.

On April 18, Exon said, the Department of Roads advised federal officials "that we can immediately claim $15.6 million in reimbursement payments for Interstate Highway projects for which we provided advance funding by means of the $20 million bond issue in 1969. In addition, we advised the FHA that we can immediately claim some $900,000 in payment for miscellaneous projects on which we have earned federal funds."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Tuesday

Taurus persons usually respond to questions in a civilized manner. But Taurus is not easy to move, change or influence. These persons are set in their ways, often sure they are right and willing to bet on it. Taurus is Venus and the throat and the love of comfort, luxury and a heightened sense of sensuality. Barbra Streisand says she would rather be born under Taurus than any other zodiacal sign. Her sign? Taurus!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Perceive motives. Friendly gesture could be coverup for ulterior motive. Be ready and willing to initiate changes. Member of opposite sex could be romantic but impractical. You succeed now if mature enough to eschew false flattery.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20): Build toward goal. Your natural qualities surge to forefront. Persons inpositions of authority are interested in you. Be receptive, diplomatic. But also insist on knowing where you are going — and why. Another Taurus and a Libra figure prominently.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What appeared solid may actually be elusive. Know it and do some double checking. Perceive meanings, motives. Deal with Pisces, Virgo persons. You receive communication which fortifies beliefs and morale.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): This is presure point — the chips are down and money is in escrow. Indications are that you win, gain, elevate position. You have extra burden or responsibility, but you'll love every minute of it. Capricorn figures prominently. Money affecting partner, mate is also featured.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You find out things which ordinarily would escape your attention. You can get rid of burden not rightly your own. You will observe and learn. Aries, Libra persons are drawn to you. This is time to complete project.

own. You will observe and learn. Aries, Libra persons are drawn to you. This is time to complete project.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): New approach to work and health is featured. You improve relations with associates, those who share your interests. Much that had been considered lost is recovered. Dynamic person with fresh ideas wants to share. Be receptive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What had been repressed is released. You have more freedom to create, to imprint you own style. Follow through on hunch. Don't let conscious mind get in way of inner urge. Aquarian could play significant role.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Study Libra message for valid hint. What appears to be a restriction is due to boomerang in your favor. Conservative associate concedes major point. Be a gracious winner. You will be on more solid ground, more secure emotionally — and financially.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Relative could prepare sensational dinner. Enjoy yourself. You've earned the repast! Frank discussion will pay dividends. Truth will set you free. Know it and act like you are aware of it. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio persons figure prominently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Change is profitable. Guard possessions while in transit. Fast-talking individual may be trying to "pump" you for information. Tell what should be told — no more, no less. Message will become increasingly clear.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Bright colors are favored. Be conspicuous. Assert yourself — express opinions in direct, positive manner. Lead rather than follow. Family member is ready to make peace. Be receptive. Strive for greater domestic harmony.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Hospitals, institutions, clubs and organizations are featured. Co-operate in project designed to aid special charity. Visit persons confined to home. Avoid brooding. You are on brink of self-discovery — if you heed inner voice.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you can write and speak in compelling manner. You have insatiable curiosity. April was a very important month. June will see you beginning a new project. Gemini and Virgo persons play key roles in your life. You are an active person, aware of current events and a good reporter.

Plan your move well in advance, and solve problems later. Due to the gasoline shortage and lower speed limits, the long distance trucks are lining up loads more carefully so they can operate at full capacity and maximum efficiency.

The shorter the notice you give your mover, the more problems you will have receiving the date of moving which you request. Remember, when making a move, choose a mover in whom you can place your trust, and give him plenty of advance notice.

Conservative Fund Money To Stromer

By The Associated Press

Gerald Stromer's campaign for the Republican nomination for the 3rd District congressional seat is being partially financed by the American Conservative Union.

Stromer's campaign finance report filed with the secretary of state shows a contribution of $1,000 from the "Conservative Victory Fund." The address for the fund is listed as 422 First St. S.E., Washington, D.C. That is the address of a conservative journal of opinion called "Human Events."

Robert Latham, managing editor of the publication, said the magazine has not supported Stromer, but there was a very good chance the magazine would if he proved to be a conservative candidate.

Latham said the Conservative Victory Fund was managed by the American Conservative Union. He said it was not unusual for groups of the right to use each other's mailing addresses.

Latham said the fund was created so conservative Republicans could make contributions without turning them over to the Republican National Committee, which might give the money to liberal Republicans.

The Conservative Victory Fund has filed no campaign finance reports in Nebraska, according to the secretary of state's office.

The fund has filed no reports with the clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives since Dec. 31.

The reports in Washington show the fund raised $55,000 during 1973 and spent $42,800. Most of the contributions were small from widely dispersed areas of the country.

The largest contribution during the last third of 1973 came from a Duluth, Minn., man who gave $2,000. There was one contribution of $500 and two of $250. The others were smaller.

PACE Aid Is Returned By Waldron

State Sen. James Waldron, a Republican seeking the Congressional nomination from the Third District, has returned a $1,000 contribution from the Political Action Committee for Education (PACE) when it was learned the contribution may have been illegal.

John Lynch, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA), said Monday PACE, the NSEA's political arm, requested the $1,000 be returned after federal campaign laws were examined.

The contribution may have been illegal, Lynch said, because corporations may not contribute to candidates for federal office. PACE, Lynch said, is a political corporation, not a committee.

Had PACE been a political committee the contribution would have been legal, he said.

Lynch said PACE has not made any other contributions to candidates for federal office from Nebraska. PACE has contributed to several campaigns for state office.

Beet Growers Irrigating

Scottsbluff (AP) — Many beet growers, who have water available, are irrigating their crop due to continued dry conditions.

Great Western Sugar Co. is encouraging its growers to begin irrigating where water is available.

The dry conditions were reported through the North Platte Valley and in the Alliance area. Irrigation usually does not begin until mid-June.

The National Weather Service office at Scottsbluff said last month was the fourth driest April on record with moisture during the month totaling .35 of an inch. Normal moisture for April is 1.52 inches.

The service said the last moisture of beneficial amount was 1.68 inches received from the March 10 and 11 snow storm.

British Seize IRA Belfast Control Plans

LONDON (AP) — The British army has seized documents which reveal detailed plans by the outlawed Irish Republican Army to take over or destroy Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland, Prime Minister Harold Wilson said Monday.

Wilson said the documents contain "a specific and calculated plan" to occupy and control densely populated areas of Belfast and its suburbs "by ruthless and indiscriminate violence."

Wilson said he was "totally satisfied that these documents are genuine."

He told a hushed House of Commons that should those attacks fail, the IRA planned to conduct a "scorched earth policy," burning down large areas of the city as it retreated.

The British army seized the information in one of its most successful raids in five years of trying to keep peace in the British-run province of Northern Ireland. Army forces raided a house in Belfast which they said was the IRA headquarters in the city and found documents, maps, arms and ammunition and arrested Brendan Hughes, IRA Belfast commander.

The IRA wants to drive Britain out of the province, which has a Protestant majority, and unite it with the independent Irish republic to the south.

Wilson said the army also captured plans for the next round in IRA terrorist activities which were designed to foment sectarian hatred between Roman Catholics and Protestants.

Wilson said the documents will enable police to bring charges against IRA terrorists.

U.N. Official Eyes Fresh Approach

By H. J. ANDERSON
Star Staff Writer

International interdependence demands an "entirely fresh global approach" in which the United Nations "surely has an important role to play," Dr. Kurt Herndl told the 100-member audience at the United Nations Association 18th annual Presidents Banquet Monday night at the Nebraska Center.

Herndl, an Austrian, is director of the security council division of the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs, United Nations Secretariat.

The energy crisis and the Middle East conflict are only two examples of problems reaching into the whole world's economic situation, Herndl said.

"This interdependence is a reality which the sovereign states may be reluctant to admit," he said, but it calls for "a new spirit of solidarity" and a "reassessment of the states toward the UN."

Herndl quoted U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim as saying the U.N. is in a "crisis of committment by member states . . . policies of individual states still have greater weight than their desire to make the (U.N.) charter a reality."

Herndl said disappointment that the U.N. stems from "unrealistic and unreasonable hopes that were initially entertained" when the organization was formed 30 years ago.

Founders imagined a "world at peace, policed by cooperative powers," he said. The hopes were soon clouded, he said, with disagreements and Cold War.

But the founders could not have forseen the impact of decolonization during the 1950s, he said, which added such diversity to the world.

The U.N. can play a role in solving problems of overpopulation, poverty, hunger, and natural resource shortages, he said.

The first officers of the newly organized Nebraska Division of the UNA were installed at the banquet. They are: Dr. Wallace Peterson, Lincoln, president; Dr. Kenneth Wise, Omaha, first vice president; Dr. Otto Hoiberg, Lincoln, second vice president; Dr. Harold Blostein, Kearney, third vice president; Mrs. C. E. Brown, Omaha, recording secretary; and Miss Irma Warta, Lincoln, treasurer.

Directors will be Mel Beckman, Col. Gerald Adams and Kurt Freiburg, all of Omaha; and Simon Galter, Glenn Feather and Mrs. James Sellers, all of Lincoln.

Lincoln chapter officers were also installed. They are: Dr. Donald Miller, president; Dr. Wallace Peterson, vice president; Miss Irma Warta, secretary; Mrs. N. M. Allpress, treasurer; Glenn Feather and Dr. Thomas Huxtable, past presidents.

Judge Opposes 55 MPH Limit

Harrisburg (UPI) — A Banner County associate judge believes the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit is unconstitutional and has dismissed five cases since May 6 to back up his point.

In addition, Judge Robert Downer has written a five-page opinion on the unconstitutionality of the law.

The judge said he wants the law to be tested in the Nebraska Supreme Court and the state attorney general to issue guidelines on its administration.

Downer said the Nebraska Legislature accepted the federal mandate, not because it was a law, but the state faced the threat of losing federal highway funds if the speed limit wasn't enacted.

The judge said the Legislature is the lawmaking body and cannot transfer that authority to the executive branch, namely the governor or the president.

"If we are wrong," Downer said, "we will act according to the law, but if I have to sit in judgment of these people I feel I must be justified in issuing them a fine.

LAP Board Okays 3-Month Budget Bid

The Lincoln Action Program (LAP) will present a three month budget request of approximately $42,500 to the Lincoln City Council Monday May 27th.

The LAP board voted approval of the budget request Monday night.

LAP is not assured of funds past June 30 when money for the Office of Economic Opportunity runs out. There will be an estimated $24,877 balance on that date, but that money may have to be returned to the government.

A spokesman for the low-income board members who had agreed as a block not to support the budget request in April because of dissension in the staff said they now supported the budget and the problems "seem to be ironed out."

LAP executive director Jessie Payne said the budget request does not include funds for the Manpower program because of what he termed Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's feeling that the requirement for those services was already being met by existing agencies.

The board also voted to ask the County Board to support the portion of community development outreach work done outside the city.

The board will also be asked to provide money for swim tickets for children living outside the city limits.

In other matters the board discussed ways of improving attendance at board and committee meetings.

The group decided that board members will be asked which committees they want to serve on and an attempt will be made to give everyone their first choice. The chairman will be elected by the members of the committee.

Board member Ken Bratt said he refused to attend meetings of the community development committee because of the actions of Carl Kopines, committee chairman.

"He'll ask a question and then he'll give you the answer," Bratt said, "and if you don't go along along with him, look out."

M. E. Handler Dies: Services Slated Tuesday

Omaha (AP) — Manning E. Handler, Omaha civic and business leader, died Sunday.

He was vice president of Stern Brothers investment bankers and manager of the Omaha office until he retired last month.

Mr. Handler was president of the Nebraska Investment Bankers Assn. in 1937. He also was a councillor of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben and a board member of Temple Israel and Children's Hospital.

He was known as one of Omaha's leading contract bridge players and played in tournaments throughout the nation.

Surviving are his wife, Lee, and a daughter, Mrs. Milton R. Adler of Santa Fe, N.M.

Services will be Tuesday at 11 a.m. at Temple Israel.

Stroke Meeting Set

The Southeast Nebraska Stroke Club will hold its monthly meeting at the Madonna Professional Care Center in Lincoln, 4 p.m. next Tuesday.

Police Station Streaker Foiled At Wrong Turn

COOS BAY, Ore. (AP) — Darius Oaks' plan was to streak through the local police station clad only in boots, then dash outside to his friend's waiting car and speed off, leaving the desk sergeant immobilized with disbelief.

It didn't work that way. Unfamiliar with the layout of the station, Oaks took a wrong turn into the chief's office, where the sergeant trapped him, handcuffed him and invited him to spend the night.

Monday morning, Oaks, 23, tried to reconstruct in court the humor and innocent fun of the early Sunday prank. The judge didn't buy it.

He convicted Oaks of indecent exposure, fined him $53 and sentenced him to 10 days in jail.

Governor Says No To Ms. Use

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Make of it what you will, Ms. or Miss or Mrs., but Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr., is fed up with the use of Ms.

"The practice of using Ms. instead of Miss or Mrs. is to be discontinued immediately," said a recent memo to state offices in Thomson's behalf.

President Elected

Ann Barton has been elected president of the Lincoln Epilepsy Council. Other officers include Ralph E. Garner, vice president; Pat Clark, corresponding secretary; Kile Johnson, recording secretary, and Nancy Deany, treasurer.

Liquor License Ceiling Is Debated

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City lawmakers eyed a proposed change in the city's liquor license policy Monday which would give thirsty Lincolnites seven more lounges in which to quench their thirst.

At issue is Councilman John Robinson's ordinance to raise the ceiling on licenses from 135 to 142. Under the plan, one license would be granted for each 1,150 residents.

The proposal came under fire from the Lancaster County Beverage Assn. and a local lounge operator, while receiving the support of a former liquor license applicant.

Under present city law, the number of licenses is set at a flat 135. Four additional licenses have been granted to Pershing Auditorium, the Municipal Airport and to Holmes and Pioneers golf courses.

Under Robinson's formula, the city would gain seven new licenses based on the planning department's 1973 population figures of 164,100 people.

Estimated 1974 figures put Lincoln's population at 167,000 or 168,000. The maximum number of licenses thus allowed would be 145 or 146, using the formula.

Based on one license for every 1,150 people, there is now one license for every 1,237 residents.

Attorney Mike Alesio, representing the Lancaster County Beverage Assn., opposed the plan.

Heavier Police Burden

Alesio also maintained any increase in licenses would put a heavier enforcement burden on the police department.

On questioning from Councilman Max Denney, Chief Joe Carroll acknowledged he would need additional officers to check the bars "to meet the same degree of enforcement. Or we can lower the degree of enforcement with the same number of men," Carroll said.

The chief said the additional number of officers needed would depend upon the location of the new license holders. He indicated less men would be needed if the lounges opened up in the central business district.

The study conducted by the beverage association was termed "completely irrelevant" by University of Nebraska law professor Wallace Rudolph. He said the study did not focus on the crux of the problem — the so-called "good will price" attached to the transfer of licenses.

"And that's the real problem here," Rudolph said.

Several months ago Rudolph represented the Lincoln Raquet Club in its unsuccessful attempt to obtain a Class C license to sell liquor to the club's membership. The quota was filled. It was at that time that he suggested a review of the city's overall liquor policy was warranted.

Said Offered Two

Since he appeared before the council, Rudolph said he has been offered two licenses for $20,000 each, a price which he charged was exorbitant.

By tying the license quota to population, the transfer price would drop to a more acceptable $5,000 range, he said.

Rudolph said, "I don't think the limitations should protect the existing owners."

The $20,000 price tag attached to licenses was disputed by James Ludwig, operator of a lounge at 136 N. 14th.

Ludwig charged the $20,000 to $30,000 figures quoted in press reports "is severely overstated." He said he has never heard of any licenses selling for that price.

He said he feels there are an adequate number of lounges in Lincoln to serve the community.

Legally, the licenses are non-transferable. City Atty. Dick Wood noted, however, that whenever a municipality places a lid, "there's going to be some value placed on the license."

The council is scheduled to act on the ordinance next week.

Shopping Centers Hearing June 3

The City Council Monday shoved a public hearing on five shopping center applications back from next week to June 3.

The postponement was made to allow a new zoning category for shopping center development to be enacted prior to the council's consideration of the specific applications themselves. The district is J-1 Planned Regional Commercial.

The lawmakers held public hearings Monday on the new zoning category and a corollary application requiring a special use permit for shopping center development in the J-1 district.

The zoning requirements will have the effect of giving the city greater control over the step-by-step development of centers located on at least 30 acres of land.

The J-1 district would require the applicant to comply with environmental standards relating to noise, emission, dust, odor, glare and heat.

And, whenever any application "substantially deviates" from the Comprehensive Plan in terms of location or size, the applicant is required to submit an environmental impact statement and a market analysis. The deviation would be determined by the planning director.

Attorney Dave Pierson, representing developer Hub Hall, who is proposing a center at 56th and Old Cheney Rd., suggested several revisions in the ordinance.

Attorney Chauncey Barney, for Ericson Development Co., which is proposing a center at 27th and Old Cheney Rd., suggested language be added to permit land zoned J-1 to revert back to its original zoning if the developer fails to build the center within a certain time.

If the council creates the new zoning classification next week, the ordinances would go into effect June 10.

In other action, the council killed Councilman John Robinson's proposal to spend up to $5,000 to renovate the old Willard School building in West Lincoln.

That action came after Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said a vacant barrack at the Lincoln Air Base will be used to temporarily house people coming to Lincoln for the Wounded Knee trials.

Robinson had proposed that the Willard School be renovated for housing, which prompted a round of criticism from West Lincoln residents last week.

Only Robinson voted against killing the measure. Councilwoman Helen Boosalis said she had no reservations about spending city funds for housing, but said she thought the Willard School location was not the proper site for such housing.

In other action, the council authorized the expenditure of $4,460 from the Northeast Radial street construction fund to pay for relocation assistance for Mr. and Mrs. David Hauswald. The agreement with the Hauswalds was entered into in August, 1972, prior to the freezing of all radial funds in April, 1973.

In its action two weeks ago killing the radial as it is presently designed, the council also indicated its willingness to pick up properties in the right-of-way in hardship cases.

In further action, the council approved the filing of an application with the Federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration for a technical study grant for $32,000.

The study will focus on Lincoln's mass transit needs for the next five to ten years. That study is required to obtain additional federal dollars for new buses for the Lincoln Transportation System.

Finance Director James Mallon said $8,000 in city matching funds will be needed to conduct the planning study.

In other action the council:

City Officials Still Oppose Closing Off Of Old Cheney

City officials Monday reaffirmed their opposition to a Department of Roads' plan to close off Old Cheney Rd. on either side of 56th.

That proposal is suggested in the department's design for Hwy. 2 reconstruction.

City Council members and the mayor pointed out, however, that Old Cheney Rd. is the main east-west arterial along the southern fringe of the city.

Public Works Director Bob Obering said Old Cheney Rd. "is one of our most important southern routes" and reaffirmed his staff's support of an alternate to loop Old Cheney Rd. around to the south of the 56th and Hwy. 2 intersection.

Public Works Director Bob Obering said Old Cheney Rd. "is one of our most important southern routes" and reaffirmed his staff's support of an alternate to loop Old Cheney Rd. around to the south of the 56th and Hwy. 2 intersection.

Traffic Engineer Bob Holsinger said two proposed changes of zones for major regional shopping centers also compound the traffic problem if Old Cheney Rd. were to be dead-ended at 56th. A center is proposed at 56th and Old Cheney Rd. and at 27th and Old Cheney Rd.

Obering said the centers would generate between 25,000 and 30,000 vehicle trips a day, causing major access problems at the 56th and Hwy. 2 location.

Ellis Tompkins, an engineer with the department, said if the shopping center were built at the 56th location, "this intersection is going to break down."

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis pointed out that the shopping center proposals "have been kicking around for around a year."

Tompkins said "our message is, the (Old Cheney Rd.) loop is the city's responsibility, not the state's."

City officials also objected to plans to relocate 17th along the Department of Roads's complex to the west of the existing street.

Council members agreed to other Hwy. 2 alignments proposed by the department.

Tompkins asked for the meeting to try to resolve differences on the project so that the Department of Roads can present plans to the highway commission.

Southeast Nebraska Storm Damage Light

Funnel clouds dipped to the ground in Gage and Pawnee Counties early Monday night, with damage limited to power lines, trees and grain bins.

The southeast Nebraska storm toppled trees and power lines across Highway 4 at the Gilbert Richardson farm a mile east of Lewiston, located in northwestern Pawnee County.

Damage was also reported at the Dawson Wischmeier farm, 2½ miles southwest of Lewiston, and at the nearby Andrew Thomas farm where a grain bin was damaged.

Golf ball size hail fell at Tecumseh, according to the National Weather Service.

Tornado clouds were also sighted in the Virginia area in eastern Gage County.

Lincolnites Said Good Neighbors By Ak-Sar-Ben

Three Lincoln residents were among 93 people and 20 groups elected for 1974 Good Neighbor Awards at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The competition, in its 31st year, recognizes unselfish, neighborly acts.

Jan Leeper was commended for organizing a Those Interested in Diabetic Youth program, for families, teachers and school nurses who work with diabetic children.

Julius and Myrtle Young were commended for their care of Dr. John G. Neihardt, former Nebraska poet laureat.

Council Accepts Resignation Of Mayor-Elect

Cincinnati (UPI)—The Cincinnati City Council has approved a motion to formally accept the resignation of mayor-elect Gerald N. Springer, who quit after nis name was mentioned in connection with a prostitution investigation.

The 30-year-old Springer, who would have become mayor Dec. 1, was then reappointed to the council.

Springer had submitted his letter of resignation from the council April 29 and later admitted he had vieited prostitutes twice.

Runsas Look Great, Taste Even Better

by GRACIA SIEB
Star Staff Writer

"I don't care how they look, just so they taste good," Mrs. Kathy Wagner of Roca said as she mixed up a batch of runsas.

But they looked great, and warm out of the oven, they tasted even better.

"This is an old recipe that my grandmother and mother used," she explained. "They used to just throw in the ingredients. I figured it out by measurements, but now I find myself doing the same thing."

Offering this family recipe and several helpful hints, Mrs. Wagner noted, "The secret is getting them pinched right."

RUNSAS

Dough

1 large potato
1 c. flour
¾ c. sugar
2 T. salt
2 eggs
¾ c. milk
¾ c. oil
2 pkgs. dry yeast
½ c. warm water

Slice peeled potato and boil until soft. Strain potato through sieve, pour hot potato water with mashed potato over sugar and salt. Stir until dissolved. Add milk and oil to mixture. Pour over flour, which already contains eggs and yeast dissolved in ½ c. water. Work dough until all ingredients are mixed.

Knead dough and add flour if needed. (Sticky dough is easier to pinch together.) Knead to workable texture, not too dry.

Let rise 3½ hours. Punch down and let rise for 2 hours. Punch down again and let rise for 1½ to 2 hours. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness.

Filling

1½ lb. hamburger
1 large onion coarsely chopped (the more onion the better)
2 small heads of cabbage coarsely chopped
Salt and pepper to taste (with cabbage you can't use much pepper, because the taste becomes very strong when it is cooked, Mrs. Wagner advised.)

Brown hamburger until redness is out. Add chopped onions, salt and pepper. Add to this the chopped cabbage and cook until cabbage is tender. Don't overcook! Drain off excess juices.

Cut ¼-inch thick dough in 5 by 5-inch squares. Spoon about ½ cup of filling onto each square. Bring corners together at top and pinch edges together.

Place upside down in greased pan. Bake immediately for 25 to 30 minutes at 375° (temperature for glass pans).

Yield: 18 runsas.

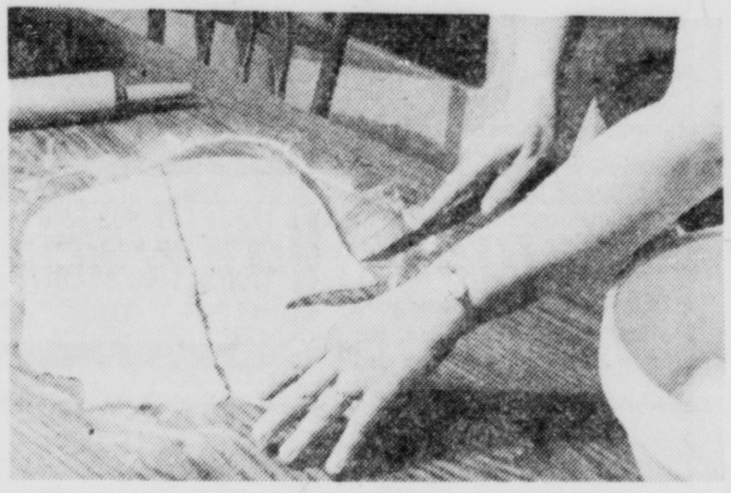
"Actually, you can make them any size you want," Mrs. Wagner pointed out, "but the 5 by 5-inch squares work the best for me.

"Also, be sure to drain the cabbage, because if it is too wet the runsas won't stick together.

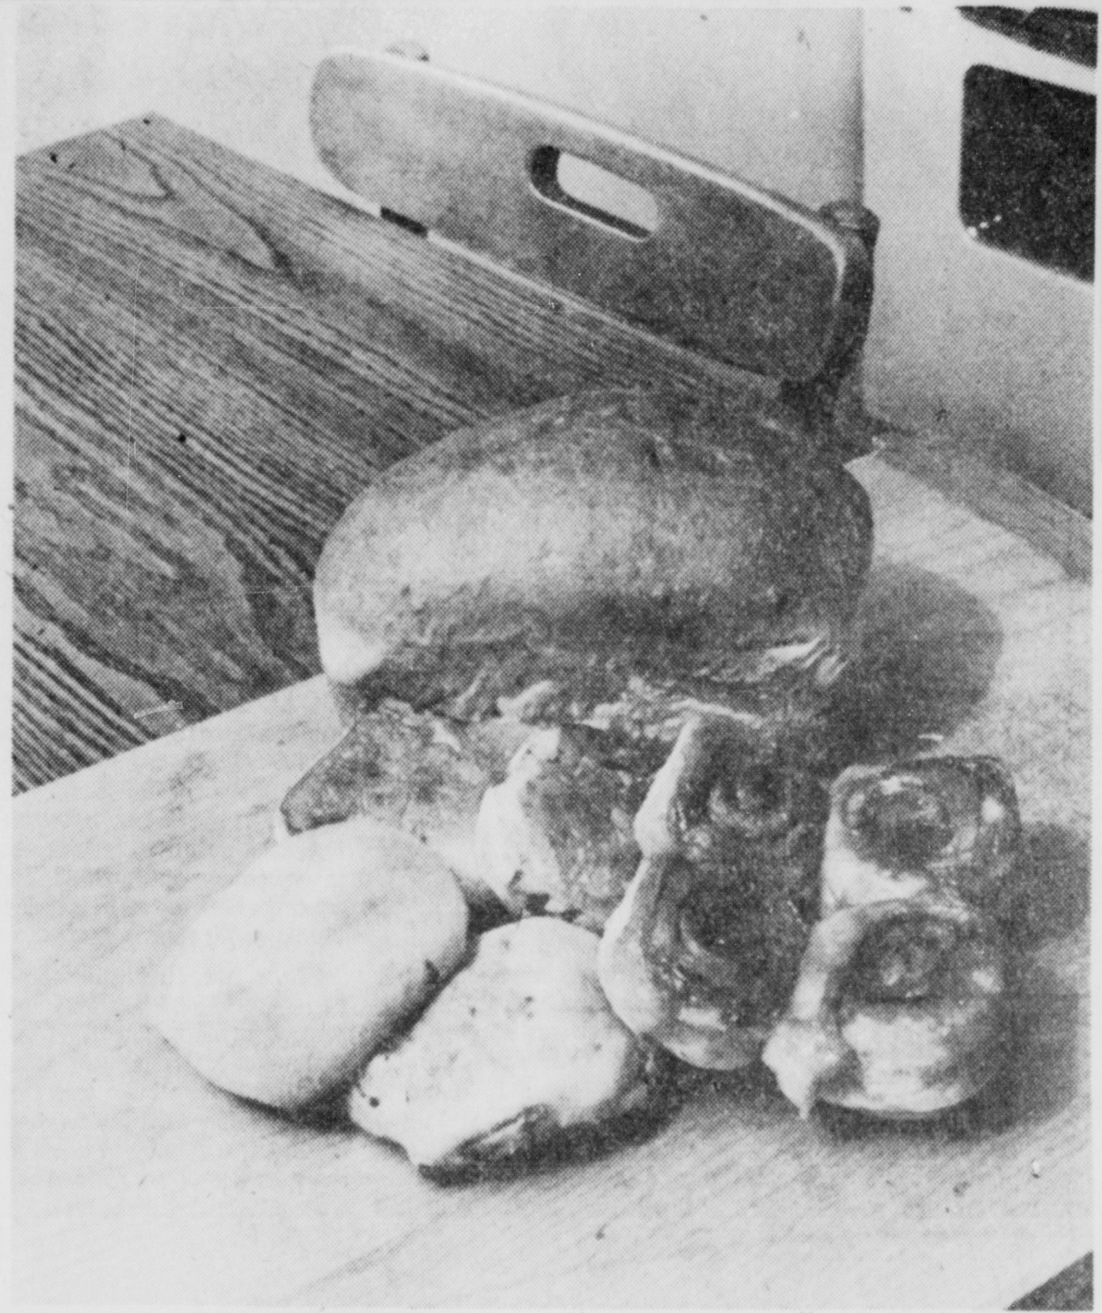
If you've ever diapered a baby, you can do it," Mrs. Wagner added when talking about sealing the edges of the dough. "Just bring up the four corners and pinch the sides. Don't get the edges wet or it won't stick together.

"I like to bake in the glass pans because everything seems to brown better," she commented, adding "and with the leftover dough, you can make cinnamon rolls, bread, coffeecake; and I use it to make cloverleaf dinner rolls too, because it is a sweet dough."

ON FLOURED SURFACE . . . Mrs. Wagner rolls dough.



CUT . . . dough into 5 by 5-inch squares.



FINISHED RUNSAS . . . and cinnamon rolls, breads, made with leftover dough.

BAKE . . . runsas in 375° oven.

How Do Women Fare?

Possibly as many as 50,000 men each year earn a college education through athletic scholarships. How do women fare? Figures are hard to come by, acknowledges the Reader's Digest in its January issue, but it's likely that fewer than 50 American women hold athletic scholarships.

Grandma Finds a Gold Mine— in Plates!

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one grandmother of modest means bought one exceptional plate for $25 in 1965 that now sells for $1,050, and purchased another at $10 in 1969 that now brings $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report telling what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 1080T Sunset Ridge, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request by May 25, 1974.

While a 4-year-old boy may spend more time with his mother, it's his father's behavior that seems to shape the child's motivation and ability to learn, a new study shows.

'Fathering' Is Important To Sons

A major Catholic author just published an article in a national magazine suggesting that perhaps it was time to abolish Mother's Day, the traditional posies and put-mom-on-the-pedestal celebration just past. At the same time, a national magazine's current cover story centers on the "fathering instinct."

The articles point up the changing attitudes going on about child-rearing which question whether too much emphasis has been put on mother and too little on father.

Now a university study has disclosed that while a four-year-old boy may spend more time with his mother, it's his father's behavior that seems to shape the child's motivation and ability to learn.

The father, who responds positively to his son's needs, praises his achievements and involves him in decision-making, is enhancing the boy's intellectual development, the study indicates.

At the same time, the father may show this same kind of "nuturing," behavior toward his four-year-old daughter without affecting her learning ability at all, according to the study. For girls of this age, the mother's influence is dominant.

Mothers and fathers may have equal but different responsibilities, it seems.

The study of 180 fathers and four-year-olds provides some important new information for behavioral scientists seeking correlations between parental conduct and children's learning, says Prof. Norma L. Radin of the University of Michigan school of social work, which conducted the study.

Previously, Prof. Radin had hypothesized that "a parent's 'nurturant' behavior — that is, warmth, responsiveness to the child's needs and feelings, the use of praise and reward, and inclusion in decision-making — could have a positive impact on the child's learning ability.

"At first we studied preschoolers with their mothers," she reported. "We found that in white families, a mother's nurturant behavior enhanced cognitive development in daughters but had no apparent effect on the learning processes for sons.

"Now we find the same pattern holding for fathers and sons. Apparently, four is an important age for sex role identification."

Each father was interviewed for about 90 minutes at home in the presence of his child. They were informed that the research was based not only on the questions but on their behavior toward their child during the interview.

Twenty-six kinds of father-child interaction, such as meeting or ignoring the child's needs, engaging him in conversation, consulting, warning, threatening, bribing or correcting him were coded.

There were fathers who drew their sons into the conversation, answered their demands, asked their opinions and praised their response. Theirs were the sons who scored high on the standard achievement tests administered later.

"Among fathers and daughters, especially in middle class families a less positive behavior pattern was observed," research associate Ann Epstein reported. "The fathers would sometimes respond to their daughters' questions and demands and sometimes ignore them. They would alternate reasonable requests with unexplained orders or threats. These inconsistencies did not occur with fathers and sons."

The researchers speculate that the daughters are receiving a "mixed message" from their fathers. The fathers display warmth, attentiveness and respect one minute and a lack of confidence or indifference the next. The contradictory nature of their behavior may be the reason they have no impact on the girls' cognitive development.

"Remember that we only studied father and children at the age of four," Radin stressed. "Our findings might be very different if the children were in elementary school or high school."

Although white families of lower, working and middle class have been included in the latest study of a series, Prof. Radin says that correlations between nurturance and cognitive development are much stronger in the white middle class.

The studies indicate that a variety of child-rearing patterns exist in different social classes. These are still being evaluated.

However, several general conclusions have been reached:

- The father's role in early child care has been largely neglected and underrated.
- Fathers are ready to take larger roles in child-rearing; Those, in the study, representing a cross section of educational backgrounds and income groups, were involved and eager to discuss their children.
- Fathers have high ambitions for their daughters as for their sons and expect both to go to college.
- Persons developing parent education programs should consider designing different programs for men and women.
- It's the quality, not quantity, of time that a parent spends with his child that is important.

Concluded one of the reasearchers who worked on the study, "There is something about nuturing behavior that makes a child feel good about himself, feel good about the world, and eager to master it."

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

When Sylvia first learned to finesse, a brand new world opened up for her. She didn't fully comprehend what constituted a finesse, but that didn't stop her from deploying this new resource with all the enthusiasm of a child enamored of a delightful new toy.

Nor did it take long for the members of the club to learn of Sylvia's extraordinary conception of a finesse. She played in the club duplicate one night soon after her introduction to the finesse and held the South hand when this deal came up.

At most tables South arrived at four hearts and West led a diamond, taken with the ace. Declarer then led the ace and another trump, East producing the nine followed by the ten.

At this point the various declarers pondered deeply whether to play the queen or follow low. But whatever they played, they invariably went down one, for West took the king and led three rounds of diamonds to put South out of his misery.

But Sylvia, also in four hearts, made the contract in her own inimitable fashion. She won the diamond lead and entered her hand with a spade in order to make use of her latest weapon—the finesse.

She led the queen of trumps! West covered with the king, won in dummy with the ace, and Sylvia played another trump.

East won with the ten but was helpless. He did as well as he could when he cashed the jack of trumps and returned a spade, but the rest of the play was automatic. Sylvia disposed of two of her diamonds on dummy's clubs and was the only one in the field to make four hearts.

Let Dad Have His Fun

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I have a most unusual father. He's close to 80, but looks 60, and he knows it. He never misses an opportunity to tell his age because everyone raves about how "young" he looks, and he eats it up.

Whenever Dad goes to a wedding or a party where there's music he gets carried away and thinks he's Fred Astaire. Everyone assumes he's tipsy, but all he drinks is soda pop.

He's a handsome man and a good dancer, but not good enough to put on a solo performance, which he always does. Mom died five years ago, and Dad remarried, and his wife can't control him worth a hoot.

My problem: My son is being married soon. Should I take Dad aside and ask him to please refrain from making a donkey of himself at the wedding reception? Or should I let him do his usual act and try to remain calm? All our relatives and friends know what a show-off he is but the bride's family has never seen him in action.

I love my father, but when he's on, I blush like crazy, a smile freezes on my face, and I clench my teeth until my jaws ache. What to do?

HIS DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: An 80-year-man who looks like 60 and thinks he's Fred Astaire (and on soda pop yet) is entitled to have a little fun. Let Dad have a good time. And — thank heavens you aren't shlepping chicken soup to him in a rest home every day!

DEAR ABBY: I would like a wrestling partner. Someone who would like to wrestle for fun and exercise. I am not looking to be a champion.

I am 66 years old, in good health, and would like to stay that way as long as possible. I've never wrestled but that type of exercise appeals to me. Where should I look?

WANTS TO WRESTLE

DEAR WANTS: Go to the YMCA (if you're looking for a male partner — otherwise, go to the YWCA) and ask if there is a wrestler who would like to work out with you. If there is, you won't have to twist his arm.

DEAR ABBY: Here is a problem that has our whole family divided: Shirley is married to Robert. Shirley's sister is married to Charles. What are Robert and Charles to each other? I say they are brothers-in-law. Someone in the family (of which I am a member) says Charles and Robert are NOT related to each other at all.

If that is true, I cannot understand why Robert's children call Charles "Uncle," and Charles' children call Robert "Uncle."

Please rush your answer as this problem has thrown a wet blanket over our family reunions for years.

ALL IN THE FAMILY

DEAR ALL: Technically, a brother-in-law is either the brother of one's wife or the husband of one's sister. However, it's customary for husbands and wives to accept their spouses' relatives by marriage as their own.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — A fringe benefit in this pillar-to-post life is a collection of handsome courtesy cards.

The cards entitle you to little extras — the hotel manager calls: "Glad to have you with us. Everything all right?"

I said: "Fine. Except the bathroom's out of soap."

He said: "We can't have that, can we? I'll send some right up."

I went out in the hall and got some from the room maid. But it's the thought that counts. Right?

I got a "preferential" card from a big hotel chain. "When you check in, present your card. The management will be alerted. You need not check out. A bill will be sent to you."

I called the PR and said: "Does this give me a commercial discount?"

He said: "Well, no. But it entitles you to royal treatment." (Royalty hasn't done very well in the last half century. But I didn't mention that.)

A month later I checked into a chain hotel. The clerk was entranced with the card. "I've never seen anything like it before. What does it mean?"

I said: "Do you give a commercial discount?" I gave him my business card.

He said: "You should have given me this in the first place. 20%."

Lazy, crazy days around Snug Harbor. Spring blows through the open doors. Poppies spring up on the hillsides.

I wrote out a VIP card for the cat.

"Here cat, take this to the kitchen and they'll open you a can of cat food."

I have a card from a big auto rental firm. "This five-star card is being sent to you with our compliments. It is the highest rating credit card . . ."

I used to have a three-star card so it was certainly a promotion.

I phoned the public relations man and said: "Does this carry a discount?"

He said: "No, it is a courtesy card. Why a five-star card holder in Rome couldn't get a car — we were all out. And the manager gave him his car!"

I said: "I already get a 20% company discount."

"I'm glad to hear it," he said courteously.

It's a plastic world, mates. A PR man told me: "What happens is some vice president thinks up an idea: 'Why don't we give our most valued customers courtesy cards. Like they could show the card and the bartender gives them a lot of attention.'

"The thing is," said the PR man, "this word doesn't drift down the line. A letter comes to the manager. He says: 'What are those people in New York going to think of next?'

"If the word does get down to the bartender, he can't figure how to give one man more attention without enraging the rest of the people at the bar.

"So pretty soon everybody just ignores it. Hopes it will all blow away. Which it does."

I spread all my cards on the coffee table: One is solid gold from a gambling club. One is embossed with gold elephants.

They carry grand endorsements by presidents and chairmen of the boards. They say "VIP" and "Preferential" and have five stars and golden printing.

I don't know what you can do with them except pick a door lock. Like the detectives do on TV.

14-2 Was Tough In 1942

Among the many events in track and field in which improved performances have been fantastic, the pole vault probably leads, but the dazzling new heights aren't all because of better athletes.

Athletes today probably aren't impressed to hear that Harold Hunt set a Nebraska school record of 14 feet, 2 inches back in 1942. Vaulters today, the good ones at least, by-pass that height.

A look into the Big Eight Yearbook reveals there have been 130 jumps over 16 feet in conference history, including 20 of 17 feet and better.

One of those 17 footers, Terry Porter of Kansas, will be among the 13 1973 outdoor track and field champions competing Friday and Saturday in the annual conference meet at NU's Ed Weir Track.

Every track buff knows why vaulters are going higher than ever. It is the use of the fiberglass pole, which even today is being improved and there are predictions of a 20-foot vault in the not too distant future.

Back when Hunt was a trackman at Nebraska, he used a bamboo pole to win both the indoor and outdoor championships for three consecutive years.

Here recently to accept a "Distinguished Service Award" from the university, Hunt recalled an amusing incident on a trip to a meet in Minneapolis. Seems someone threw a cigarette out of the car which had two bamboo poles tied to the side. The cigarette lodged under the wrapping and the pole burned up before anyone knew it.

Such a thing isn't possible with the fiberglass pole, or the steel pole it replaced. Fiberglass, however, can snap and give you a sinking feeling, just as bamboo poles did at times.

Pole Worth three to four feet

Bob Richards and Don Bragg, stars with a steel pole, are so convinced the fiberglass pole is worth three feet extra, maybe four, that each has offered anyone in the world $10,000 to clear 15-6 with a steel pole.

Steve Smith, who has cleared 18 feet with fiberglass, recently turned to the steel "to aid his form" (maybe win $20,000) and says 15-6 with it is phenomenal . . . amazing.

Richards' best with steel was 15-5 and the all-time record is 15-9¼ by Bragg. The first world record set with fiberglass was by former Oklahoma State vaulter George Davies, who cleared 15-10¼ in 1961. Now that performance isn't even listed in the Big Eight yearbook.

Porter will be just one of six Big Eight vaulters here with bests of 16 feet or over this weekend. One is Doug Laz of Iowa State. His father, Don Laz, was one of the nation's standouts a few years back at Illinois. He has cleared 16-11.

While the pole vault event offers some interesting sidelights in the meet here, there's another one that could also be exciting.

It's the mile run, which surprisingly enough has never been timed in under four minutes in a conference meet. There have been 23 sub-four minute miles run by league athletes, but never in the outdoor Big Eight.

Jim Ryun, who has 16 of the sub-fours, did it in 4:58.8 in 1967 in the Big Eight Indoor at Kansas City.

Best performance in the conference miler this season has been by Nebraska's Bob Unger, who did 4:00.2 against Colorado State a couple of weeks ago.

Even though Nebraska doesn't figure to contend for the team title, a sub-four minute mile by Unger would add some luster to the meet.

Tickets to the meet are on sale at the NU ticket office at $4 for a season ticket, $2 for Friday's session and $3 for Saturday's finals.

Hill Rises On Money List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dave Hill's victory in the Houston Open moved him from 44th to 14th place among the year's golf money winners, according to figures released Monday by the PGA Tournament Players Division.

Hill's triumph Sunday, which was worth $30,000 and was his first since the 1973 Danny Thomas Memphis Classic, raised his earnings for 1974 to $53,196.

Johnny Miller continued to lead the money winners with $192,877. Buddy Allin was second with $103,964. He was followed by Hubert Green, $100,597; Jerry Heard, $90,417; John Mahaffey, $90,207; Leonard Thompson, $88,929; Lee Trevino, $84,394; Jack Nicklaus, $83,676; Dave Stockton, $75,839, and Hale Irwin, $75,520.

Brewers In AL East Lead

. . . May, Mitchell, Briggs Slam Home Runs

Compiled From News Wires

Dave May, Bobby Mitchell and Johnny Briggs slugged solo home runs and the Milwaukee Brewers moved into first place in the American League East Monday night with a 9-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

May opened the game with his fifth homer of the baseball season, a shot into the right field stands off Ross Grimsley, 4-3. The Orioles got the run back off winner Ed Sprague, 1-0, in the bottom of the first when Rich Coggins singled, moved to second on a walk and raced home when a passed ball by Milwaukee catcher Darrell Porter ricocheted off the backstop and up the third base line.

The Brewers moved in front again when Mitchell led off the second inning with his second homer of the year and they made it 3-0 on Briggs' sixth homer with two out in the third.

Milwaukee added two more runs in the fourth. Bob Coluccio tripled and Porter singled to bring Doyle Alexander in from the bullpen. Pedro Garcia forced Porter, then he stole second and scored on Robin Yount's single.

The Orioles got a run in the bottom of the fourth on Brooks Robinson's single and one in the sixth on Boog Powell's homer.

The Brewers scored again in the seventh on Don Money's single, in the eighth on Garcia's hit and wrapped it up with two runs in the ninth. Al Bumbry had a sacrifice fly for a Baltimore run in the seventh.

The victory raised Milwaukee's record to 14-13 for a .519 percentage and dropped the Orioles into second place, just .002 further back. Cleveland, with a 4-1 victory over Boston, is third at .516.

Sprague, 1-0, making his first start in nearly two years, picked up his first victory as a Brewer. He worked the first six innings before Tom Murphy got him out of a jam in the seventh. Sprague was tabbed for runs in the bottom of the fourth on Tommy Davis' single, an infield out and Robinson's hit and Powell's first homer of the year, a shot that bounced off the glove of the leaping Coluccio and over the the center field fence.

Yount's double set up Money's run-scoring single in the seventh, Scott's single and a sacrifice in the eighth preceded Garcia's RBI hit.

In the ninth, May was safe on second baseman Bobby Grich's error, then Money singled and Briggs walked to load the bases before Scott hit a sacrifice fly and Ken Berry singled for the two runs.

Murphy replaced Sprague in the seventh after Robinson singled and Earl Williams walked and, after an infield out, he gave up Bumbry's sacrifice fly.

In other American League action, Cleveland defeated Boston 4-1; Minnesota topped Chicago 7-5, and California bombarded Texas 8-4.

In the National League, the Cincinnati Reds beat San Francisco 4-1; New York beat St. Louis 5-3, Atlanta edged San Diego 7-5, and Los Angeles struck Houston 8-4.

Dusty Baker drove in four runs with three singles and a homer to aid the Braves over San Diego and hand the Padres their sixth consecutive loss.

The Braves took a 2-0 lead in the third inning on Craig Robinson's single, Ralph Garr's triple and a single by Baker.

The Padres scored a run in the fifth on Derrel Thomas infield hit, a balk and an error but the Braves made it 4-1 in the sixth. Baker led off with his fourth homer of the season and the other run scored on a walk, Rowland Office's infield hit and an error.

The second error of the game by San Diego shortstop Enzo Hernandez and Baker's second single accounted for a run in the seventh. In the ninth, an error by Rich Morales, who replaced Hernandez, preceded Baker's third RBI single.

The Padres got a run in the seventh on Bobby Tolan's bases-loaded grounder. Willie McCovey hit his first home run of the season in the eighth and Dave Roberts got his first in the ninth, when San Diego also got its final run on Willie McCovey's bases-loaded walk.

John Ellis hit a three-run homer in the first to back the combined four-hit pitching of Jim Perry and Tom Buskey, pacing Cleveland over Boston.

Johnny Bench drilled his sixth home run of the year and Don Gullett and Pedro Borbon teamed up to pitch a six-hitter Monday night, leading Cincinnati past San Francisco.

Cleon Jones and Jerry Grote slugged two-run homers to power the Mets over Bob Gibson and the Cardinals.

Red-hot Jimmy Wynn drove in three runs with a single and a sacrifice fly to pace the Dodgers past the Astros for their sixth straight triumph.

Wynn, a former Astro, increased his major-league leading RBI total to 34 by igniting a five-run fifth inning with a two-run single and scoring another run in the sixth with a sacrifice fly.

Cesar Cedeno's sixth homer of the year in the fourth inning gave the Astros a 1-0 lead, but the Dodgers loaded the bases in the fifth on Bill Russell's infield single, a throwing error by pitcher Dave Roberts and a walk to Bill Buckner.

Wynn, coming off a 13-for-18 series at San Diego, followed with a line drive single into right-center. Wynn's fly ball to center in the sixth brought in Dave Lopes with the sixth Dodger run.

Andy Messersmith allowed eight hits in going the distance, but the Dodger righthander was tagged for a pair of homers in the ninth before registering his fourth win in as many decisions. Doug Rader hit a solo homer in the ninth for the Astros and pinch-hitter Ollie Brown hit a two-run shot.

The victory increased the Dodgers' lead in the National League West to 5½ games over the Astros.

Controversy Hits Indianapolis 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Wally Dallenbach, an easy-going, up-and-coming businessman from New Jersey, found himself in the middle of a raging controversy at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Monday.

The dispute centers around an over-size, unconventional turbocharger Dallenbach used on his Eagle race car last Saturday in nailing what, for the moment, at least, is a front row start in the May 26 500-mile race.

It wasn't the four-lap speed of 189.683 miles per hour that he recorded. He had been expected to do that.

Also, the turbocharger he mounted on his engine was held to be legal. Trouble is, he now has been told he'll have to use it in the race, and that's the core of the controversy.

Dallenbach and his chief mechanic, the highly capable George Bignotti, want to change to a more conventional turbocharger for the race. United States Auto Club officials say they can't.

Frankie Del Roy, USAC's top technical authority, says to change now would be a violation of the rules. Something about, you can't change a car's configuation—engine or chassis—between qualifying and the race.

Most of the other drivers, mechanics and car owners agree with Del Roy. And they are looking expectantly at a hearing on the controversy scheduled for Tuesday morning.

It all goes back to a rule USAC placed into effect at the start of the 1974 championship season. The rule provides that before qualifying, each engine-turbocharger must be fitted with a "pop-off" valve, about three inches in size, and a quarter-sized "pressure plate."

These gadgets limit the amount of "boost" the turbocharger can use in forcing air and fuel into the engine. The idea is to encourage mechanics to "detune" their engines so that the end result will be less horsepower, better fuel consumption, and, hopefully, lower speeds.

Bignotti admitted that the turbocharger Dallenbach used developed such a thrust that the pressure bypassed the "pop-off" and "pressure plate" devices and gave his driver considerably more boost than the other qualifiers enjoyed.

Del Roy says allowing Bignotti to revert to the conventional turbocharger the other drivers are using would mean a change in configuration. He doesn't think his ruling will be overturned.

Dallenbach's speed was two miles off that of A.J. Foyt, who clocked four laps at 191.632 m.p.h. to gain a stranglehold on the pole position.

There's a final qualifying round Saturday and it is possible that both Foyt and Dallenbach can be dislodged from the front row. There is a group of 11 drivers who still are in the original qualifying lineup, held over from last Saturday because of rain.

They include 1973 winner Gordon Johncock, also a Bignotti-team driver, and Mario Andretti, the 1969 winner and three-time national champion.

Meantime, top practice speeds Monday were posted by Johnny Rutherford, who is not eligible for the pole, 191.693 m.p.h.; Foyt, who posted 190.234 on what he insisted was his "race setup"; Bobby Unser, who also is already in the field, 190.516; Al Unser, still without a berth, 187.891; Gary Bettenhausen, 186.760; the already qualified Mike Mosley at 184.350; and Andretti, with 184.804.

In all, 25 drivers took part in the practice session.

Adams' Behrens Eyes Class D Discus Mark

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Rex Behrens hasn't exactly been inactive lately, but a lack of competition certainly can't help his chances in the Class D-1 district track meet Thursday at Fairbury.

Behrens this season has thrown the discus more than 11 feet beyond the existing state Class D district record.

But having been unable to compete for almost three weeks could hurt the Adams standout's chances to break the state's second oldest district record.

Byron's Ivan Grupe flipped the discus 153-9 and the mark has withstood 16 years of challenges. A 22-5¾ Class C long jump by Loup City's Irving Thode in 1949 is the only record older than Grupe's.

Behrens achieved 165-3½ March 25 at Adams, but hasn't been close to that effort since.

"I guess everything was just right that day," says Adams track coach Ken Cook. "He had another throw of 163.

"Then the next week," adds Cook, "Rex hit 152-5 in about 20 degree weather at Fairbury. I thought he'd hit 160 again without much trouble. But he's been right about 150 ever since."

Rex Behrens
Seeks District Record

A lack of competition may be a big factor in Behrens' effort to improve. Since Adams' senior class was dismissed two weeks ago, he assumed a summer job, helping his dad with heavy construction work.

"They were leveling land the other day at Red Cloud," notes Cook. "By the time district rolls around, he will have missed competing for about three weeks.

"It's a problem a lot of small schools face," according to Cook. "The time element doesn't help.

"Rex has been working out at home," adds Cook. "He's a good competitor. It'll take a good chuck to get it out as far as the record, but he'll give it a good try."

Behrens, 6-3 and 195, was a starting back-middle guard on Adams' once-beaten football team last fall and a standout forward on the Hornets' state tourney basketball team last winter.

District competition this week includes:

Class A — Thursday at Norfolk and Bellevue; Friday at Millard and North Platte.

Class B — Wednesday at Fairbury Junior College; Thursday at Plattsmouth, Plainview, Seward and Grand Island Northwest; Friday at Nebraska Western (Scottsbluff).

Class C — Wednesday at North Bend, Wood River and Nebraska Western (Scottsbluff); Thursday at Doane College (Crete), Wisner, Adams Central (Hastings), Midland College (Fremont), Plainview and McCook.

Sports Notes

Ivory Crockett, 24-year-old Southern Illinois graduate, set a new world record in Knoxville, Tenn., when he ran the 100-yard-dash in 9.0 seconds, shaving a 10th of a second off the 11-year-old world record.

Oklahoma state amateur golf champion David Edwards of Edmond has signed a national letter of intent with Oklahoma State University.

Doublet, the horse on which Princess Anne won the European three-day show title in 1971, broke a leg and had to be destroyed.

Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia beat Aly Dawudy 6-2, 7-5, 6-3 to give the Yugoslavs a 3-2 victory over Egypt in the European Zone B Davis Cup tennis semifinals.

In Zone A Davis Cup competition, Francois Jauffret of France overpowered Peter Pokorny 6-4, 6-2, 6-3 giving France an unbeatable 3-1 lead over Austria.

Veteran Eddie Perkins, the World Boxing Association's No. 2 welterweight contender, pounded out a unanimous decision over Orient welterweight champ Ryu Sorimachi of Japan in a 10-round fight in Tokyo.

Former Cincinnati baseball slugger Ted Kluszewski, one-time track star Stella Walsh, and ex-softball standout Ed Tyson have been elected to the National Polish-American Sports Hall of Fame.

NWU Receives Player Bid

The Nebraska Wesleyan baseball team has received an intivation to face Mankato State and Central Missouri in a three-way double-elimination regional playoff match for the NCAA College World Series to be held in Omaha in June.

Wesleyan, 23-12 in the season and undefeated with a 10-0 record in the NAIC, will play host college Mankato State on Friday with Saturday and Sunday scheduled for the remaining games.

Consumer Safety Test For Synthetic Turf

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Products Safety Commission said Monday it will issue subpoenas for National Football League injury data if club owners do not furnish it voluntarily by Friday.

Sargeant Karch, attorney for the NFL management council, which represents the owners in collective bargaining with players, said the information will be turned over to the commission by the deadline, but he indicated it may not be complete.

"We hope it will be satisfactory to the commission and helpful in their study," he said in an interview.

The commission, under pressure from the NFL Players Association, has been trying since last January to get the team owners' injury figures in an attempt to determine whether synthetic turf is more hazardous than natural grass fields.

The players' petition last year for a federal freeze on new installations of artificial turf was rejected by the commission, which said it could find little evidence that artificial playing surfaces cause more injuries.

Karch said the NFL owners will turn over some of their base 1969-72 injury data which went into a Stanford Research Institute report covering turfs, playing equipment and other factors.

The Stanford report concluded: "Injuries occur more frequently on synthetic turf than natural turf when minor injuries are included, but no difference between the two is observed when gradients of injury severity are analyzed."

In other words, Karch said, players suffer more skin burns on artificial turf.

The players contend that synthetic turf, installed in 13 NFL stadiums, aggravates knee and ankle injuries, cartilage and ligament tears, burns, infections, fractures, concussions, heat prostration and blistering.

Karch noted that among the players' 57 demands in contract talks this spring was a ban on further artificial turf installations, and a requirement that present artificial turf be replaced with grass when it wears out.

He said the Players Association had been denied the same injury data to be furnished the commission.

"The owners feel that the players are trying to use the commission to serve their collective bargaining purposes," he said.

Some of the information to be turned over to the commission "may be in the form of physicians' reports," he said, and the commission indicated it would try to preserve the confidentiality of such information "to the degree that it can under the Freedom of Information Act."

Karch said the owners won't furnish 1973 injury figures Friday, but has given them to Stanford for inclusion in a new report expected to be completed in a few months.

Preakness Field Small

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The 99th running of the Preakness Saturday will feature the best of both worlds for those entered in the second jewel of the Triple Crown.

Like the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness will be the richest race in the history of the event. But, unlike the Churchill Downs rush-hour mob scene, the Preakness aspirants will not have to contend with a thundering horde on the Pimlico racing strip.

The probable starting field for the Preakness stood at 13 Monday, enough to make this year's total purse the largest ever, but small enough to forestall the possibility of having to split the race into two divisions.

Cannonade, the winner of the 100th Kentucky Derby, is a 9-5 favorite to capture the $156,500 winner's share of what will be a $203,000 purse, if there are 13 starters.

Cannonade's trainer Woody Stevens said the Derby champ will arrive at Pimlico Tuesday afternoon from New York. John Olin's three-year-old worked six furlongs in 1:10.4 Sunday at Belmont Park.

Monday's chief Preakness development saw the withdrawal of Bushongo, the winner of the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park. The son of Mongo came out of the Blue Grass Stakes lame and was forced to skip the Derby. Trainer Frank Bonsal said there would not be enough time to have Bushongo in top form by Saturday.

Heir To The Line, winner of last Saturday's Preakness Prep, was returned to New York Monday, but only for a short shopping spree. The son of Majestic Prince, winner of the 1969 Preakness, will return to Pimlico Thursday with a new pair of shoes.

Hudson County, the surprising runnerup in the Derby, is the early second choice for the Preakness at 9-2 with J.R.'s Pet third at 6-1.

Rube The Great, Little Current, Silver Florin, which is being supplemented at $10,000 for the Preakness and helping to boost the purse to record proportions, and Heir To The Line were quoted at 10-1.

All Game and Destroyer have been listed at 12-1, with Neopolitan Way and Jolly Johu at 20-1. Kin Run and Buck's Bid were placed in the mutual field, also at 20-1.

No Celebration If Unser Wins Indy 500?

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Even if Bobby Unser wins the Indianapolis 500 mile race, there won't be any big celebration in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

But the guys who make toilet seats and steering wheels in half a dozen plants around Detroit probably will drop their tools, head for the nearest pub and bend an elbow or two.

Sort of in Ozzie Olson fashion.

Olson, who lives in the fashionable Detroit suburb of Grosse Pointe, owns the Olsonite Eagle Unser will drive in the 58th running of the richest automobile race in the world.

A polished multi-millionaire who is the sole owner of several corporations Olson doesn't believe in celebrations.

Oh, when an order comes in for a million more toilet seats that carry the slogan "Tops for Bottoms" or when there's a sudden surge in the demand for steering wheels, there might be some backslapping and shoulder pounding among a half-dozen aides who help Ozzie run his industrial empire.

"Celebration? Party is a better word," Ozzie says in a soft voice. "I have a list of party subjects that reaches from here to over there. Quiet little parties, of course, the kind that break up say around 3 a.m." Olson, a slender, impeccably dressed, outgoing person, is among the best-loved and most respected men in auto racing.

He has been the chief financial backer of Dan Gurney's All-American Racers, developer and builder of the Eagle race cars that have become the standard fare in Indianapolis type racing in the past seven years.

"Would you believe that Ozzie and I have never had a contract?" former driver Gurney asks. "We started out with a handshake, and that's the way it has been over the years. Ozzie and I never quibble over money, or how our racing team operates."

Just how much money Olson has poured into racing, most of it through Gurney's organization, neither will say. Insiders say Gurney himself has a $150,000 yearly personal contract with Olson.

But the overall amount is sizeable, so much that it is the only expenditure for advertising that the Olsonite Corporation and its subsidiaries allocate for the year.

A sportsman of note, Olson formerly was part owner of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League. He was a prime prospect for a franchise in the new World Football League but turned it down.

"I've become too much of an auto racing fan," Ozzie says. "We use our participation in it in many ways. The hourly-paid workers in our plants love it, and they take pride in the way our cars perform. It's a morale booster. Hundreds of them wear All-America Racers jackets to work each day."

As in his dealings with Gurney, and in the personal retainer he pays Unser, Olson's workers also operate without a contract.

Olson maintains a mansion in Grosse Pointe, not far from where the Fords and the other auto moguls live. He belongs to their clubs, their executive business groups, and, like the others, maintains a sizeable yacht on Lake Michigan.

But he says he's happiest at the race tracks. At Indianapolis in May, he rents a sumptuous suite in a downtown hotel, surrounded by an entourage of Olsonite executives and customers.

On qualifying and race days, Olson puts together a fleet of buses to transport his group to the track, accompanied by police escort.

Olson, who will say only that he is "fiftyish," and Gurney got together in 1967, the result of a casual conversation in Detroit with an automobile designer.

Olson already had the auto racing itch — and a lot of "scratch" — and Gurney, then one of the country's top drivers, had the know-how. There was a brief conversation and a handshake.

With his cars carrying the Olsonite brand for the first time, Gurney went on to win his first United States Auto Club race two weeks later. Before he retired, he won six others.

Unser, now 40, joined Gurney in 1971. With his flying Eagle, he set speed records at almost all of the tracks where the Indy cars run. This year, Unser has won two of the three championship events and finished second in the other.

He has a high starting position for the May 26 Indy race, and, some say, a very good chance of winning it.

Olson thinks so. Already, the latch string is out for a horde of "guests" from Detroit, including some of the country club set from Grosse Pointe.

But the after-hours doings on race days, if Unser wins, won't be a celebration. It'll be a party.

Tulsa Tops Omaha, 7-4

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Tulsa scored six runs on six hits in the top of the ninth inning Monday night to take a 7-4 American Association baseball win.

Oiler pitcher Greg Terlecky played the waiting game, going the distance to get his fourth win in as many decisions.

Omaha hurlers Mark Littell and Eddie Bernard were tough until the ninth. Littell giving only three hits in four and one-third innings of work. He left after being struck by a line drive. Bernard sailed along on one hit until the top of the ninth.

With one down, Bernard gave up a run on a walk and a double by Ed Kurpiel. Omaha Manager Harry Malmberg then opted to bring in ace reliever Jim Foor, who had won four straight without giving up a run.

Foor was touched for four consective singles.

That started the parade, which was aided by an error.

District C-1 Title Won By Paulsen

Doug Paulsen of Friend led all qualifiers Monday in the C-1 District golf tournament held at Pioneers Park.

Paulsen's 84 was two strokes better than the next four qualifiers for the state meet. Shooting 86's were Doug Ottersberg, Wymore Southern; Steve Graves, Waterloo; Ray Horner and Dave Paulsen both of Friend.

Placement of three individuals on the qualifiers list enabled Friend to top team qualifiers for the state meet with a 344 total. Wymore Southern qualified for state with 376 while Waterloo's 411 placed third and gave them a berth at the state meet.

New Municipal Golf Course Being Proposed . . . Again!

Ike's View

by Randy Eickhoff

If everything goes right, Lincoln golfers just may have a new golf course to challenge within the next two years. But if wishes were horses, beggars would ride. That new golf course has been a subject of controversy for the past five or six years.

Once again, Don Smith, director of city parks and recreation, has made the new golf course proposal for Mahoney Park part of his budget.

"We're in the process of trying to get our budget taken care of right now," Smith says. "This has been a proposal for the past five or six years."

For anybody playing golf, it is readily apparent that Lincoln does need an additional course. Right now, all public courses in Lincoln are playing to capacity.

"Golf in Lincoln has been on the increase for the past couple of years" Holmes park and city pro Bob Schuchart says. "We are playing to our capacity now and the play is still increasing.

"We could use another golf course to help even out the play," he adds. "I think that if we had another course that one would also be playing to capacity in no time."

One of the reasons for this is that everyone seems to want "prime time." They all apparently want to play at 8 a.m. Saturday morning and 7:30-9:30 the rest of the week. Holmes Park is now the busiest golf course in Nebraska with Pioneer Park rating in the top five.

The average play this time of year for Holmes is from 270-275 golfers per day with summer averages hitting on or over 300. Trying to shuffle that many golfers over a single course in a day is practically impossible, but Schuchart still manages to do it.

"We do have a few slack periods, but we can usually have them filled in no time," he says. "We start taking reservations for Saturday on Tuesday and by the end of the day the early times are all sewn up."

The businessman who wants an early tee time before going to work and the better players all favor the early starting times. But the slower players during the day can clog up the works. Could they be staggered, sandwiched between the good golfers?

"Everybody tends to play with golfers of equal capability," Schuchart says. "That gives you a group with a lot of poorer players in it and they hold up the groups behind them."

Another course would help spread those slow groups around so they wouldn't all choke up the courses now in operation.

The crowded courses have also forced many to seek membership in one of the country clubs in town. But even those have been restricted to just so many playing members.

"Another golf course would definitely help," Hillcrest pro W. A. "Bunny" Richards says. "Right now our membership is full and we have people on a waiting list. The crowded courses are forcing them here. If the public courses were not so tight for play, we probably wouldn't have the demands we have now.

"This is pretty indicative that Lincoln needs another public course," he says. "In a good solid day, we'll even run 30 minutes late but we marshall our golf course to help speed up play."

If the new course proposal is turned down again, this may force the present ones to adopt similar measures.

One such measure would be the adoption and enforcement of a slow play accountability card system under which the low handicap player in a group is responsible for maintaining the play of his group and the one ahead of them.

If neither conforms to the time element involved, the low handicap player would turn in a report to the golf committee whereby they would be censured and not allowed ideal times for play in the future.

A few other adoptions that could be made are:

— installation of slow-play checkpoint signs establishing two our hour time limits for each nine.

— placement of 150 yard markers from green to aid club selection.

— allow a putting ball to eliminate cleaning and wiping time.

— establish a lateral boundary rule to permit dropping two club lengths from the spot where a ball goes out of bounds rather than returning to the tee for a second shot.

"We have applied for a federal loan for outdoor recreation that would help us build the new course," Smith says. "For a first class course which would include the clubhouse, maintenance shed and the course, it would cost close to $1,200,000.

"We have asked for $395,000 in this year's budget but that hasn't gone through as yet," he continues. "According to the loan, the federal grant would give us 75 per cent reimbursement on a 50 (federal)-25 (state)-25 (city) basis."

Smith also indicated that the golfers themselves will put up $117,000 for the new course. This would come from the 35 cent capitol improvement fee that each round at Holmes and Pioneer produces.

"Even though the state and federal government may approve the loan, I believe that we would still spend the full amount we have request in our budget," Smith says. "That would allow us to construct an 18 hole course but prices on everything changes every day.

"We have made this one of our top priorities, but this budget hear is the hardest I've had since I came here nine years ago. There are just so many needs."

According to a study made in 1966 by the Federal Recreation Department, Lincoln would need two additional courses by the year 1985, but Smith says the city could have used one additional last year.

"We have preliminary designs by Floyd Farley of Oklahoma City (who designed Holmes) so we can start whenever we get the word," Smith says. "But that will still take a good deal of time.

"The ideal time for seeding a new course is in the fall as that would give us one growing season before summer. But we would still have to wait another growing season so we couldn't allow play on it until the following August.

"But if we get started by this August, then it will probably take two years to get the final designs and work completed. That's two more years."

Two years of crowded courses, waiting for tee times that have been set ahead because of slow play and wondering if membership in a country club would be a worthwhile investment.

With everybody deciding to take up golf, the courses are getting more and more crowded each day. Already this year Holmes has put 400 golfers through on a single day. More are in sight.

$3 Million Suit Filed

San Francisco (UPI)—Attorney Melvin Belli is suing the state bar for $3 million on grounds it suspended him for 30 days in violation of the U.S. Constitution.

Police Prepare Sketch Of Man In Webb Slaying

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said Monday that police artists have made a composite drawing of a man being sought for questioning in connection with the death of Patricia Webb.

Douglas said that the man is presently being sought merely as a material witness in the case.

The composite drawing may be made available for publication by news media after he checks out "legal ramifications," Douglas said.

The drawing was made about a week ago from descriptions by witnesses who saw the man in the Adult Book and Cinema Store at 140½ N. 11th where the 24-year-old woman worked.

Police reportedly believe the man may have been the last customer in the store the night the woman disappeared.

Her body was found April 20 on a farm near Hallam. She had been shot 10 or 11 times with .22-caliber and .25-caliber weapons.

Webb, of 3015 N. 68th, had worked for the State Patrol as an undercover agent in drug cases until about 10 days before she disappeared April 18.

Gauger Turns Over Probe Results

In response to an inquiry by William Swearingen on warrants paid by the county for electric motor work, Lancaster County Commissioner Jan Gauger said Monday that she had completed her investigation and referred the matter to the county attorney.

Swearingen, at last week's county board meeting, charged that motors are being repaired for the county on a "call basis" rather than by bids and that the cost of repair exceeded the cost for a new motor in one instance.

Mrs. Gauger said that she had checked the four warrants involving Colin Electric Co., of which County Board Chairman Robert Colin in president, specifically referred to by Swearingen in a letter on the matter requested by Mrs. Gauger.

She said she had turned her findings as well as the letter from Swearingen over to the county attorney and would await a reply from that office.

However, she said it was her understanding that the statutory limit of $2,000 for business with the county by a county commissioner relates to work directly contracted with the county.

"Colin Electric Co. has motors arriving daily from firms such as those noted on these warrants with no knowledge of the origin of the work," Mrs. Gauger stated.

A revolutionary new Interest Plan!

NBC'S Rate Watcher Loan

It can save you money on the money you borrow!

National Bank of Commerce introduces a brand new, long overdue type of installment loan — the Rate Watcher. It's a service that rewards you for prepaying on your loan by reducing, to a minimum, the interest you pay. With a Rate Watcher Loan you can actually save money on the money you borrow:

- Because interest is not added to the principal in advance. It's figured each day on the remaining principal balance.
- Because by prepaying at any time, you can reduce your loan balance and the amount of interest you pay.
- Also there's no penalty fee or late charge if your payment is delayed, though interest does continue to accrue on the unpaid principal balance until payment is made.

A Rate Watcher Loan is easier to keep track of, too. Each month you receive a two-part statement showing the principal balance of your loan.

The next time you need to borrow money — for an auto, vacation, appliance, or any other personal need — come in and ask about a Rate Watcher Loan.

In the meantime, remember who offered it to you first.

Truck Traffic Across State Varies From 'Lots Slower' To 'Same'

Truck traffic through Nebraska Monday varied from "lots slower" than normal to "about the same," a check of truck stops over the state revealed on the first day of a proposed nationwide shutdown.

Drivers generally seemed to be taking a "wait-and-see" attitude to determine how many join the shutdown and whether those who go on the road encounter violence, according to spokesmen for the trucking industry.

Dave Shoemaker, manager of Shoemakers Truck Stop, 4500 West O, said business was as usual there Monday. He declared some truckers indicated they would go ahead and drive while others were "afraid of a brick being thrown through their windows," and won't attempt traveling.

A check late Monday afternoon with Grant's Truck Stop on Interstate 80 near Waco revealed no truck had stopped there "in the last two hours." It was slow there all day, a spokesman said.

At the Wood River Truck Plaza, located on I-80 and Highway 11 near Wood River, truck traffic was reportedly slower than normal for a Monday.

Truck traffic was "lots slower" at Odessa's Landmark 66 Travel and Truck Stop, while things were "about the same" at Conley-Detlefsen Truck Stop at North Platte.

According to an Associated Press dispatch, Ben Butler, president of Hunt Transportation of Omaha, said independent truckers who haul for his company were continuing to run.

Butler said sentiment against the strike was running high among drivers he talked to. He said they were not prepared to strike and had not recovered financially from the February strike.

Traffic was reported near normal at the Bosselman Truck Plaza at Grand Island. Manager Chuck Bosselman said "the truckers keep asking us what's going on."

Meanwhile, members of the North Platte-Western chapter of the Nebraska Independent Truckers voted Saturday for a shutdown. But the chairman, Richard Peterson of Hershey, said the vote at the North Platte meeting was not specifically for the strike that started Monday.

Peterson agreed that a strike might get the results wanted by the truckers, but added that the group needed more organization nationwide.

Don Mulder of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Independent Truckers, said he would recommend a Nebraska shutdown if violence occurred in neighboring states.

Mulder said Saturday's vote was significant because of its opposite results from the vote two weeks ago, at a similar meeting in Grand Island.

A number of truckers agreed, saying that even if only 10% of the truckers went out, that there would probably be enough violence to keep most others off the road as well.

Mulder said he would contact all other Nebraska NITA chapters, and that he was reasonably certain that they would vote to go along with the shutdown if it was a nationwide effort.

Mulder said he felt the state legislators and Gov. J. James Exon were in sympathy with the truckers' needs, and that the "real enemy is the federal government." Mulder said federal officials were blackmailing the states into putting unrealistic speed limits and restrictions on the truck drivers.

An unidentified trucker said the major trucking outfits would not penalize drivers who did not go on the roads during the shutdown.

The group also voted to cancel a June 9 meeting with Federal Highway Administrator Norbert Tiemann. The meeting with the former Nebraska governor was set up by State Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton.

One trucker voiced the group's feelings on the meeting by saying the people of Nebraska could not get Tiemann to leave the signs next to the highways, so it would be fruitless to ask for his help in the trucking issue.

G. M. Callender, Former Council Candidate, Dies

Gladys Callender

Gladys Margaret Callender, a former Lincoln City Council candidate, died Monday. She was 66.

Miss Callender, of 5113 M, was defeated in her City Council bid in 1961. She retired in 1969 after 43 years with the Lincoln Journal.

Born in Columbus, she lived in Lincoln the past 54 years. She was a Lincoln High School and Lincoln School of Commerce graduate, and attended the University of Nebraska.

She was active in the YWCA, Methodist Church and Daughters of Union Veterans. She was past president of the City Recreation Department's women's leisure time activities committee.

Miss Callender is survived by an uncle and two cousins.

'Tremendous' Progress Told

. . . Planting Weather Ideal

Another week of nearly ideal planting conditions resulted in "tremendous progress" for Nebraska farmers and ranchers, the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics reported Monday in its weekly crop-weather report.

However, farmers in some areas have begun irrigating because of prevailing dry conditions, the bureau said. Crops on sandy soils in parts of the state are showing signs of stress from the lack of precipitation, it was pointed out.

"Alfalfa weevil continues to be a problem in fields in many areas," the ag experts said.

Winter wheat condition is good or excellent in 83% of the counties, down two points from last week, the report said.

The wheat crop "has been making rapid growth and development, but is showing signs of stress from the lack of moisture in many areas," according to the bureau. Some farmers in the Panhandle area are reportedly still considering abandoning wheat fields heavily infested with downy brome.

Other crop comments included:

Farmers made good progress planting corn last week due to favorable weather throughout Nebraska. County agents report approximately 70% of the corn acreage planted compared to 30% last year and normal. A good general rain is needed throughout much of Nebraska.

Sorghum and soybean acreages are about 10% planted.

Alfalfa hay condition ranges mostly fair to good. In areas of heavy weevil infestation most farmers are spraying or mowing their stands for control. Control chemicals are in short supply in some localities.

Topsoil moisture supplies remained nearly unchanged from a week ago. Topsoil moisture is short in 52% of the counties and adequate in 48%. Subsoil moisture supplies continued to decline with 83% of the counties adequate, 15% short and 2% surplus.

Rainfall received throughout the state during the past week included:

Chadron	.25	North Platte	.19
Grand Island	1.85	Omaha	1.14
Imperial	.43	Scottsbluff	.12
Lincoln	1.26	Valentine	.43
Norfolk	1.01

Moisture via sections since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to longtime averages follows:

Northwest — 1.60 inches (1974); 2.72 inches (normal).
North Central — 2.80; 3.05.
Northeast — 2.80; 3.33.
Central — 2.60; 3.22.
East Central — 3.10; 3.45.
Southwest — 1.60; 2.85.
South Central — 3.00; 3.24.
Southeast — 4.30; 3.73.

Hooper Brothers Scatter As MD's

Omaha (AP) — A town of about 800 in eastern Nebraska will have native son brothers practicing medicine in Omaha, Philadelphia and the Canal Zone later this year.

They will be the Drs. Meyer-Philip, David and Mark — sons of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Meyer, farmers between Hooper and Uehling.

Philip, 24, will be graduated from the University of Nebraska Medical Center's College of Medicine May 26.

David, 28, and Mark, 26, both received MD degrees from the Medical Center last May.

David and Mark are serving in rotating internships at Gorgas Hospital in the Canal Zone.

Mark will remain at Gorgas for three more years in an orthopedic surgery residency, while David will return to University Hospital in Omaha for a one-year surgery residency.

Philip will go to Philadelphia next month for a three-year pediatrics residency at Children's Hospital.

His wife, Jane, is completing her first year at Creighton University Law School in Omaha. She hopes to transfer to the University of Pennsylvania Law School so she can finish in Philadelphia.

Philip obtained his bachelor's degree at Brown University in Providence, R. I., where he met his wife. David and Mark went to Midland College in Fremont.

Younger brother Paul will be a senior at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, next fall. He plans to apply to the UN medical college.

Highway Is Closed Near S. Sioux City

U.S. 77 between Dakota City and South Sioux City closed Monday and will remain closed for about 10 days, according to Tom Doyle, director of the Department of Roads.

The road is being closed while tests are conducted on Interstate 129 bridge pilings.

Bottle Band Only One Of Kind?

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Lexington — You might call them a combination of the Boston Pops and Lawrence Welk's champagne music makers.

Their only instruments are bottles, their only purpose rootin' tootin' fun. Still, the notes blown forth by "The Grand Generation Tooters" are more than melodious burps.

Under the direction of Mrs. J. Elizabeth Wiessner, who spent 50 years as an Illinois teacher, even Coke and The Uncola end up in harmony. Retiring here to be with her son, Dick, she organized the unique band last summer.

"There are lots of kitchen bands and that sort of thing, but I don't know of another bottle band anywhere," said the livewire director, 74. "My ear is too keen to claim this as musical greatness, yet we do manage two-part harmony and a 20-number repertoire."

An offshoot of the local Grand Generation Center, one of the state's liveliest senior citizen establishments, the band makes up in maturity what it lacks in experience. Only three of its 14 members are under 70, the senior being an especially bubbly Mrs. Delma Stewart, 80.

Among the more faithful at the weekly practice sessions is the Tooters' only couple, Walther Camin and his wife Mabel. At a sprightly age 77 and 74, they fit right in to the avowed "Pepsi generation."

Other players are Mrs. John Edwards, Mrs. Fred Batten, Mrs. Helen McFadden, Mrs. Clara Gainsforth, Charles Matz, Mrs. Homer Casteel, Mrs. Guy Beans, Fred Knoedler, Mrs. Tom Bailey and Mrs. Flo Houlden.

Similar to bell choirs is that the director points out the notes and timing, the bottle band is considerably more demanding. Just the right pucker is required for the creation of the full rich notes insisted upon by Mrs. Wiessner.

"It's more difficult than it appears, especially for those persons blowing the high-note bottles," said the director, who has been an organist and pianist since her girlhood. "Even the tuning of each bottle must be precise. Of course different notes depend upon how much water is in each bottle, and even the absence of a few drops can make a player flat."

The band manages a range of 1½ octaves, with a good deal of two-part harmony adding extra class. One of the more ambitious numbers is also the overall favorite — "How Great Thou Art."

With several local appearances behind them, the Tooters have hesitated to accept out-of-town invitations. Coordinator Mrs. Kay Gerken explained that the center must be cautious because of the age of participants.

Mrs. Wiessner definitely isn't one of those prompting such concern. After a long career in the Chicago suburb of Glenview, she is always on the go.

Representing the local center, incidentally, she was elected vice president of the Nebraska Senior Citizens Council.

"I'm always getting involved in something," the personable woman remarked. "I guess it's because I just love people — even when they're playing pop bottles."

Father Recovers Children In Sweden

Holt, Mich. (AP — J. Dennis Ortiz says nobody else would help, so "we had to take the law into our own hands" to recover his three children when his former wife flew them to Sweden and asked for asylum.

The 39-year-old Ortiz and a friend-turned-detective scoured Omaha, Neb.; Washington, D.C., and Stockholm before they found the vanished youngsters in a suburb of Malmo, Sweden.

They spirited the children out of Sweden in a cloak-and-dagger-type operation in early February and returned them to Ortiz' two-story home in a rural, tree-laden community near Lansing.

In his first interview with a newsman since then, Ortiz said the case points out what he calls the "tremendous weakness" of America's legal system to protect the right of a divorced parent who has custody of the children.

Ortiz, who is executive director of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing and Speech, criticized state and federal laws and Swedish laws that allowed his former wife to take the children so easily to the Scandinavian country.

His former wife, Carolyn Ortiz, picked up Anna Marie, 12, Rachell, 9, and Matthew, 7, here Dec. 22 for a five-day visitation period she was granted in a 1971 Nebraska court order.

Ortiz said she was supposed to fly them to her home in Omaha, Neb., for the Christmas holidays but took them to Sweden instead.

The first indication of their disappearance came on Christmas, Ortiz said. His former wife's brother called from Omaha to say he did not know where his sister was but that she would not bring the children back to Michigan.

Ortiz has had legal custody of the children since 1971 when a Nebraska court agreed with an earlier ruling by a Missouri court to give him the children.

Ortiz now is married to a woman who also works with the deaf and hard of hearing. They have a two-year-old child.

After the call from his former wife's brother, Ortiz and his wife went to Omaha. But the trip was not too productive, and they returned home.

A break came when a friend, Thomas Coleman of Silver Springs, Md., discovered from the U.S. State Dept's Passport Division that the former Mrs. Ortiz had obtained a group passport.

Coleman, director of the National Association of Hearing and Speech Agencies, and Ortiz went to Omaha again. By showing airlines officials past court documents, they determined that Ortiz's former wife and a female companion, Jan Phipps, had purchased tickets to Sweden.

They went to Washington, but Ortiz says he was unable to get any help from the State Dept. toward launching an international investigation.

The two men flew to Stockholm Jan. 30. Ortiz said that from unofficial sources, whom he would not identify, he learned that his wife had asked for welfare and political asylum.

Sources also informed them his former wife and children were living in the Malmo suburb of Oxie. They went there and kept watch on the apartment, disguised in hats, dark eyeglasses and topcoats, Ortiz said.

He also talked to a Swedish attorney, Ortiz said, who advised him that the law was on his side but that his attempts to get his children back could involve a lengthy court battle.

Instead, Ortiz said, he went to the school the children attended and showed officials American court documents. The children's names were called over the public address system, and two of them, Rachell and Matthew, came to the office, where they embraced their father. "I was so happy," Rachell recalled.

The other child, Anna Marie, was home because of a twisted ankle. Ortiz returned to the apartment and found Anna Marie there alone. She went with him. That night, all went to Copenhagen, Denmark, on the leg of the trip back to Michigan.

Ortiz said it "cost me $8,000. we wiped out the kids' college funds completely. Besides that, I owe money. I had to borrow money.

"It's a tremendous emotional thing. It proves to me that love for your children is really something, and you will do whatever you have to do," he said.

Citing what he termed the lack of help from state, city and federal authorities, Ortiz said:

"They simply do not have any uniform divorce laws, no uniform custody laws that apply to all areas of the country."

Deere Reaffirms Orchard Closing

. . . Franchise To Be Lifted

By The Associated Press

The John Deere farm equipment company said Monday its dealership at Orchard, Neb., will be discontinued at the end of this year, as announced earlier.

A spokesman for the company said it had reviewed its original decision and concluded discontinuation is in the best long term interests of customers "in this entire farming area in northeastern Nebraska."

Protests had been voiced after the firm announced recently the franchise of the Holliday Implement Co. would be discontinued.

The 32-year-old firm is operated by Lloyd Holliday and his sons, Wayne and Dean. It has nine employes.

Late in March, when the company announced its intentions, an estimated 800 persons watched as farmers, their wives and children staged a protest parade down the main street of Orchard.

About 120 tractors were in the parade.

Various Antelope County and local interests supported the protest and statements in favor of retention of the franchise came from Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., and State Sen. John De Camp of Neligh.

The company pointed out the number of farms in Antelope County has declined 40 per cent since 1954. Spokesmen said the average size of a farm in the county increased from 308 acres in 1954 to 475 in 1969, and in 1969 there were twice as many farms in the county with 1,000 or more acres than there had been 15 years earlier.

The company statement said irrigation also had increased, and to farm these larger acres and increase productivity "farmers have demanded larger and more sophisticated machinery..."

John Deere spokesmen said "larger capital investments are required if dealerships are to adequately sell and service such machinery."

For a dealership to justify the necessary capital investment, they said "it is essential that its dollar market potential be large enough to offer the dealer a reasonable return on a bigger investment."

The Orchard dealership, the statement said, "is one of those with very limited potential."

The company said there are five other John Deere dealerships within a 25-mile radius which sell more major company machines in the trading area than the Orchard firm.

HOUSING AUTHORITY WORKMEN . . . trim grass around barrack to be used by Indians.

Readying Of Barrack Under Way

Cleanup work began Monday on the former Air Force barrack in which families and supporters of defendants in Wounded Knee cases will stay during trials in Lincoln.

The announcement that a decision had been made to use the barrack as housing was made Monday morning by Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf.

A-Go Sheridan, local coordinator of the American Indian Movement, said at the site Monday afternoon that he thinks the barrack can be made liveable in about 10 days.

About 12 volunteer workers were sweeping up broken glass and dust Monday.

Sheridan said he was "quite satisfied" with the building and said it was in surprisingly good shape for being out of use for several years.

The barrack was made available to followers of Wounded Knee trials last week by Bud Irons, who had purchased 10 of the buildings to salvage building materials after demolition.

Electrical power had been restored to the building by Monday and water was to be reconnected soon.

The building, which officials say can house about 90 to 100 persons, is in a state of some disrepair.

A bird's nest occupied a fan in the laundry room. There were holes in some of the walls, obscenities were still scrawled on some steel lockers and some windows were broken out.

"What we need now is paint and paint brushes," Sheridan said. He said the supplies committee of the Lincoln Committee of Concerned People is trying to fill that need.

Other needs, he said, are light bulbs and all kinds of beds and bedding.

"Some people have already donated some double beds," Sheridan said. "The Civil Defense agency is also going to furnish some Army Cots."

"If people have some sleeping bags they aren't going to use any more we could use those too," Sheridan said.

Beefland Meatcutters Slated To Return To Work Tuesday

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—Striking meatcutters are scheduled to return to work Tuesday at the Beefland International packing plant in Council Bluffs.

Frank West, board chairman and president of American Beef Packers Inc. of Omaha, plant operator, said Beefland should be operating at capacity. He said the plant can slaughter 2,200 head of cattle a day and process 1,200.

Beefland has been operating on a limited basis since members of District 271 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America went on strike May 2.

Union members voted 203 to 92 Sunday to end the strike, which affected 650 workers.

Gilbert L. Simonson, international vice president of the union, said slaughter workers will receive an 80-cents-an-hour raise over three years, while processing workers will get raises of $1.11 per hour over three years.

In addition, he said, workers will be guaranteed cost-of-living wage adjustments every six months beginning next July 1. He said the first cost-of-living increase will amount to about 12 cents.

Union officials said the minimum wage for slaughter workers had been $4.10 an hour, becoming $4.25 per hour with acceptance of the new contract.

They said processing workers had been receiving $3.50 an hour and that figure has been raised to $3.80 an hour.

Union members said their negotiators told them both the union and company would withdraw federal court litigation which stemmed from the strike.

Trucking Monopoly Defended

Attorneys for Herman Bros. trucking firm of Omaha Monday asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to uphold a State Public Service Commission order denying Ruan Transport of Des Moines the right to haul bulk cement out of the Ash Grove Cement plant at Louisville.

In a written brief, Herman Bros. argued that its "near perfect" past record of meeting the cement plant's demands demonstrates that an additional carrier is not needed.

And they predicted that competition from Ruan could result in an annual net loss of $153,678 and jeopardize a $2.5 million investment in the Ash Grove facilities made by Herman Bros.

Ruan has appealed the commission's order, contending the commission has established a monopoly in bulk cement hauling out of Louisville, one of the state's two sites for cement manufacturing. Such a monopoly, Ruan has said, is contrary to the public's and the shipper's interest.

Herman Bros. countered that Raun would have the court believe monopolies are inherently undesireable.

"This is not a good precedent, especially when that monopoly is regulated," they said.

The purpose of the Public Service Commission, they said, is to ensure adequate and reliable service at a minimum cost and to protect the investments made by regulated utilities.

Out of 40,000 truck loads of cement moved by Herman Bros. since 1966 out of Louisville, they said "only 29 or 30" deliveries were delayed by approximately an hour or two. And during 1971, they said 99.7% of Herman Bros. deliveries were on time.

"This is an outstanding transportation achievement and dramatically shows the lack of a public need for a competing motor carrier," they said.

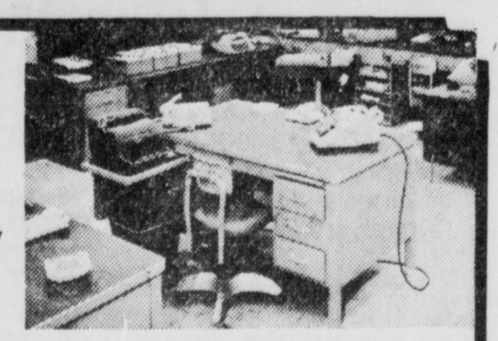
"In addition, it is fair to assume that the service is being performed at a reasonable and minimum cost."

In fact, Herman Bros. claimed a net loss of $95,858 in the Louisville operation during the first six months of 1973.

"This loss, admittedly, in part could be attributed to a price freeze by the federal government, but the remainder is due to a reduction in actual volume of traffic than tendered in prior years," they said.

Although Ruan said it would not divert any traffic from Herman Bros., the attorneys said in fact Ruan could mean a 25% traffic loss to Herman Bros.

"The secondary carrier theory is an approach by Ruan to become a full competitor of Herman Bros., Inc., and will divert operating revenues to the extent that (it) will dangerously impair Herman Bros. . . . ," they said.



If MUZAK were here, this chair would be filled ..... EVERYDAY!

A bored employee will use any reason to stay off the job, and just nine days absenteeism in a year can cost you $126 per employee, based on the minimum wage scale. Multiply that by the number of people you employ and the cost can be staggering. Few businesses today, large or small, can afford profit erosion like this. More and more now subscribe to the MUZAK service. Independent studies show that MUZAK increases alertness and vigilance.

The MUZAK service is different from mere background music. Far different! For years, scientists studied the ebb and flow of employee efficiency.

They found it flows in a cyclic curve. By studying this curve and the employee moods underlying it, MUZAK specialists were able to discover, through exacting tests, just what kind of music would best stimulate the mployee at the times of day when efficiency is lowest.

Thus, Music by MUZAK is psychologically selected, arranged, recorded and programmed to vary throughout the day and fit the employee efficiency curve. There is an answer to profit erosion, and MUZAK has it.

Ravenna Firm Told To Explain Grain Shortage

The Nebraska Public Service Commission Monday ordered the Ravenna Grain Co. to explain why an inspection of the company's grain warehouse revealed it was short 35,000 bushels of grain.

Commission staff said the firm mistakenly sold 33,997 bushels of wheat, 3,075 bushels of soybeans and 86 bushels of rye owned by the Commodity Credit Corp. (CCC).

on a mix-up of records resulting from two changes in managers. The firm's licensed capacity is 850,000 bushels.

The commission staff said the firm apparently has sufficient assets of repay the CCC.

A hearing on the matter has been set for June 10.

Stock Mart Has Another Dreary Day

New York (AP) — Surging money costs helped to dictate another dreary day for the stock market Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 4.85 to 845.59, and the more broadly based New York Stock Exchange composite index was down .44 at 48.75.

Declines outpaced advances by about 3-to-1 on the Big Board in turnover of only 11.29 million shares.

Several banks across the country posted 11¼ per cent prime lending rates as a quarter-point increase in the key rate begun Friday spread quickly throughout the banking industry.

Meanwhile, First National Bank of Chicago lifted its prime to 11.4 per cent.

Monte Gordon at Dreyfus Corp. said the market also had to grapple with worries about inflation and the extremely uncertain economic outlook, as well as the Watergate case and unsettled situations in governments of several other Western countries.

Westinghouse Electric was the most-active issue on the Big Board, rising ¼ to 16¼ in trading marked by a 350,000-share block at 16.

Some of the sharpest losses showed up in the stocks of concerns with a direct stake in borrowing costs.

In the real estate investment trust group, Colwell Mortgage Investors was down 2¼ to 10⅞; First Mortgage Investors ⅝ to 3⅜; Builders Investment Group 1⅜ to 13⅛, and Capital Mortgage Investors 1½ to 11⅜.

Among finance company issues, Liberty Loan sagged a point to 9, and Dial Financial was 1¼ lower at 11¾.

Precious metals issues gained broadly. In the golds, Homestake was up 2¼ at 80¾, Dome Mines rose 3 to 160½, and Campbell Red Lake 1¼ to 77⅝. Top gainers in the silver sector included Hecla Mining, up 2 at 25½, and Sunshine Mining, ahead 1⅝ at 16¾.

Oil-service, auto, electronics, and metals issues all generally lost ground.

On the American Stock Exchange, the volume leader was Elco Corp., down ⅛ at 7⅞.

The Amex market value index lost 1.60 to 86.30.

Bus Line Gets 20% Rate Hike

The financially-troubled United Motor Ways, Inc., of Grand Island Monday was granted a 20% increase in passenger rates effective May 27.

The increase, approved by the Nebraska Public Service Commission postpones efforts by United to drop two routes entirely. The commission reportedly found United's bus routes out of Grand Island to Albion, O'Neill, Broken Bow, Hastings, Superior, Loup City and Sargent were running deficits.

The commission said United has tentatively agreed to continue for 90 days its Albion-Grand Island and Hastings-Superior runs. At the end of the 90 days, the commission will review United's financial situation and make a permanent disposition on the rate increase.

In other action, the commission denied a request by a Norfolk bus line, Arrow Lines, for a 10% charter rate increase.

The commission indicated the line has a favorable financial condition and noted that the firm's top two officers each earn $60,000 annually. The denial was recommended by the commission staff.

Cattle Trade Fairly Active

Omaha (AP) — Trading on fed cattle at Omaha Monday was fairly active for the modest outlay offered by feeders.

Slaughter steers were steady, instances 25 cents higher, while heifers were steady to strong and cows steady to 50 higher.

The 5,000 fresh arrivals included only about 300 head of feeder stock. Quality of the fat steers and heifers was a bit short, much of the array running good to choice.

Overall weight appeared to be about par with the last two weeks but still 35-40 lbs over a year ago on steers.

Butcher hogs sold in a higher but definitely two-way market. Those under 250 lbs were 50-1.00 higher, topping at 29.00, while 250-360 lbs were steady to 50 higher, bottoming out at about 23.00.

Sows were steady to 50 lower.

New arrivals in the slaughter lamb division reached about 800, neatly double the early estimates, and prices were 1.00-1.25 higher on lambs and strong to 50 higher on butcher ewes.

Late Rally Lifts Commodities

Chicago (AP) — A rally in the closing 30 minutes pushed most farm commodity futures prices higher on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday.

As the advance set in much short covering developed in all the pits.

There appeared to be no outstanding reason for the late buying move. It appeared, however, that some commercial buying in the wheat pit generated some higher prices and as prices advanced the professional shorts were forced to cover their positions.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 5-14

Omaha Gaming Counts Likely To Be Dropped

Omaha (AP) — U.S. Atty. William Schaporst says a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court Monday is likely to lead to the dropping of gambling charges against Max "Little Giant" Abramson and five others.

Monday's high court ruling invalidated several anticrime wiretaps because federal officials failed to follow the law in some cases under former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Earlier this year, Schaporst asked the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis to overrule an earlier decision by Senior U. S. District Court Judge Richard E. Robinson. Robinson suppressed wiretap evidence in a case stemming from a Dec. 12, 1971 raid on the Rocket Club here.

Following the raid, Abramson, Max Groom, Edward Wisnewski, Nicholas Sirian and John Salantrino were charged with violating the Federal Antiracketeering Act, while Mrs. John Quinn, Las Vegas, Nev., was charged with interstate use of telephone circuits to aid gambling operations.

Robinson ruled that permission for the wiretap, which led to the raid, was not properly granted.

After Robinson's ruling, Abramson and some of the other defendants filed a $1 million suit against law enforcement officials. The petition claimed that wiretapping, authorized under the 1968 Omnibus Crime Act, was unconstitutional. The suit was later dismissed.

11 District 4-H Horse Shows Set

By The Associated Press

Dates and locations for 11 Nebraska district 4-H shows and two regional horse shows have been announced by Extension Horse Specialist R. B. Warren.

The two regional shows were added as intermediate shows between the district contests and State Fair and Ak-Sar-Ben horse shows, where entry numbers were outgrowing facilities.

Only those receiving a purple ribbon at the eastern or western regional shows now will be eligible to compete at State Fair or Ak-Sar-Ben.

The schedule of district shows includes: June 27, Madison; June 28, Weeping Water; June 29, Scribner; July 1, Stapleton; July 2, Wauneta; July 8, Fort Robinson; July 9, Valentine; July 10, Broken Bow; July 11, Seward; July 12, Sutton, and July 13, Fairbury.

The western regional show will be July 19 and 20 in North Platte, while the eastern show will be July 17 and 18 in Grand Island.

Crime Science Group Elects NU Professor

University of Nebraska Prof. Felix M. Fabian has been elected president of the International Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences at the academy's annual convention in Reno, Nev.

Fabian is a professor in the NU criminal justice program.

Meeting Slated By Hog Cholera Advisory Panel

Omaha (AP) — The U.S. Secretary of Agriculture's National Hog Cholera Eradication Advisory Committee will meet Wednesday at the Hilton Hotel.

The meeting is being held in conjunction with the 1974 session of Livestock Conservation Inc., a national organization representing the livestock and meat industry and its concerns with losses due to disease, injury or parasites.

Officials said the committee's current emphasis is on preventing a resurgence of hog choldera in this country.

The committee consists of members from various regions of the country, and includes swine producers, market operators, private and government veterinarians as well as representatives of industry organization and the scientific-academic community.

'Resignation No Answer'

. . . Mansfield's Advice Is To 'Cool It'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top Democratic leaders of Congress pleaded Monday for an end to calls for President Nixon's resignation, saying they are fanning a flash fire of public opinion that could forever char the Republic

"Resignation is not the answer," said Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont "This is a time to keep cool — the expression, I believe, is 'cool it' "

The President himself, meanwhile, was quoted by a cabinet member as reaffirming Monday that "there isn't any chance whatever," of his stepping down voluntarily

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C Byrd of West Virginia declared that if Nixon were "drummed out of office" by public opinion, "this would change our system from one of fixed tenure to one in which a President would remain in office only by popular approval "

Meanwhile, sources said the House Judiciary Committee will consider on Wednesday whether to subpoena more tapes and other materials for its inquiry into impeachment of the President

A notice to committee members did not indicate whether the proposed subpoena would be for some or all of the additional 76 White House tapes on Watergate the ITT and dairy price-supports matters the panel first requested from Nixon on April 19

Byrd and Mansfield were joined by House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla , and a number of others at the Capitol in asking Americans to let the case against the President lay exclusively in the hands of the courts and the impeachment process

Byrd said if Nixon resigned his guilt or innocence might never be resolved "Nothing is more important to the nation than the exercise of sober judgment he said

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Caspar Weinberger said he brought up the subject of "the steadily increasing drumbeat of resignation talk' at a meeting with Nixon in the Oval Office

'He said 'Don t worry There isn t any chance of that whatever Weinberger reported

A short drive away, the President's lawyers appeared before U S District Court Judge John J Sirica to argue that the White House should not be required to turn over any more Watergate tapes to the special prosecutor The session was closed

Presidential lawyer James D St Clair asked Sirica to quash the subpoena of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski for tapes and documents covering 64 presidential conversations

The hearing lasted about 2½ hours and none of the participants would comment on the proceedings An aide to Sirica said the judge likely would not make his decision for at least a week

Earlier, Sirica announced he would make public in about two weeks the final report by an independent panel of experts on the 18½-minute gap in the June 20 1972 conversation between Nixon and former White House chief of staff H R Haldeman He received also a report on the same matter from an expert working on behalf of the White House

In a nearby courtroom California Lt Gov Ed Reinecke appeared before District Judge Barrington Parker to argue for dismissal of perjury charges against him in connection with the Watergate special prosecutor s probe of the ITT affair The matter threatens to swamp his campaign for governor

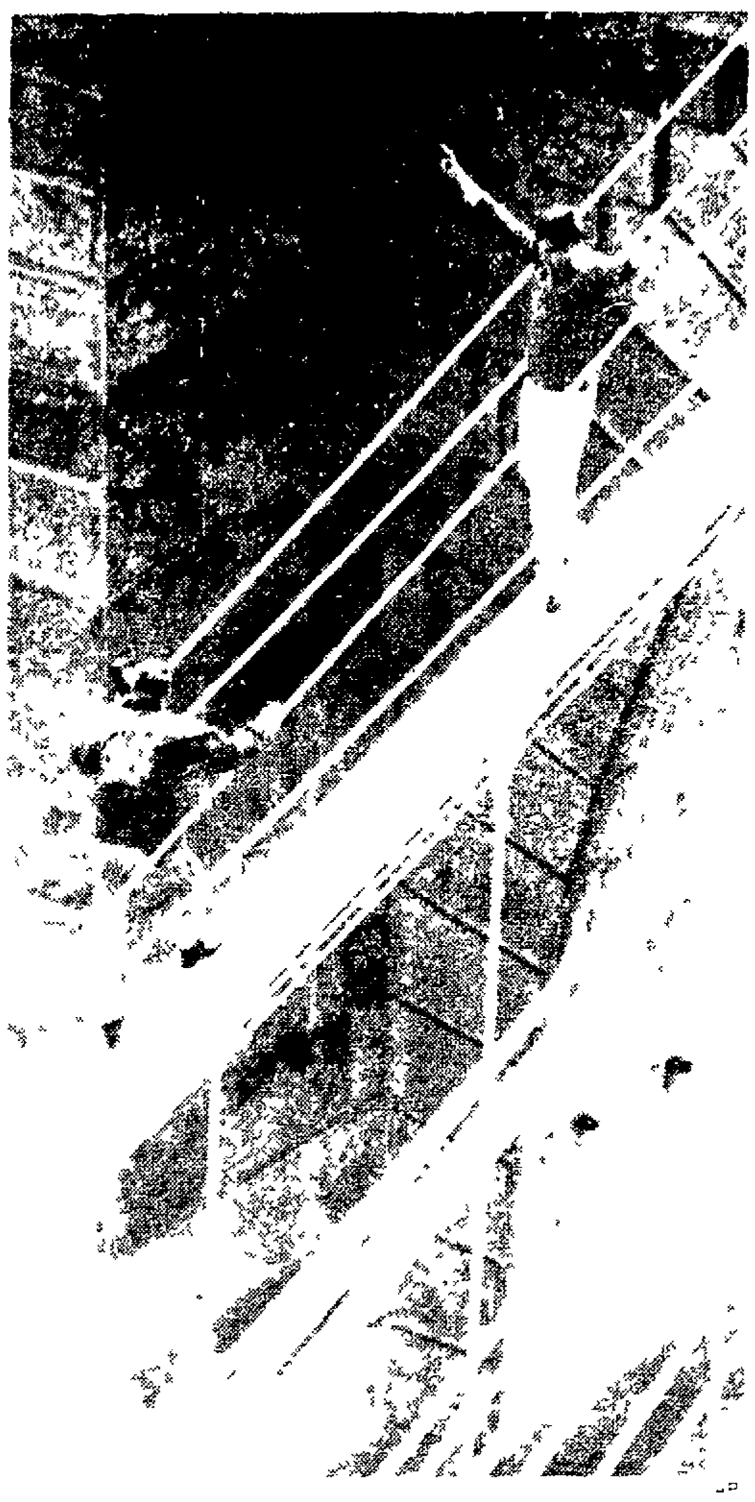
At the hearing Reinecke testified that federal prosecutors implied that they would not seek a bribery indictment if he cooperated in their investigation

But assistant prosecutor Joseph J Connolly denied categorically to the court that he had ever made any threats or offered leniency in return for Reinecke s cooperation Reinecke has claimed the three-count indictment was politically motivated

He is charged with lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee over his role in helping arrange to have the 1972 GOP convention in San Diego later switched to Miami Beach

The Senate Watergate Committee disclosed Monday it has subpoenaed President Nixon s two brothers for questioning about a $100 000 campaign contribution four years ago by billionaire Howard Hughes

Onetime Nixon lawyer Herbert Kalmbach told the committee earlier this year that presidential friend C G Bebe Rebozo had used that money for gifts or loans to F Donald Nixon and Edward Nixon as well as to the President s personal secretary Rose Mary Woods



Suicide Try Foiled Again

A man police identified as John Rowland 29 of Brooklyn right is approached by a policeman Monday near the top of the east tower of the Brooklyn Bridge The same man had been talked down from the bridge April 25 but left the hospital where he was under observation to stage the second incident He was brought down after two hours in the rigging of the bridge

Demo Test Ballot Highlight

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Democratic voters Tuesday will name Gov J James Exon s general election running mate and perhaps chart the future course of their party in Nebraska

The Democratic donneybrook for nomination as lieutenant governor highlights the primary elections of 1974

The other major contest of this spring's primaries is the eight candidate free-for-all scrap for the Republican nomination to succeed Third District Congressman Dave Martin

Local issues, including fluoridation may swell the voter turnout in a number of communities

But a light vote is anticipated in Douglas County, where 29% of the state s registered Democrats reside

Exon is expected to sail through a primary contest with Lyman Mayor Richard Schmitz toward a showdown match with State Sen Richard Marvel of Hastings in November

Unopposed in the GOP primary Marvel makes the move from candidate to nominee on Tuesday

The veteran legislative appropriations chairman will be teamed either with Anne Batchelder of Omaha or William Wylie of Elgin in the autumn Either choice is acceptable to him.

But the Democratic match for lieutenant governor is another story

Exon has endorsed Hastings attorney Gerald Whelan, the former president of the State Board of Education as his preferred running mate

Clearly not acceptable to the governor is State Sen Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff the Democratic nominee for the U S Senate in 1972

Carpenter whose political ventures have spread across four decades of Nebraska history can claim the best known name on the ballot

Other entries in the Democratic race are State Sens Jules Burbach of Crofton and Frank Lewis of Bellevue

Burbach, the veteran legislative revenue chairman, has twice been a candidate for his party's gubernatorial nomination, and barely lost the last time out in 1970 — to Exon

Lewis targeted his campaign at urban voters, organized labor and school teachers

Under the terms of a 1970 constitutional amendment, Nebraska voters will elect their governor and lieutenant governor as a team for the first time this autumn

But primary election voters determine who will compose both the Republican and Democratic teams

The eight-candidate GOP congressional scrap in western Nebraska's sprawling Third District features two state senators, one woman, a dentist, a pastor, a professor, an insurance agent and a cattleman

Republican hopefuls are Sen Gerald Stromer of Kearney Mrs Havek Smith of Chappell Sen J James Waldron of North Platte Don Blank of McCook Jack Langford of Kearney James Wenger of Grand Island, Ronald Blauvelt of Thedford and Gerald Lundby of Hildreth

The winner will meet either former State Sen Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox or Ralph Miller of Wellfleet in November

Ziebarth a 1972 Democratic Senate candidate is considered the likely nominee

The winner faces Republican Congressman John McCollister

In the First District, Congressman Charles Thone and Democratic challenger Hess Dyas march toward their showdown without primary opposition

Other Tuesday contests will produce nominees for attorney general state auditor state treasurer secretary of state the Public Service Commission the State Board of Education and the University of Nebraska Board of Regents

Twenty-four legislative seats are up for grabs

And voters must determine the fate of two proposed constitutional amendments — one to increase legislative salaries, the other to remove the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the Legislature

Inflation Spiral's No Trouble

By R GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Who isn t being hurt by inflation? Big Business that s who

There are exceptions notably the housing industry but generally speaking most corporate executives aren t at all scared by sharply rising prices as long as they can raise their own prices to compensate

Lifting of wage and price controls have given them this flexibility The only restraint on prices now is the market itself — the limit to what people will pay

One signal that big business has learned to live with the current high rate of inflation is that investment in new plant capacity is running at high levels

We are having the largest single capital expenditures boom I ve experienced said Buck Mickel president of Daniel International Corp a major construction firm based at Greenville S C

Mickel s remarks came at a meeting of the Business Council held in Hot Springs Va over the weekend The council whose members are the top executives of about 100 major corporations has forecast increased capital expenditures in 1974 of between 13 and 19 per cent

Capital expenditures rose 12 8 per cent in 1973 and 8 9 per cent in 1972

Among those leading the way in new investments in plant capacity is the aluminum industry The head of one major company said his firm is cutting back plans to enlarge its overseas operations because expansion at home now looks even more promising

This executive expressed concern over inflation as dangerous to long term stability of the nation but not as a short-term threat to his corporation s profits

The major factors in the decision to invest is that demand is staying high Steel aluminum paper chemicals — industry just hasn t been able to produce fast enough

The head of a major Chicago-based retail chain said he has a six-month backlog for orders of barbed wire and the firm is receiving major orders it cannot fill

The administration is pleased to see the big investment boom since U S industry has been lagging behind overseas competitors in their investments in new plants and equipment

A major example of how business lives with rapidly rising prices is in the petroleum industry where profits have soared as high as 100 per cent in a year despite the higher prices they must pay to oil producing countries for petroleum

They simply passed along the higher costs in their prices

Hence the opposition of large corporations to price controls — they forced businesses to absorb some of the cost of inflation

They did this not only by limiting the amount of price increases as with steel and autos but by delaying increases through pre notification procedures which required 30 days

Some businessmen interviewed at Hot Springs argued this was counter productive in that it encouraged them to increase prices as much and as rapidly as they could whereas they would be more flexible if there were no controls to worry about

Even the record high interest rates on loans are not hurting business investment plans Mickel said money borrowed at 9 per cent during a period of 10 per cent inflation can be profitable

Short-term interest rates are running over 11 per cent but businesses borrowing for investment purposes generally borrow at the lower long-term rates

A key Treasury Department economist agrees that big corporations have learned to live quite well with inflation but said small businessmen can be at a disadvantage since they do not have the same ready access to credit money

The concern of business leaders attending the Business Council meeting was over the instability of governments both the United States government and the government of its allies, Great Britain France and Germany

One executive said inflation was a factor in this instability and for that reason — if no other — must be brought under control

Police General Retires In Spain

Madrid (UPI)—Carlos Iniesta one of Spain s most outspoken right wing generals retired Monday from his post as commander of the para military Guardia Civil Police Force

Iniesta whose 50 000 man force is responsible for maintaining public order in rural Spain went into automatic retirement at reaching the age of 64

Schools Advising Seniors On Jobs

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

'All of a sudden this year I started thinking about what I m going to do the rest of my life recalled Lincoln High senior Lee E Gerner

He got his answer yesterday, the first day on a job he believes has a future thanks to the Lincoln Public Schools

"If it weren't for Mr (Jerry) Gruber, I guess I wouldn't be here at all," said Gerner, 18, who began his work part-time at Bausch & Lomb, 650 N 27th, even before his graduation on May 31.

Gruber, coordinator for the public schools Career Education Project, helped initiate in mid-April what he calls "exiting placement," assisting graduating seniors who want full-time jobs

The program doesn't compete, rather complements the services offered by employment agencies Gruber said

He suggested that "maybe schools are in a better position to work with kids as far as job placement," adding, "We've had them for 12 years " As well as knowing students personally, counselors can rely on student records to aid in matching graduates with jobs, he said

"Shouldn't we be helping kids with jobs as much as with college entrance?" Gruber asked rhetorically

The public schools' commitment to the concept of furthering a student's career after graduation "is something new for us," said special projects director Carl. R. Spencer.

"I used to work at a service station for a year and a half " said Gerner, 27255 Everett "I didn t want to stay there because there was nothing to advance in- " and the same held in his summer jobs with the city street department

When Bausch & Lomb called Gruber and "told him they were looking for someone who wasn't planning on going to college," he set up the interview for Gerner, who got the job — learning to grind lenses — on his own merits

The guidance departments in all four public high schools and Pius X are participating in such exiting placement, Gruber said, crediting teachers too for advising job-hunting seniors

Gruber has a cooperative agreement with the State Employment Office, which provides him with up-to-date lists of 500-600 jobs available in southeast Nebraska But "realistically, at this point, we're running a band-aid program " Gruber said

He has found job possibilities for about 35 Lincoln High seniors He screens each senior, then promises each applicant three interviews and calls prospective employers as a follow-up

Employers who contact the schools are interested in getting career employes, Gruber said. "They're not anti-college. This is another alternative to going to school — you can learn on the job."

STAR PHOTO

GERNER . . . learning to grind lenses.

Gruber said he will work with jobless student applicants through the summer, not dismissing them after they receive their diplomas

"Hopefully, next year we can get something a little more sophisticated," he said, for example, a central clearing point for employers to contact.

Crash Claims Second Victim

A three-car accident Friday night at 20th and Cornhusker Hwy Monday claimed its second victim

Debbie Graham 18 of 2625 N 9th died at Bryan Memorial Hospital where she had been listed in critical condition since the accident

The accident earlier had claimed the life of her sister Kendra 16

Both were passengers in a car driven by Tommy Crov 18 of Hallam which police said was eastbound on Cornhusker when it crossed a concrete median and was in collision with two westbound vehicles

Crov was listed in fair condition Monday at Bryan Memorial Hospital Also remaining in the hospital was Nita Johnson 16 of 3046 W who was listed in good condition

Johnson was a passenger in a car driven by Phillip Gildersleeve 20 of O Neill which was one of the vehicles westbound on Cornhusker Johnson was dismissed from Bryan

David L Griffith 22 of 285 Garber, driver of the third vehicle was not injured His wife Gravce and their three-year-old son Justin were treated and released Friday night.

Supreme Court Decision Washes Out Over 600 Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held Monday that the Nixon administration violated federal law in a host of wiretaps against narcotics and organized crime suspects.

The court's decision washes out cases against some 600 defendants and perhaps more, because the evidence gathered in defective taps may not be used at trial.

In other action, the high court refused to hear appeals by International Business Machines (IBM) challenging an order forcing the computer giant to turn over documents to the government that it claims are lawfully confidential. The government has launched an antitrust case against IBM.

Following the court action, the corporation said it was turning over some 700 documents to the Justice Department trust busters. The alternative was a $150,000-a-day fine.

In still another case, the justices overturned a federal appeals court decision on trade secrets that the legal and business communities claimed would lead to chaos and have a multibillion impact on American industrial research.

The wiretap decision stemmed from practices at the Justice Department when it was run by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. The taps in question were authorized in each instance by a federal judge. The question in the case was whether the Justice Department had complied with provisions of the 1968 Omnibus Crime Control Act in applying for the taps in the first three years following the act's adoption.

The court found that the practice of allowing Mitchell's executive assistant to approve applications was contrary to the law's demand that the requests be approved by the attorney general himself or a specially designated assistant attorney general.

The court was unanimous in condemning the practice. Justice Byron R. White delivered the court's opinion.

It is apparent, said White, "That Congress desired to centralize and limit this authority where it was feasible to do so ... To us, it appears wholly at odds with the scheme and history of the act to construe (its) provisions to permit the attorney general to delegate his authority . . ."

In a second wiretap case the court did preserve some challenged taps. The applications bore the name of an assistant attorney general but were actually approved by Mitchell himself. The court found this no barrier to use of evidence gathered by the taps.

The trade secrets decision found that federal law on patents does not preempt state trade secret laws. The justices reversed a ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, which had applied the federal law

"Congress, by its silence over these many years, has seen wisdom of allowing the states to enforce trade secret protection,' wrote Chief Justice Warren E. Burger for the six-two majority.

Justices William O Douglas and William J. Brennan Jr. dissented. Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr took no part in the case

It arose from a dispute involving Kewanee Oil Co and the four founders of its rival, Bicron Corp., who were former employes of a division of Kewanee.

The oil company charged that the four had pirated a trade secret. The circuit court had found in favor of Bicron

That brought cries of dismay from the American Bar Association, which said the decision placed doubt on the enforcibility of thousands of contracts in the United States

The Manufacturing Chemists Association said the lower court decision would encourage thefts of industrial secrets.

The documents involved in the IBM-government suit first surfaced in private antitrust litigation brought against IBM by Control Data Corp

During that suit, which was eventually settled out of court, IBM turned over a massive amount of documents In doing so, the corporation's attorneys argued they inadvertently included papers which they were legally entitled to keep secret. U S District Court Judge David N. Edelstein of New York told IBM to turn the documents over anyway and established a fine should they fail to do so.

U.S. Fliers Airdrop Cambodian Supplies

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A handful of Americans still draw combat pay in Indochina, flying supply missions to Cambodia from Thailand.

Perhaps four dozen of them at a time fly in Air Force C130 transports to places like Longvek, where 40,000 Cambodians are surrounded and under attack from the Communist Khmer Rouge

The men fly out of the air base at Utapao, near a beach resort 116 miles southeast of Bangkok, Thailand's capital. Military sources say the airmen are on temporary duty from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines, 1,300 miles away, for periods as short as two weeks.

The military informants add that about 3,000 tons of ammunition, small arms, containers of fuel, medical supplies, food and sundry equipment were air dropped by United States planes to Cambodia in February and the tonnage slacked off to 2,000 in March.

But a month of bitter fighting in April, with Cambodian garrisons battling for their lives, brought calls for twice the March total.

The aerial supply effort in March accounted for about 10 per cent of the supplies provided to the Cambodian armed forces by the United States.

Military aircraft fly over Cambodia at 10,000 feet or less and feel secure; and at Longvek, a lone F4 Phantom jet, apparently on reconnaissance, is now and again seen at 3,000.

"It depends on what kind of situation you're talking about," one military source said. "Going into an airport if you're going to land, you've got to land and of course you could take some fire, but in an air drop they're going to stay out of the way of any ground fire."

What would happen if one of the supply planes was shot down or crashed in the war zone?

Air Force Gen. Timothy F. O'Keefe, head of all Southeast Asia tactical air operations and the highest ranking U.S. officer in the region, says: "We'd protect U.S. lives to the extent that we had to."

He adds that he would try to get authorization from the Pentagon before using armed planes but would go it on his own

Guinea-Bissau Rebels Ask End To Warfare

ALGIERS (AP) — Rebel leaders from Portuguese Guinea became on Monday the first in Portugal's three troubled African territories to propose negotiations to end more than a decade of guerrilla warfare.

A statement issued by the diplomatic mission here of the republic of Guinea-Bissau, the name insurgents have given to the two-thirds of Portuguese Guinea which they control, said the negotiations with Portugal's new regime could begin "with or without a cease-fire."

But it warned the rebels were aiming for "the total liberation of our people."

In Lisbon, Portugal's ruling military junta withheld comment on the reports from Algeria.

"We know of the reported offer," a junta spokesman said, "but we have no comment."

The rebels belong to the African party for the Independence of Guinea-Bissau and the Cape Verde Islands, known as PAIGC, and issued the statement after an "extraordinary meeting."

Independence movements in Angola and Mozambique, Portugal's two other African colonies, which are both larger than Portuguese Guinea, have rejected talks with the Portuguese junta of Gen. Antonio de Spinola.

Spinola's regime, which came into power April 25 after saying a military solution to Portugal's African problem was impossible, had offered negotiations and proposed that the rebel movements submit the conflict to a vote among the native populations.

PAICG's statement, while demanding independence, did not make it a prerequisite for negotiations.

For a cease-fire to precede negotiations, the rebel group said, Portugese forces in Guinea-Bissau, will have to "cease all operations and aggressive acts against our population" and regroup in command centers.

In Mozambique, military and police patrols circulated in Beira after whites and blacks clashed while radio broadcasts urged calm, the Portuguese news agency ANI reported

Gen. Francisco da Costa Gomes, the No. 2 Man in Portugal's military junta, was reported to have told a news conference in Beira that Portugal has no intention of expanding the war in Mozambique, which has been going on for a decade

The Portuguese news agency Lusitania reported from Beira that Gomes told a news conference Monday he made unofficial contact with Frelimo sympathizers in Lourenco Marques, the capital of Mozambique, asking them to tell guerrilla leaders he wanted to set up official negotiations for a truce

Israel, Syria Move Nearer Agreement

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Syria have moved closer to agreement on a disengagement line separating their armies in the Golan Heights, a senior American official said Monday.

But Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was making no predictions. After meeting with Premier Golda Meir and Foreign Minister Abba Eban, Kissinger was asked if an agreement was in sight for this week. He replied: "I don't make any speculation of this kind. . . I will go to Damascus tomorrow with the Israeli views on the Syrian considerations, and then we'll see where we are."

Kissinger was booed and jeered as he arrived for the talks and as he left.

Scores of demonstrators — and many other Israelis — were fearful that Kissinger was pressuring Jerusalem into risky territorial concessions on the Golan Heights in order to achieve a disengagement of Syrian and Israeli troops.

The high American source said it was still possible that Kissinger's mission might fall short of a settlement.

The offical said Kissinger was counting on Israel to make further "refinements" in its position before he shuttles back to Damascus to see Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Relatively small distances are involved in the dispute, he said, but the differences are of major concern to both sides.

The Israeli Cabinet met in special session for four hours shaping its response to Assad's demands for a broader withdrawal.

Information Minister Shimon Peres said: "I think tomorrow will be the most important day in the negotiations."

The crux of Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy is to achieve a compromise on where to draw the disengagement lines.

U.S. officials indicated that Israel and Syria are close to agreement on the kind of United Nations force that would stand as a buffer between the two armies. They were also approaching agreement on a "thin-out" of armor behind the lines.

U.S. officials said Kissinger has never suggested that Israel give up any of the paramilitary settlements strung along the frontiers won in the 1967 war with the Arab states. Nor are three strategic hills around the town of Quneitra, the provincial capital of the Golan Heights, the sticking point in Kissinger's 16-day effort, the officials said.

After he sees Assad, and certainly by Wednesay, Kissinger should know if he can accomplish a troop separation, newsmen were told.

In any event, the secretary intends to return to Washington no later than Sunday. Technical experts could be left behind to deliberate subsidiary issues once there is an agreement to dis-

If there is a settlement, Kissinger is prepared to convey private assurances on various sensitive points from one side to the other. He played such a role last January working out an Israeli-Egyptian troop separation on the Suez Canal.

Fighting on the Golan front was in its 63rd day as the negotiations proceeded.

Villagers Mourn Dead Children

Villagers in Kfeir, Lebanon, crowd around the bodies of two children Monday. A Syrian spokesman said the children and their mother were killed in an Israeli air attack Monday morning. Kfeir is the ancestral village of Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D.

FBI File Secrecy Upheld By Court

Washington (UPI) — Amateur investigators challenging the decade-old Warren Commission report on the assassination of John F. Kennedy failed at the Supreme Court Monday to force the FBI to make some of its records public.

The Supreme Court refused to review an appeals court decision that the FBI can keep the Kennedy files secret under provisions of the Freedom Of Information (FOI) Act.

Harold Weisburg, author of four books on the assassination, had sought FBI reports on bullet fragments taken from Kennedy's body.

The FBI turned down Weisburg, as it has others who wanted portions of Kennedy files, on grounds that the FOI did not apply to to "ingestigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes."

Weisburg contended that no possible harm could come by making public the files, now over 10 years old, unless the FBI knowingly had suppressed evidence. He said the courts acted as mere "rubber stamps" by allowing the secrecy "even though no federal law was violated, no prosecution is contemplated, and disclosure would not harm the agency's legitimate law enforcement functions."

Weisburg said the Warren Commission was told only that the bullet fragments were "similar in metallic composition," leading to a conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone when Kennedy was slain Nov. 22, 1963.

In asking for Supreme Court review, Weisburg said spectographic analysis could further determine if different guns were used by finding "trace elements" incompatible with Oswald's weapon.

"Weisburg maintains that the disclosure of the reports he seeks would disprove the official theory of the assassination and show that the FBI deceived the Warren Commission and the public as to what the results did in fact show," attorneys told the Supreme Court.

The appeals court in the District of Columbia said the FBI had met its obligations under FOI by providing testimony from a special agent claiming that release of the information would "seriously interfere with the efficient operation of the FBI and with proper discharge of its important law enforcement function."

Independent Truckers Keep Right On Rolling

By The Associated Press

Independent truckers kept their rigs rolling on Monday, generally ignoring a call for a nationwide strike over fuel prices and speed limits. There was scattered violence in a few areas, but authorities in most places said truck traffic was normal.

"We've got zero problems," said Bill Clark, a Maryland State Police spokesman.

Militants who called for the latest shutdown claimed it was highly effective in several areas, but their estimates could not be confirmed.

James Cox, information officer for the state police in Pennsylvania, where earlier shutdowns sparked violence and cut traffic, said at midafternoon: "Truck traffic is smooth and normal in volume and every other way. This is just an ordinary Monday." He said 11 incidents of violence had been reported, most minor and most before daybreak.

Other violence was reported in Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Oklahoma. Most of the incidents involved windshields smashed by rocks or sniper fire, and no injuries were reported.

Michael Parkhurst, editor of Overdrive magazine, a Los-Angeles based industry publication that called for the shutdown, said state officials couldn't prove their claim that truck traffic was normal. He said their reports were "pure guesswork."

Leaders of Monday's work stoppage said they wanted a fuel price rollback, an increase in the 55 m.p.h. speed limit, higher weight limits for trucks and an audit of the oil companies.

The Senate rejected a move on Monday that would have allowed states to raise the speed limits to 60 m.p.h. The proposal came from Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., who contended that the present limit imposes a hardship on truckers and residents of rural areas. It was rejected by a vote of 51-29.

Sens. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska, both R-Neb., voted for raising the speed limit.

GM Raises Prices 1.9%

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors announced Monday it is raising prices on its 1974-model cars and trucks an average $105 per vehicle.

The firm said the increase amounted to 1.9 per cent, plus a $10 per vehicle increase in destination costs.

The firm blamed cost pressures for the increase.

The firm said the price hike goes into effect beginning with vehicles shipped on Wednesday.

Included in the increase is a $52 jump in the base price, plus $43 for major options.

Last week, Ford increased its base prices an average $141, and boosted option and destination prices another $23.

Chrysler, a week earlier, hiked its average sticker price $99 and increased optional equipment $23.

Viet Cong Stop Talks

Paris — The Viet Cong announced Monday it was suspending the sterile Paris talks with South Vietnam on implementing the Vietnam cease-fire agreement. The suspension ended all formal contacts between the two sides, since their Joint Military Commission in Saigon also broke down. Actually, there have been no talks in Paris since April 16, when Saigon said it would attend no further meetings because the Viet Cong had captured a base at Tong La Cham.

Sri Lanka Faces Crisis

Colombo — Sri Lanka (Ceylon), short of food, is facing an economic crisis that Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike says has "almost squeezed the breath out of us."

Starvation Emergency Urged

United Nations, N.Y. — Henry R Labouisse, director of the U.N. Children's Fund (UNICEF), warned Monday that up to 500 million children face the threat of malnutrition and even starvation as a result of high oil and food prices and continuing inflation. He suggested that the 30-member UNICEF board consider declaring an emergency.

Premier's Health Failing

Hong Kong — Pleading old age and poor health, Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, 76, has absented himself from a number of Peking state functions. There are hints that he has turned over some of his duties to deputies.

Plumbers Under Orders

Washington — Highly reliable sources reported that President Nixon, in a letter sent two weeks ago to Judge Gerhard A. Gesell of federal district court in Washington, said that the White House "plumbers" unit was operating under a general delegation of his presidential authority when it broke into the office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist in 1971. Gesell will preside over the trial of six men indicted in the break-in.

Six Get Most Funds

Washington — The nation's six largest cities will get most of the $24 billion in mass transit funds that would be provided under legislation being prepared by the House Public Works Committee. The funds would be used for capital and operating expenses over the next six years. They would be provided by new revenues rather than the Highway Trust Fund, as proposed by the administration.

Kissinger Wife Likes Trip

Jerusalem (Washington Star-News) — Nancy Maginnes Kissinger is enjoying her travels in the Middle East as her husband, the secretary of state, tries to bring about a cease-fire, but she is anxious to get back to her own foreign policy work as well as find a home for the couple in or near Washington.

Bank Head Dismissed

New York — The directors of the financially pressed Franklin National Bank, the nation's 20th largest, dismissed President Paul Luftig Monday and disclosed that Peter Shaddick, executive vice president and director, had resigned in the wake of the discovery of large foreign-exchange trading losses. The directors also approved omission of common and preferred dividends and said they plan to raise $50 million through a stock subscription offering.

Italy Upholds Prodivorce Law

ROME (AP) — Italians lined up almost 3-2 Monday to keep the nation's divorce law, after a bitter referendum campaign in this Roman Catholic nation. The voters handed a rebuff to the government and to the Vatican.

Immediately after the results were announced, thousands supporting the divorce law jammed Rome's Piazza Navona for a celebration, and others swept through the streets of the capital waving banners and shouting: "We won! We won!"

There also were prodivorce celebrations in Florence and other major cities.

The final count of more than 32 million ballots cast showed that 19,093,929 voters, or 59.1 per cent of those who went to the polls Sunday and Monday, wanted the divorce law retained on the books. A total of 13,188,184 voters — 40.9 per cent — wanted it repealed.

The outcome could mean serious trouble for the center-left coalition government of Premier Mariano Rumor, whose Christian Democrats strongly advocated doing away with the law.

The Communists, the most vocal among the groups supporting the divorce law, appeared likely to press their claim for a voice in the government.

The vote ensured the law's permanence at least through May of 1979. Italian law prohibits another referendum on the same issue for five years.

Prodivorce balloting was heaviest in industrial cities.

Bishops urged church members to vote for repeal of the divorce law, and Pope Paul VI said he fully supported the views of his bishops.

But even in Rome, where the bishop is the Pope himself, 68 per cent of the voters supported the divorce law. In Brescia, the pontiff's home town, opponents of divorce won narrowly — 299,980 to 295,612.

The Vatican issued no immediate comment on the outcome.

Pleasures Of Raising Plants Extolled

By ROBERT PETERSON

Perhaps half of all older people have discovered the excitement of raising plants. Those who haven't should be pushed, persuaded and prodded to take up horticulture in some form, whether it be having a small garden or just tending a row of house plants on a window ledge. Plant life is the very key to human existence and warrants our fascination and study.

"Until I passed 60 I never realized plants could be so fascinating," an older woman told me yesterday at a garden show. "Observing plants and following their growth from insignificant seeds to a rich, leafy culmination has given me a new appreciation of the miracles of nature."

She went on to say that when she lost her husband she needed a new purpose in life and something to take her mind off her arthritis. So she decided to become an authority on house plants.

She dug, planted, pruned, mulched, studied and learned nearly everything there was to know about the more popular house plants. Today she has 48 potted plants on racks next to the sun-filled windows in her three-room apartment, and says she never feels lonely. She even talks to her plants at times, and is always inviting folks in to see her thriving specimens.

"When you mention house plants most folks think of that terrible rubber plant that used to be in Grandma's living room," she said. "But there are at least 60 attractive, inviting plants which can be easily grown indoors — many of which need little or no sun, such as dracaena, bromeliads, philodendron, ficus repens, fatshedera, oleander, episcia, coleus and hibiscus.

"Every home and office should have banks of living, breathing plants which symbolize nature itself and can transform impersonal rooms into home-like quarters which are alive and vital. Plants are particularly wonderful for infirm older people for they can bring the great out-of-doors to their very bedside.

"They may not be as responsive as animal pets, but they react in a positive way to good care and affection. When you treat them right they seem to demonstrate their gratitude by showing good color and creating new leaves and buds. As with animals pets, some give you trouble. Certain ones are stubborn and nonconforming and require extra patience and attention. It's not a static hobby. Each plant is different in its way and this is challenging. Yet they require little real work other than daily watering and occasional plant food.

"One of the pleasures of having plants is that you can give bulbs, seeds, cuttings and entire plants to friends and acquaintances. I haven't gone out and bought presents for anyone in years. I always give house plants and people seem very appreciative. They tell me it's a more imaginative kind of gift than handkerchiefs and scarves.

"Plants can also be profitable," she concluded.

Curtis Asked To Help Get Road Funds

By United Press International

Gov. J. James Exon has enlisted the aid of Sen. Carl T. Curtis. R-Neb., in trying to obtain additional highway funds for the state this year.

In a letter to the senator, Exon said the Nebraska Department of Roads has learned through the Federal Highway Administration (FHA) that cash payouts of federal highway funds at the national level are running ahead of original projections.

Because of that, the governor said, states which are able to claim immediate payments for the federal money already earned beyond their existing state-by-state obligational controls are in a position to receive additional funds at this time.

On April 18, Exon said, the Department of Roads advised federal officials "that we can immediately claim $15.6 million in reimbursement payments for Interstate Highway projects for which we provided advance funding by means of the $20 million bond issue in 1969. In addition, we advised the FHA that we can immediately claim some $900,000 in payment for miscellaneous projects on which we have earned federal funds."

'Malicious, Vicious Campaign'

Some of the tapes of Watergate conversations contain disparaging references about ethnic origins, according to unnamed sources reported in the national press. The reports said such reference included "Jewboy," "kike" and "wop" in speaking of certain government officials, and the White House reaction to the disclosure was predictable.

Counsel Fred Buzhardt, who said he has listened to some 40 of the tapes, said he doesn't remember the word "Jewish" being used, although ". . . somebody may have said somebody was Polish." The President only used such references in a joking manner, said another aide. And, said Buzhardt, none of the references was meant as a slur. Thus they are not denied.

And Buzhardt proceeded to do just what has come to be expected of the Nixon White House: he attacked those who turned over the stone and stripped away the covers.

"It's clear that a concerted campaign has been made to cause these to be publicized," Buzhardt said. "I can only characterize this as a malicious and vicious attempt to poison the public's mind against him (the President)."

Attacking those who carry the message, those who are depicted as powerful interests seeking to undermine the American way of life, has always been a vital part of the Nixon game plan. If he creates enough smoke and fosters enough discontent with the press, it will obscure what he did or said.

It's futile to ask the people in the White House to look inward rather than finding a scapegoat elsewhere. They are incorrigible in that regard. But by using the strategy so often, it has been unmasked for what it really is. Whenever the White House says a vicious and malicious attack is being mounted against the President, people can bet that something malicious and vicious happened or was said at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

The use of racial slurs surely is not shocking to the public. There is a great difference between the private thoughts and public words of many, many Americans. Bigotry is an unfortunate part of our national life. But the public does expect more of a president who has pledged to bring us together. Those private thoughts are as much or more a part of him as the conciliatory public statements.

While attempting to sugarcoat the racial references, the White House may find that the public, if it had to choose, would prefer an honest bigot.

Election: Barometer Of Interest

State Mexican-American Commission Director Stan Porras notes an awakening interest in government among Nebraska's Mexican-Americans. That interest is a sign of these times in which minority and other interest groups of all kinds have found that political clout is the way to get things done.

Five candidates of Mexican-American descent are running for school board or city council seats in Grand Island, Mitchell and Scottsbluff and according to Porras, "this is the first time in Nebraska's history that we've had so many candidates." Five candidates does not exactly represent a flood, but it is a heartening trend.

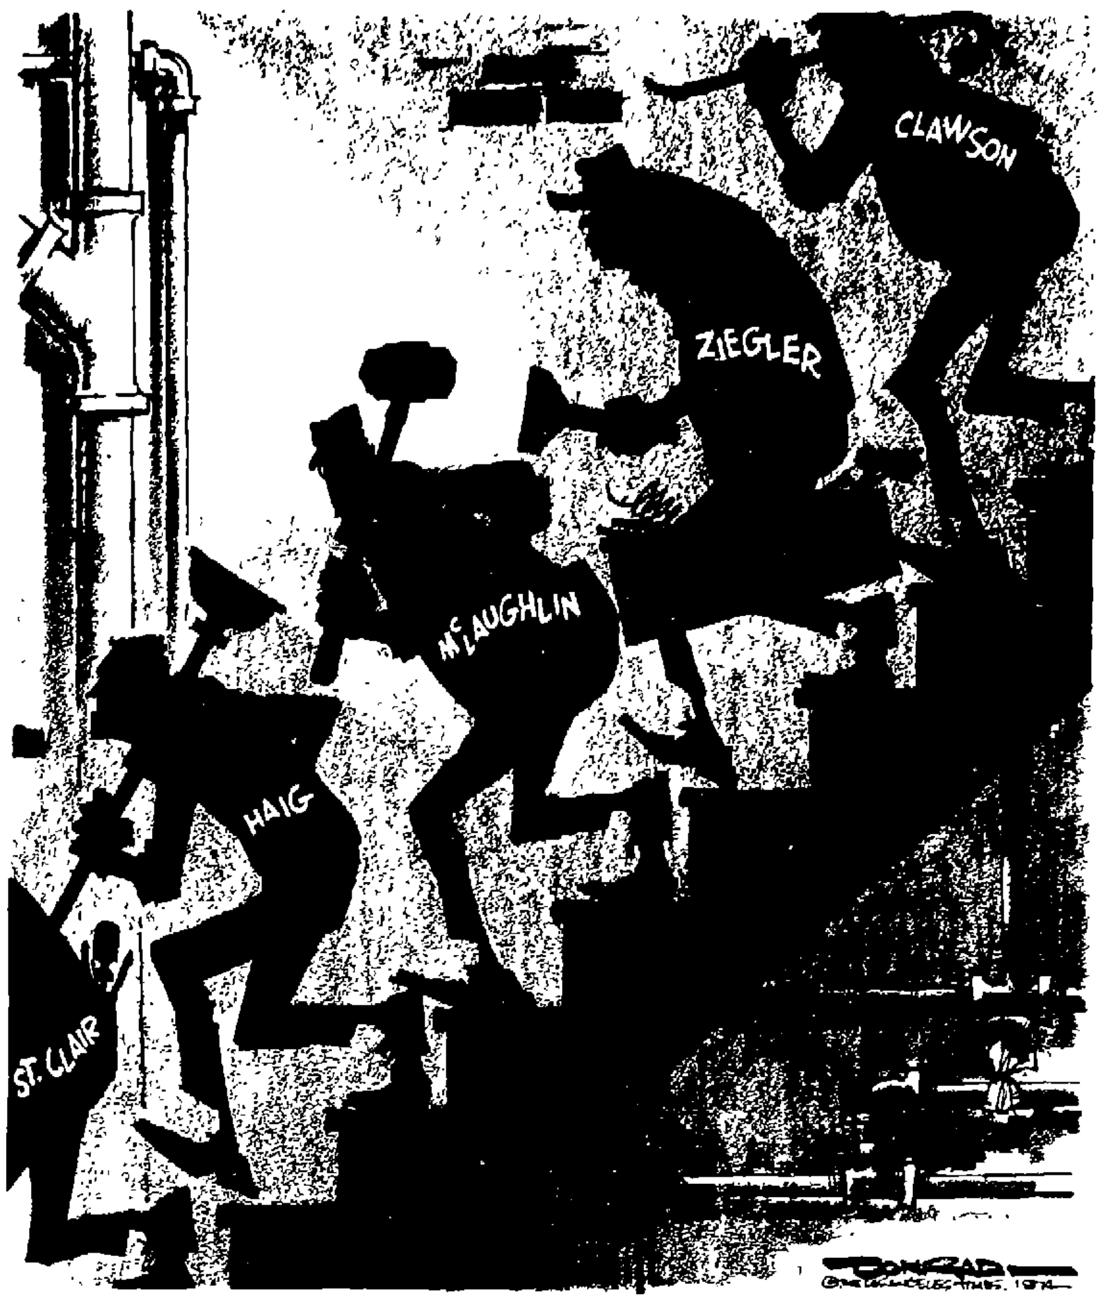
And while over the past few years minority and special issue groups have found relief in some measure through the ballot box, the average voter remains apathetic in large numbers. Now, that apathy is being attributed to the disenchantment with politics caused by Watergate.

Whatever its cause. Nebraskans are said to be somewhat apathetic about today's state primary and local elections. It's predicted that only slightly more than half of the state's registered voters will go to the polls.

It's May and the ballots feature interesting and important races and issues. There are contested congressional primaries in two of the state's districts; half of the Unicameral's seats are up for grabs; there is a tooth-and-nail fight for the Democratic lieutenant governor nomination and the fluoridation issue is on the ballot in 100 or more Nebraska communities.

It would be a pleasant surprise if Nebraskans turned out to be more interested in government than they are generally given credit for.

Committee To Unimpeach The President



Tech College Shored Up

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Education Writer

They were on edge, and rightly so.

Sixty administrators and supervisers in the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College had their jobs placed in jeopardy, when the governing board in effect fired every one in March.

The board's notice of no contract renewals until Area President Robert S. Eicher completed a reorganization of the area college represented a timely weeding out (apologies to Roger Welsch) of dead weight and duplication.

Although the Fairbury, Lincoln and Milford community colleges were merged last July 1 under an area concept for the state's vocational-technical schools, the three campuses were being operated much the same as in their previous single-unit status.

Neither the campus presidents nor the area staff had precedent or basis for a cohesive operation, and little aid from the fledgling area board.

After five weeks of study, Eicher recommended and the area board approved firing three persons under scrutiny, including Fairbury campus President Ivan Simpson. (A fourth individual not offered a contract renewal was retiring.)

Ousting four out of 60 doesn't outwardly represent much of an uprooting. But elimination — firing simply for reorganization's sake — wasn't the purpose of the board's directive.

Rather, it put Eicher where he belongs, firmly and unquestionably in charge as president of each campus. The campus presidents were renamed directors, eliminating confusion to outsiders that board members said resulted from having an area president and three campus presidents.

Eicher rightly pointed out he didn't care much what tags the board chose to place on the presidents, suggesting prestige titles were a hollow measure of importance and effectiveness.

Whatever they were to be called, Eicher's directors on the new college organizational chart retained their autonomy and responsibility to administer educational programs, held together and directed by the strengthened area concept. In the shuffle, the board more importantly okayed Eicher's proposals to reassign 11 employes to area-wide functions in the 15-county area.

At the same time, the board served notice that other administrators and supervisers had better step lightly with their renewed contracts. Board members warned if they decide they don't like the new operation, they'll try something else.

The board deserves credit for the brassy but warranted order to retread.

Brassy, because it ousted Simpson after seven years as president at Fairbury, based on objectives to his effectiveness, and it axed three other Fairbury positions, deemed unnecessary.

Warranted, because the board moved at a time when the direction of governing post-secondary education in Nebraska is flailing about, when none of the experts agrees yet on coordination.

Yet the board, it must be fairly pointed out, proceeds shakily at times. Case in point: The members voted last month to pay, almost belatedly, $1,115 in 1973-74 dues to the Nebraska Association of Technical Community Colleges.

Board Chairman Merle Ebers of Beaver Crossing objected, saying part of the dues goes to the pockets of lobbyists who wear too many other special interest hats. One newsman remarked in an aside that if the NATCC dues payment were to come out of the board members' pockets, they wouldn't have approved it as readily; that somehow, taxpayers' money is easier to spend.

Almost coincidentally, some board members themselves may be ousted, when voters in the primary election Tuesday will partially shape what will be the composition of the board this fall.

New members will be faced with continuing growing pains, light and heady, from dues payments to firings.

The board will lose the benefit of considered decisiveness from Don Ferguson of Lincoln, not running for re-election: Ferguson gets kudos for providing most of the vocal leadership and working stimulus for any straight-ahead direction the board has taken, including the reorganization.

Chairman Ebers offers another of the few outspoken board voices, forthright and honest among what has been called a "gutless" board.

Other members occasionally infusing thoughtfulness and reason into board proceedings are Howard Mannschreck of Fairbury, Loretta Draper of Plattsmouth and Alan Dunlap of Milford.

Whatever shape the voters make the board, its charge is clear. Robert Wekesser of Lincoln set a precedent of sorts when he told fellow board members — and they agreed — that they'll clean house again if that's what it takes to get on right with the business of educating.

All For 10¢ A Stamp

WASHINGTON — Out of the higher postage that the public must now pay, Postmaster General Elmer Klassen has squeezed thousands of dollars to improve his living style.

He keeps two chauffeurs busy, at public expense, tooling his wife and himself around town. Their favorite driver put in so much overtime behind the wheel last year that he nearly doubled his government salary.

Several times a week, a chauffeur fetches Mrs. Klassen to dine with her husband in baronial splendor in the penthouse facility that he built at postal headquarters. This cost the taxpayers $50,000, which is a lot of postage stamps.

The taxpayers also pay a cook and a waiter to prepare and serve Klassen's meals with fitting elegance Yet despite all this kingly treatment, the postmaster general still complains.

Not long ago, a stern memo went out from the front office. "The two-pedestal dining-room table delivered in the last few weeks for Mr. Klassen's use in the Postal Service is too massive," protested the memo. "Mr. Klassen stated that he wants a smaller table that can be expanded if necessary . . ."

The matter of the postmaster general's table was given top priority. Needless to say, the memo added, "the Postal Service will assume any additional cost involved in transportation, etc."

Last year, Klassen became bored with the two official Cadillacs at his disposal and ordered a fancy, new Lincoln Continental. In order to avoid channels, he had a trusted aide, Gen. Robert McCutcheon, handle the details of making the car over into a limousine. But the energy crisis made it awkward for government bigwigs to be seen shuttling around in gas-guzzling limos.

So Klassen quietly cancelled the Lincoln and ordered a more modest Chevrolet Caprice instead. But he is not one to carry economy too far. He ordered the Chevy seats ripped out and new power seats installed. The spokesman said the fancy seats were needed to accommodate Klassen's six-foot-five frame.

We recently reported that Klassen passed out expensive stamp albums to his friends at Christmas. We neglected to mention that the Postal Service also paid for two sets of Christmas cards mailed out by the Klassens.

The first design displeased the pampered postmaster general, because the crimson color was "funereal" He ordered another batch designed — at extra cost, of course, to the stamp-buying public.

These were delivered so late that Klassen had to pay his secretaries overtime to address the envelopes on a Saturday, so that the postmaster general could meet his own Christmas mailing deadline.

Still, the Klassen Christmas story isn't complete. He also ordered postal artists to design a special card for his grandchildren

It's the public who pays, meanwhile, at the stamp window.

'Impeachable' Needs To Be Defined

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's best hope of avoiding impeachment and conviction now lies in the fact that there is no agreement in the Congress, the press, or even in the legal fraternity about what the grounds for impeachment of a president should be

White House counsel is arguing that "the words 'treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors' . . . mean criminal offenses Not only do the words inherently require a criminal offense, but one of a very serious nature committed in one's governmental capacity "

Counsel for the house judiciary committee, on the other hand, argues that this is far too narrow a definition, but that a president can be impeached and convicted if he does not meet his wider constitutional responsibilities and "take care" for "the over-all conduct of the executive branch which the Constitution vests in him alone "

The issue is not likely to be settled by trying to figure out what was in the minds of James Madison, James Wilson and the other architects of the Constitution, who knew a lot about human weakness and the corruption of power and secrecy but not much about tapes, MIRV's and other modern abominations.

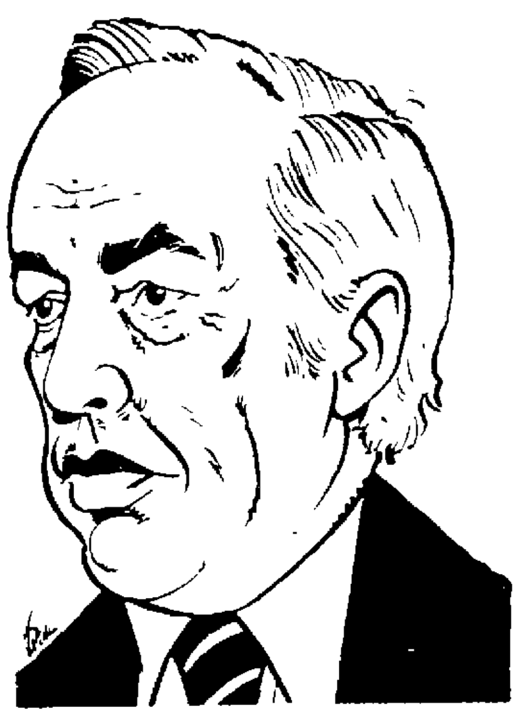
This does not mean that the constitutional precedents are not useful. They are a far better guide than Gerald Ford's conclusion, when he was trying to impeach Mr. Justice William O. Douglas, that an impeachable offense was whatever the House and the Senate consider it to be.

If the debate on what is impeachable is left to a controversy over the meaning of half a dozen words in the Contitution, or on the whim of members of the Congress, it could be incomprehensible and interminable. Left to historical precedent alone, it would probably end in a scoreless tie Left to the test of others, it could deny the President a fair trial.

Accordingly, there may be no remedy for the members of the House and Senate other than to listen to the conflicting definitions of what is impeachable, study the evidence and have recourse to common sense in judging what is best, not for the past but for the future of the Republic.

The Congress will have to consider, for example, the White House argument that a president can be impeached only if guilty of a specific crime, and also Mr Justice Story's argument that impeachment also applies to "political offenses, growing out of personal misconduct, or gross neglect, or usurpation, or habitual disregard of the duties of political office."

The fate of Richard Nixon may very well rest on whether the Congress accepts the narrow test that they must find him to be a "criminal" or the broader tests of misconduct, abuse of power, neglect of duty, subversion of the Constitution, etc.



JAMES ST. CLAIR
. . . argues for specific criminal offenses . . .

White House Counsel James D. St. Clair in his brief to the Judiciary Committee, Feb. 28, 1974 argues that broadening the definition of impeachment beyond specific criminal offenses "of a very serious nature" would be "destructive to our system of government," whereas the Judiciary Committee staff argues that a president can be impeached for "undermining the integrity of office, disregard of constitutional duties and oath of office, arrogation of power, abuse of the governmental process, adverse impact on the system of government. Clearly, it concludes, "these effects can be brought about in ways not anticipated by criminal law."

No doubt White House counsel can make a good case among the lawyers on Capitol Hill with this argument that you either have to prove the President a criminal or acquit him, but the common sense of the people may long for something better than a clever defense and hung jury.

After all, if you have to prove that a president is a criminal to get rid of him, and that anything less than criminal action is acceptable, then we're in trouble. For on this ground a vice president can be dismissed and disbarred for cheating on his income taxes and a president can be retained even if he cheated on the American people.

On this ground too, a president could be a drunk, or a liar, except under oath, or abuse his power or neglect his duty, or ignore his cabinet and leave things to men like Ehrlichman, Haldeman, Dean and Colson, who were not accountable to anybody but him. None of this is clearly "criminal "

The President is now counting on people's asking not what was right but what could he get away with, what was not clearly "criminal," and after all the clever tragedies of the last year, he is not only arguing that "criminality" is the only fair and constitutional test, but he is getting away with it much better than most people suppose.

All Lincoln To Benefit

Lincoln, Neb.

The Lincoln Education Association has scored a real breakthrough in regard to negotiations with the Board of Education. I can't recall a more successful package for the teachers than the overall benefits they bargained for and received this year.

A big pat on the back should be in order for Robert Peterson, the new executive director of LEA, and for the members of the negotiating team. These people stuck to their guns and proved that the LEA can be a powerful force to be reckoned with when it has top quality people working for it, under expert leadership.

I hope that this is only the beginning for the association in becoming a vital force in helping professional educators obtain their rightful place among other professions in our city.

A tip of the hat, too, for our current school board members who in recent years have called all the shots and have always managed to control these annual proceedings.

History has been made this past week and all of Lincoln is going to benefit by helping to keep outstanding teachers from leaving the ranks.

Danger All About Us

Lincoln, Neb.

This letter is in response to The Star's front-page article, "Know What Can Happen," printed May 3. I can sympathize with the motorcycle crash victim and his wife and family. Some of my good friends have cracked up and one was killed while on a cycle.

However, anyone who rides a motorcycle should under stand and accept the possibility of a serious accident. A bike is not a toy. It's a piece of machinery designed for economical and a freer style of transportation. If potential riders can't hack the responsibility, they should never get on the bike. And once they get on and crack up, they have no right to complain. This is hard for a family to understand but they should respect the rider's decision, even when an accident occurs.

Pointing out the dangers involved in an activity is one thing; front-page notoriety is something else. No bus, truck, railroad, plane and most generally car-crash victim rates a front-page interview attesting to how dangerous their vehicle is. No phase of life is without danger — people still slip in the shower. We live and accept the dangers — or else we can be vegetables.

Too High A Price

Lincoln, Neb.

I am writing in regard to the proposed West Lincoln By-Pass that would intersect Wilderness Park in two places and would travel along the park's west edge. I feel that this by-pass would destroy the park's wildlife by destroying the habitat that the animals need to survive.

In this time of ultra-mechanization and super-highways, I feel it is important to preserve this small bit of wilderness that serves as a home for many wild animals and provides a place for me and others to escape the hectic life we lead among overwhelming concrete structures, impersonal organizations and masses of hurried people.

If Wilderness Park is destroyed in the name of efficiency, how soon will it be until the future generations of Lincoln can see "wild" animals only in cages in zoos?

I feel that it is important to preserve Wilderness Park and while a few acres would be gained by construction of the by-pass, it is impossible to preserve wildlife and wilderness with a super-highway passing through it and bordering the park. I hope that others who feel as I do will speak out and that the State Roads Department and the Lincoln City Council will reconsider building the proposed by-pass in the proposed location.

The by-pass may be needed but the destruction of the park is too high a price to pay for the convenience.

Defacing Park A Tragedy

Lincoln, Neb.

Wilderness Park is one of the only attempts at preserving a flood-plain forest area that I know of. This park, running through seven miles of Salt Creek flood-plain is nature at its natural best.

The park is already crossed by a number of streets and roads which have an unpleasant effect on the park in terms of noise and animal mortalities. To propose to run a four-lane highway across or even over the park at any point is ignorance of the facts. To propose to trade for land elsewhere is cheap bribery.

The destruction of this area by building of highways across the park because it is the shortest distance between two points or for "economic reasons" would be a tragedy for which the entire community must bear the blame if we fail to act now.

Aid, Comfort To The Enemy

Alexandria, Neb.

The Constitution states that the president shall be removed from office "on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors. Two definitions of treason are recited, one of which reads that treason against the United States consists of "adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

Who are the enemies of the United States? Are they not the politburo and Communist Party supporters against whom we maintain a $100-billion-a-year defense burden, unsure even that that sum buys us security? Has President Nixon given them aid and comfort?

In the summer of 1972, they were faced with famine. At that time Mr. Nixon caused to be sold to them about 393 million bushels of wheat which have actually cost them up to the present time only the interest they have paid.

Two years ago he stood in their Kremlin and in so many words told them they could do anything to their citizens and we would consider it none of our business.

Watergate stinks and may include high crimes and misdemeanors, but it is for positive and obvious treason that President Nixon should be tried, convicted and removed from office.

Stopping Destruction

Bennet, Neb.

I have been informed of the highway planned to go through Wilderness Park. Though my residence places me far from the area, I can appreciate all attempts to stop the highway from cutting through any section of natural woodland.

Mankind's so-called progress has deployed, depleted and destroyed a large percentage of the natural beauty around us. It's time to stop the wanton destruction of nature by superhighways and the like. People should take the time to drive around natural areas and maybe even stop once to appreciate the natural beauty.

British Seize IRA Belfast Control Plans

LONDON (AP) — The British army has seized documents which reveal detailed plans by the outlawed Irish Republican Army to take over or destroy Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland, Prime Minister Harold Wilson said Monday.

Wilson said the documents contain "a specific and calculated plan" to occupy and control densely populated areas of Belfast and its suburbs "by ruthless and indiscriminate violence."

Wilson said he was "totally satisfied that these documents are genuine."

He told a hushed House of Commons that should those attacks fail, the IRA planned to conduct a "scorched earth policy," burning down large areas of the city as it retreated.

The British army seized the information in one of its most successful raids in five years of trying to keep peace in the British-run province of Northern Ireland. Army forces raided a house in Belfast which they said was the IRA headquarters in the city and found documents, maps, arms and ammunition and arrested Brendan Hughes, IRA Belfast commander.

The IRA wants to drive Britain out of the province, which has a Protestant majority, and unite it with the independent Irish republic to the south.

Wilson said the army also captured plans for the next round in IRA terrorist activities which were designed to foment sectarian hatred between Roman Catholics and Protestants.

Wilson said the documents will enable police to bring charges against IRA terrorists

Conservative Fund Money To Stromer

By The Associated Press

Gerald Stromer's campaign for the Republican nomination for the 3rd District congressional seat is being partially financed by the American Conservative Union.

Stromer's campaign finance report filed with the secretary of state shows a contribution of $1,000 from the "Conservative Victory Fund." The address for the fund is listed as 422 First St. S.E., Washington, D.C. That is the address of a conservative journal of opinion called "Human Events."

Robert Latham, managing editor of the publication, said the magazine has not supported Stromer, but there was a very good chance the magazine would if he proved to be a conservative candidate.

Latham said the Conservative Victory Fund was managed by the American Conservative Union He said it was not unusual for groups of the right to use each other's mailing addresses.

Latham said the fund was created so conservative Republicans could make contributions without turning them over to the Republican National Committee, which might give the money to liberal Republicans.

The Conservative Victory Fund has filed no campaign finance reports in Nebraska, according to the secretary of state's office.

The fund has filed no reports with the clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives since Dec. 31.

The reports in Washington show the fund raised $55,000 during 1973 and spent $42,800. Most of the contributions were small from widely dispersed areas of the country.

The largest contribution during the last third of 1973 came from a Duluth, Minn., man who gave $2,000. There was one contribution of $500 and two of $250. The others were smaller.

PACE Aid Is Returned By Waldron

State Sen James Waldron, a Republican seeking the Congressional nomination from the Third District, has returned a $1,000 contribution from the Political Action Committee for Education (PACE) when it was learned the contribution may have been illegal.

John Lynch, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA), said Monday PACE, the NSEA's political arm, requested the $1,000 be returned after federal campaign laws were examined.

The contribution may have been illegal, Lynch said, because corporations may not contribute to candidates for federal office. PACE, Lynch said, is a political corporation, not a committee.

Had PACE been a political committee the contribution would have been legal, he said.

Lynch said PACE has not made any other contributions to candidates for federal office from Nebraska. PACE has contributed to several campaigns for state office.

Beet Growers Irrigating

Scottsbluff (AP) — Many beet growers, who have water available, are irrigating their crop due to continued dry conditions.

Great Western Sugar Co. is encouraging its growers to begin irrigating where water is available

The dry conditions were reported through the North Platte Valley and in the Alliance area. Irrigation usually does not begin until mid-June.

The National Weather Service office at Scottsbluff said last month was the fourth driest April on record with moisture during the month totaling .35 of an inch. Normal moisture for April is 1 52 inches

The service said the last moisture of beneficial amount was 1.68 inches received from the March 10 and 11 snow storm.

Liquor License Ceiling Is Debated

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City lawmakers eyed a proposed change in the city's liquor license policy Monday which would give thirsty Lincolnites seven more lounges in which to quench their thirst.

At issue is Councilman John Robinson's ordinance to raise the ceiling on licenses from 135 to 142. Under the plan, one license would be granted for each 1,150 residents.

The proposal came under fire from the Lancaster County Beverage Assn. and a local lounge operator, while receiving the support of a former liquor license applicant.

Under present city law, the number of licenses is set at a flat 135. Four additional licenses have been granted to Pershing Auditorium, the Municipal Airport and to Holmes and Pioneers golf courses.

Under Robinson's formula, the city would gain seven new licenses based on the planning department's 1973 population figures of 164,100 people.

Estimated 1974 figures put Lincoln's population at 167,000 or 168,000. The maximum number of licenses thus allowed would be 145 or 146, using the formula.

Based on one license for every 1,150 people, there is now one license for every 1,237 residents.

Attorney Mike Alesio, representing the Lancaster County Beverage Assn., opposed the plan.

Heavier Police Burden

Alesio also maintained any increase in licenses would put a heavier enforcement burden on the police department.

On questioning from Councilman Max Denney, Chief Joe Carroll acknowledged he would need additional officers to check the bars "to meet the same degree of enforcement. Or we can lower the degree of enforcement with the same number of men," Carroll said.

The chief said the additional number of officers needed would depend upon the location of the new license holders. He indicated less men would be needed if the lounges opened up in the central business district.

The study conducted by the beverage association was termed "completely irrelevant" by University of Nebraska law professor Wallace Rudolph. He said the study did not focus on the crux of the problem — the so-called "good will price" attached to the transfer of licenses.

"And that's the real problem here," Rudolph said.

Several months ago Rudolph represented the Lincoln Raquet Club in its unsuccessful attempt to obtain a Class C license to sell liquor to the club's membership. The quota was filled. It was at that time that he suggested a review of the city's overall liquor policy was warranted.

Said Offered Two

Since he appeared before the council, Rudolph said he has been offered two licenses for $20,000 each, a price which he charged was exorbitant.

By tying the license quota to population, the transfer price would drop to a more acceptable $5,000 range, he said.

Rudolph said, "I don't think the limitations should protect the existing owners."

The $20,000 price tag attached to licenses was disputed by James Ludwig, operator of a lounge at 136 N. 14th.

Ludwig charged the $20,000 to $30,000 figures quoted in press reports "is severely overstated." He said he has never heard of any licenses selling for that price.

He said he feels there are an adequate number of lounges in Lincoln to serve the community.

Legally, the licenses are nontransferable City Atty Dick Wood noted, however, that whenever a municipality places a lid, "there's going to be some value placed on the license."

The council is scheduled to act on the ordinance next week.

Shopping Centers Hearing June 3

The City Council Monday shoved a public hearing on five shopping center applications back from next week to June 3.

The postponement was made to allow a new zoning category for shopping center development to be enacted prior to the council's consideration of the specific applications themselves. The district is J-1 Planned Regional Commercial.

The lawmakers held public hearings Monday on the new zoning category and a corollary application requiring a special use permit for shopping center development in the J-1 district.

The zoning requirements will have the effect of giving the city greater control over the step-by-step development of centers located on at least 30 acres of land.

The J-1 district would require the applicant to comply with environmental standards relating to noise, emission, dust, odor, glare and heat.

And, whenever any application "substantially deviates" from the Comprehensive Plan in terms of location or size, the applicant is required to submit an environmental impact statement and a market analysis. The deviation would be determined by the planning director.

Attorney Dave Pierson, representing developer Hub Hall, who is proposing a center at 56th and Old Cheney Rd., suggested several revisions in the ordinance.

Attorney Chauncey Barney, for Ericson Development Co., which is proposing a center at 27th and Old Cheney Rd., suggested language be added to permit land zoned J-1 to revert back to its original zoning if the developer fails to build the center within a certain time.

If the council creates the new zoning classification next week, the ordinances would go into effect June 10.

In other action, the council killed Councilman John Robinson's proposal to spend up to $5,000 to renovate the old Willard School building in West Lincoln.

That action came after Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said a vacant barrack at the Lincoln Air Base will be used to temporarily house people coming to Lincoln for the Wounded Knee trials.

Robinson had proposed that the Willard School be renovated for housing, which prompted a round of criticism from West Lincoln residents last week.

Only Robinson voted against killing the measure. Councilwoman Helen Boosalis said she had no reservations about spending city funds for housing, but said she thought the Willard School location was not the proper site for such housing.

In other action, the council authorized the expenditure of $4,460 from the Northeast Radial street construction fund to pay for relocation assistance for Mr. and Mrs. David Hauswald. The agreement with the Hauswalds was entered into in August, 1972, prior to the freezing of all radial funds in April, 1973.

In its action two weeks ago killing the radial as it is presently designed, the council also indicated its willingness to pick up properties in the right-of-way in hardship cases.

In further action, the council approved the filing of an application with the Federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration for a technical study grant for $32,000.

The study will focus on Lincoln's mass transit needs for the next five to ten years. That study is required to obtain additional federal dollars for new buses for the Lincoln Transportation System.

Finance Director James Mallon said $8,000 in city matching funds will be needed to conduct the planning study.

City Officials Still Oppose Closing Off Of Old Cheney

City officials Monday reaffirmed their opposition to a Department of Roads' plan to close off Old Cheney Rd. on either side of 56th.

That proposal is suggested in the department's design for Hwy. 2 reconstruction.

City Council members and the mayor pointed out, however, that Old Cheney Rd. is the main east-west arterial along the southern fringe of the city.

Public Works Director Bob Obering said Old Cheney Rd. "is one of our most important southern routes" and reaffirmed his staff's support of an alternate to loop Old Cheney Rd. around to the south of the 56th and Hwy. 2 intersection.

Public Works Director Bob Obering said Old Cheney Rd. "is one of our most important southern routes" and reaffirmed his staff's support of an alternate to loop Old Cheney Rd. around to the south of the 56th and Hwy. 2 intersection.

Traffic Engineer Bob Holsinger said two proposed changes of zones for major regional shopping centers also compound the traffic problem if Old Cheney Rd. were to be dead-ended at 56th. A center is proposed at 56th and Old Cheney Rd. and at 27th and Old Cheney Rd.

Obering said the centers would generate between 25,000 and 30,000 vehicle trips a day, causing major access problems at the 56th and Hwy. 2 location.

Ellis Tompkins, an engineer with the department, said if the shopping center were built at the 56th location, "this intersection is going to break down."

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis pointed out that the shopping center proposals "have been kicking around for around a year."

Tompkins said "our message is, the (Old Cheney Rd.) loop is the city's responsibility, not the state's."

City officials also objected to plans to relocate 17th along the Department of Roads's complex to the west of the existing street.

Council members agreed to other Hwy. 2 alignments proposed by the department.

Tompkins asked for the meeting to try to resolve differences on the project so that the Department of Roads can present plans to the highway commission.

Southeast Nebraska Storm Damage Light

Funnel clouds dipped to the ground in Gage and Pawnee Counties early Monday night, with damage limited to power lines, trees and grain bins.

The southeast Nebraska storm toppled trees and power lines across Highway 4 at the Gilbert Richardson farm a mile east of Lewiston, located in northwestern Pawnee County.

Damage was also reported at the Dawson Wischmeier farm, 2½ miles southwest of Lewiston, and at the nearby Andrew Thomas farm where a grain bin was damaged.

Golf ball size hail fell at Tecumseh, according to the National Weather Service.

Tornado clouds were also sighted in the Virginia area in eastern Gage County.

Lincolnites Said Good Neighbors By Ak-Sar-Ben

Three Lincoln residents were among 93 people and 20 groups elected for 1974 Good Neighbor Awards at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Jan Leeper was commended for organizing a Those Interested in Diabetic Youth program, for families, teachers and school nurses who work with diabetic children.

Julius and Myrtle Young were commended for their care of Dr. John G. Neihardt, former Nebraska poet laureat.

Council Accepts Resignation Of Mayor-Elect

Cincinnati (UPI)—The Cincinnati City Council has approved a motion to formally accept the resignation of mayor-elect Gerald N. Springer, who quit after his name was mentioned in connection with a prostitution investigation.

The 30-year-old Springer, who would have become mayor Dec. 1, was then reappointed to the council.

Springer had submitted his letter of resignation from the council April 29 and later admitted he had visited prostitutes twice.

U.N. Official Eyes Fresh Approach

By H. J. ANDERSON
Star Staff Writer

International interdependence demands an "entirely fresh global approach" in which the United Nations "surely has an important role to play," Dr. Kurt Herndl told the 100-member audience at the United Nations Association 18th annual Presidents Banquet Monday night at the Nebraska Center.

Herndl, an Austrian, is director of the security council division of the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs, United Nations Secretariat.

The energy crisis and the Middle East conflict are only two examples of problems reaching into the whole world's economic situation, Herndl said.

"This interdependence is a reality which the sovereign states may be reluctant to admit," he said, but it calls for "a new spirit of solidarity" and a "reassessment of the states toward the UN."

Herndl quoted U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim as saying the U.N. is in a "crisis of committment by member states . . . policies of individual states still have greater weight than their desire to make the (U.N.) charter a reality."

Herndl said disappointment that the U.N. stems from "unrealistic and unreasonable hopes that were initially entertained" when the organization was formed 30 years ago.

Founders imagined a "world at peace, policed by cooperative powers," he said The hopes were soon clouded, he said, with disagreements and Cold War.

But the founders could not have forseen the impact of decolonization during the 1950s, he said, which added such diversity to the world.

The U.N. can play a role in solving problems of overpopulation, poverty, hunger, and natural resource shortages, he said.

The first officers of the newly organized Nebraska Division of the UNA were installed at the banquet They are: Dr. Wallace Peterson, Lincoln, president; Dr. Kenneth Wise, Omaha, first vice president; Dr. Otto Hoiberg, Lincoln, second vice president; Dr. Harold Blostein, Kearney, third vice president; Mrs. C. E. Brown, Omaha, recording secretary; and Miss Irma Warta, Lincoln, treasurer.

Directors will be Mel Beckman, Col. Gerald Adams and Kurt Freiburg, all of Omaha; and Simon Galter, Glenn Feather and Mrs. James Sellers, all of Lincoln.

Lincoln chapter officers were also installed. They are: Dr. Donald Miller, president; Dr. Wallace Peterson, vice president; Miss Irma Warta, secretary; Mrs. N. M. Allpress, treasurer; Glenn Feather and Dr. Thomas Huxtable, past presidents.

Judge Opposes 55 MPH Limit

Harrisburg (UPI) — A Banner County associate judge believes the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit is unconstitutional and has dismissed five cases since May 6 to back up his point.

In addition, Judge Robert Downer has written a five-page opinion on the unconstitutionality of the law.

The judge said he wants the law to be tested in the Nebraska Supreme Court and the state attorney general to issue guidelines on its administration.

Downer said the Nebraska Legislature accepted the federal mandate, not because it was a law, but the state faced the threat of losing federal highway funds if the speed limit wasn't enacted.

The judge said the Legislature is the lawmaking body and cannot transfer that authority to the executive branch, namely the governor or the president.

"If we are wrong," Downer said, "we will act according to the law, but if I have to sit in judgment of these people I feel I must be justified in issuing them a fine.

LAP Board Okays 3-Month Budget Bid

The Lincoln Action Program (LAP) will present a three month budget request of approximately $42,500 to the Lincoln City Council Monday May 27th.

The LAP board voted approval of the budget request Monday night.

LAP is not assured of funds past June 30 when money for the Office of Economic Opportunity runs out. There will be an estimated $24,877 balance on that date, but that money may have to be returned to the government.

A spokesman for the low-income board members who had agreed as a block not to support the budget request in April because of dissension in the staff said they now supported the budget and the problems "seem to be ironed out."

LAP executive director Jessie Payne said the budget request does not include funds for the Manpower program because of what he termed Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's feeling that the requirement for those services was already being met by existing agencies.

The board also voted to ask the County Board to support the portion of community development outreach work done outside the city.

The board will also be asked to provide money for swim tickets for children living outside the city limits

In other matters the board discussed ways of improving attendance at board and committee meetings.

The group decided that board members will be asked which committees they want to serve on and an attempt will be made to give everyone their first choice The chairman will be elected by the members of the committee.

Board member Ken Bratt said he refused to attend meetings of the community development committee because of the actions of Carl Kopines, committee chairman.

"He'll ask a question and then he'll give you the answer," Bratt said, "and if you don't go along along with him, look out."

M. E. Handler Dies: Services Slated Tuesday

Omaha (AP) — Manning E. Handler, Omaha civic and business leader, died Sunday.

He was vice president of Stern Brothers investment bankers and manager of the Omaha office until he retired last month.

Mr. Handler was president of the Nebraska Investment Bankers Assn. in 1937. He also was a councillor of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben and a board member of Temple Israel and Children's Hospital.

He was known as one of Omaha's leading contract bridge players and played in tournaments throughout the nation.

Surviving are his wife, Lee, and a daughter, Mrs. Milton R. Adler of Santa Fe, N.M.

Services will be Tuesday at 11 a m at Temple Israel.

Police Station Streaker Foiled At Wrong Turn

COOS BAY, Ore. (AP) — Darius Oaks' plan was to streak through the local police station clad only in boots, then dash outside to his friend's waiting car and speed off, leaving the desk sergeant immobilized with disbelief.

It didn't work that way. Unfamiliar with the layout of the station, Oaks took a wrong turn into the chief's office, where the sergeant trapped him, handcuffed him and invited him to spend the night.

Monday morning, Oaks, 23, tried to reconstruct in court the humor and innocent fun of the early Sunday prank. The judge didn't buy it.

He convicted Oaks of indecent exposure, fined him $53 and sentenced him to 10 days in jail.

Governor Says No To Ms. Use

Answer: If you have taken the time to analyze how you use your car, you are a step up on picking the right one. The answer to your needs isn't necessarily a small car. It isn't necessarily a big car. It depends on your individual situation.

Pick the size that fits the way you use your car. And see your Buick dealer. From Opel to Electra 225, Buick has a car for the way you drive.

GM
Opel Apollo/Century/LeSabre/Riviera Electra 225

Runsas Look Great, Taste Even Better

by GRACIA SIEB
Star Staff Writer

"I don't care how they look, just so they taste good," Mrs. Kathy Wagner of Roca said as she mixed up a batch of runsas.

But they looked great, and warm out of the oven, they tasted even better.

"This is an old recipe that my grandmother and mother used," she explained. "They used to just throw in the ingredients. I figured it out by measurements, but now I find myself doing the same thing."

Offering this family recipe and several helpful hints, Mrs. Wagner noted, "The secret is getting them pinched right."

RUNSAS

Dough

1 large potato
1 c. flour
¾ c. sugar
2 T. salt
2 eggs
¾ c. milk
¾ c. oil
2 pkgs. dry yeast
½ c warm water

Slice peeled potato and boil until soft. Strain potato through sieve, pour hot potato water with mashed potato over sugar and salt. Stir until dissolved. Add milk and oil to mixture. Pour over flour, which already contains eggs and yeast dissolved in ½ c. water. Work dough until all ingredients are mixed.

Knead dough and add flour if needed. (Sticky dough is easier to pinch together.) Knead to workable texture, not too dry.

Let rise 3½ hours. Punch down and let rise for 2 hours. Punch down again and let rise for 1½ to 2 hours. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness.

Filling

1½ lb. hamburger
1 large onion coarsely chopped (the more onion the better)
2 small heads of cabbage coarsely chopped
Salt and pepper to taste (with cabbage you can't use much pepper, because the taste becomes very strong when it is cooked, Mrs. Wagner advised.)

Brown hamburger until redness is out. Add chopped onions, salt and pepper. Add to this the chopped cabbage and cook until cabbage is tender. Don't overcook! Drain off excess juices.

Cut ¼-inch thick dough in 5 by 5-inch squares. Spoon about ½ cup of filling onto each square. Bring corners together at top and pinch edges together

Place upside down in greased pan. Bake immediately for 25 to 30 minutes at 375° (temperature for glass pans)

Yield: 18 runsas.

"Actually, you can make them any size you want," Mrs. Wagner pointed out, "but the 5 by 5-inch squares work the best for me

"Also, be sure to drain the cabbage, because if it is too wet the runsas won't stick together

If you've ever diapered a baby, you can do it," Mrs. Wagner added when talking about sealing the edges of the dough. "Just bring up the four corners and pinch the sides. Don't get the edges wet or it won't stick together.

"I like to bake in the glass pans because everything seems to brown better," she commented, adding "and with the leftover dough, you can make cinnamon rolls, bread, coffeecake; and I use it to make cloverleaf dinner rolls too, because it is a sweet dough"

ON FLOURED SURFACE . . . Mrs. Wagner rolls dough.

CUT . . . dough into 5 by 5-inch squares.

FINISHED RUNSAS . . . and cinnamon rolls, breads, made with leftover dough.

BAKE . . . runsas in 375° oven.

How Do Women Fare?

Possibly as many as 50,000 men each year earn a college education through athletic scholarships. How do women fare? Figures are hard to come by, acknowledges the Reader's Digest in its January issue, but it's likely that fewer than 50 American women hold athletic scholarships.

Grandma Finds a Gold Mine— in Plates!

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one grandmother of modest means bought one exceptional plate for $25 in 1965 that now sells for $1,050, and purchased another at $10 in 1969 that now brings $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report telling what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 1080T Sunset Ridge, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request by May 25, 1974.

While a 4-year-old boy may spend more time with his mother, it's his father's behavior that seems to shape the child's motivation and ability to learn, a new study shows.

'Fathering' Is Important To Sons

A major Catholic author just published an article in a national magazine suggesting that perhaps it was time to abolish Mother's Day, the traditional posies and put-mom-on-the-pedestal celebration just past At the same time, a national magazine's current cover story centers on the "fathering instinct."

The articles point up the changing attitudes going on about child-rearing which question whether too much emphasis has been put on mother and too little on father

Now a university study has disclosed that while a four-year-old boy may spend more time with his mother, it's his father's behavior that seems to shape the child's motivation and ability to learn

The father, who responds positively to his son's needs, praises his achievements and involves him in decision-making, is enhancing the boy's intellectual development, the study indicates.

At the same time, the father may show this same kind of "nuturing," behavior toward his four-year-old daughter without affecting her learning ability at all, according to the study For girls of this age, the mother's influence is dominant

Mothers and fathers may have equal but different responsibilities, it seems

The study of 180 fathers and four-year-olds provides some important new information for behavioral scientists seeking correlations between parental conduct and children's learning, says Prof. Norma L Radin of the University of Michigan school of social work, which conducted the study

Previously, Prof Radin had hypothesized that "a parent's 'nurturant' behavior — that is, warmth, responsiveness to the child's needs and feelings, the use of praise and reward, and inclusion in decision-making — could have a positive impact on the child's learning ability.

"At first we studied preschoolers with their mothers," she reported. "We found that in white families, a mother's nurturant behavior enhanced cognitive development in daughters but had no apparent effect on the learning processes for sons.

"Now we find the same pattern holding for fathers and sons Apparently, four is an important age for sex role identification "

Each father was interviewed for about 90 minutes at home in the presence of his child They were informed that the research was based not only on the questions but on their behavior toward their child during the interview

Twenty-six kinds of father-child interaction, such as meeting or ignoring the child's needs, engaging him in conversation, consulting, warning, threatening, bribing or correcting him were coded.

There were fathers who drew their sons into the conversation, answered their demands, asked their opinions and praised their response. Theirs were the sons who scored high on the standard achievement tests administered later.

"Among fathers and daughters, especially in middle class families a less positive behavior pattern was observed," research associate Ann Epstein reported "The fathers would sometimes respond to their daughters' questions and demands and sometimes ignore them They would alternate reasonable requests with unexplained orders or threats These inconsistencies did not occur with fathers and sons "

The researchers speculate that the daughters are receiving a "mixed message" from their fathers The fathers display warmth, attentiveness and respect one minute and a lack of confidence or indifference the next The contradictory nature of their behavior may be the reason they have no impact on the girls' cognitive development

"Remember that we only studied father and children at the age of four," Radin stressed "Our findings might be very different if the children were in elementary school or high school "

Although white families of lower, working and middle class have been included in the latest study of a series, Prof. Radin says that correlations between nurturance and cognitive development are much stronger in the white middle class.

The studies indicate that a variety of child-rearing patterns exist in different social classes These are still being evaluated

However, several general conclusions have been reached

- The father's role in early child care has been largely neglected and underrated

- Fathers are ready to take larger roles in child-rearing; Those, in the study, representing a cross section of educational backgrounds and income groups, were involved and eager to discuss their children.

- Fathers have high ambitions for their daughters as for their sons and expect both to go to college

- Persons developing parent education programs should consider designing different programs for men and women

- It's the quality, not quantity, of time that a parent spends with his child that is important.

Concluded one of the reasearchers who worked on the study, "There is something about nuturing behavior that makes a child feel good about himself, feel good about the world, and eager to master it "

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

When Sylvia first learned to finesse, a brand new world opened up for her. She didn't fully comprehend what constituted a finesse, but that didn't stop her from deploying this new resource with all the enthusiasm of a child enamored of a delightful new toy.

Nor did it take long for the members of the club to learn of Sylvia's extraordinary conception of a finesse. She played in the club duplicate one night soon after her introduction to the finesse and held the South hand when this deal came up.

At most tables South arrived at four hearts and West led a diamond, taken with the ace. Declarer then led the ace and another trump, East producing the nine followed by the ten.

At this point the various declarers pondered deeply whether to play the queen or follow low. But whatever they played, they invariably went down one, for West took the king and led three rounds of diamonds to put South out of his misery.

But Sylvia, also in four hearts, made the contract in her own inimitable fashion. She won the diamond lead and entered her hand with a spade in order to make use of her latest weapon—the finesse.

She led the queen of trumps! West covered with the king, won in dummy with the ace, and Sylvia played another trump.

East won with the ten but was helpless. He did as well as he could when he cashed the jack of trumps and returned a spade, but the rest of the play was automatic Sylvia disposed of two of her diamonds on dummy's clubs and was the only one in the field to make four hearts.

Let Dad Have His Fun

DEAR ABBY: I have a most unusual father. He's close to 80, but looks 60, and he knows it. He never misses an opportunity to tell his age because everyone raves about how "young" he looks, and he eats it up

Whenever Dad goes to a wedding or a party where there's music he gets carried away and thinks he's Fred Astaire Everyone assumes he's tipsy, but all he drinks is soda pop

He's a handsome man and a good dancer, but not good enough to put on a solo performance, which he always does. Mom died five years ago, and Dad remarried, and his wife can't control him worth a hoot

My problem: My son is being married soon. Should I take Dad aside and ask him to please refrain from making a donkey of himself at the wedding reception? Or should I let him do his usual act and try to remain calm? All our relatives and friends know what a show-off he is but the bride's family has never seen him in action

I love my father, but when he's on, I blush like crazy, a smile freezes on my face, and I clench my teeth until my jaws ache What to do?

HIS DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: An 80-year-man who looks like 60 and thinks he's Fred Astaire (and on soda pop yet) is entitled to have a little fun. Let Dad have a good time. And — thank heavens you aren't shlepping chicken soup to him in a rest home every day!

DEAR ABBY I would like a wrestling partner Someone who would like to wrestle for fun and exercise I am not looking to be a champion

I am 66 years old, in good health, and would like to stay that way as long as possible I've never wrestled but that type of exercise appeals to me. Where should I look?

WANTS TO WRESTLE

DEAR WANTS: Go to the YMCA (if you're looking for a male partner — otherwise, go to the YWCA) and ask if there is a wrestler who would like to work out with you. If there is, you won't have to twist his arm.

DEAR ABBY: Here is a problem that has our whole family divided Shirley is married to Robert. Shirley's sister is married to Charles What are Robert and Charles to each other? I say they are brothers-in-law Someone in the family (of which I am a member) says Charles and Robert are NOT related to each other at all

If that is true, I cannot understand why Robert's children call Charles "Uncle," and Charles' children call Robert "Uncle "

Please rush your answer as this problem has thrown a wet blanket over our family reunions for years

ALL IN THE FAMILY

DEAR ALL: Technically, a brother-in-law is either the brother of one's wife or the husband of one's sister. However, it's customary for husbands and wives to accept their spouses' relatives by marriage as their own.

14-2 Was Tough In 1942

Among the many events in track and field in which improved performances have been fantastic, the pole vault probably leads, but the dazzling new heights aren't all because of better athletes.

Athletes today probably aren't impressed to hear that Harold Hunt set a Nebraska school record of 14 feet, 2 inches back in 1942. Vaulters today, the good ones at least, by-pass that height.

A look into the Big Eight Yearbook reveals there have been 130 jumps over 16 feet in conference history, including 20 of 17 feet and better.

One of those 17 footers, Terry Porter of Kansas, will be among the 13 1973 outdoor track and field champions competing Friday and Saturday in the annual conference meet at NU's Ed Weir Track.

Every track buff knows why vaulters are going higher than ever. It is the use of the fiberglass pole, which even today is being improved and there are predictions of a 20-foot vault in the not too distant future.

Back when Hunt was a trackman at Nebraska, he used a bamboo pole to win both the indoor and outdoor championships for three consecutive years.

Here recently to accept a "Distinguished Service Award" from the university, Hunt recalled an amusing incident on a trip to a meet in Minneapolis. Seems someone threw a cigarette out of the car which had two bamboo poles tied to the side. The cigarette lodged under the wrapping and the pole burned up before anyone knew it.

Such a thing isn't possible with the fiberglass pole, or the steel pole it replaced. Fiberglass, however, can snap and give you a sinking feeling, just as bamboo poles did at times.

Pole Worth three to four feet

Bob Richards and Don Bragg, stars with a steel pole, are so convinced the fiberglass pole is worth three feet extra, maybe four, that each has offered anyone in the world $10,000 to clear 15-6 with a steel pole.

Steve Smith, who has cleared 18 feet with fiberglass, recently turned to the steel "to aid his form" (maybe win $20.000) and says 15-6 with it is phenomenal . . . amazing.

Richards' best with steel was 15-5 and the all-time record is 15-9¼ by Bragg. The first world record set with fiberglass was by former Oklahoma State vaulter George Davies, who cleared 15-10¼ in 1961. Now that performance isn't even listed in the Big Eight yearbook.

Porter will be just one of six Big Eight vaulters here with bests of 16 feet or over this weekend. One is Doug Laz of Iowa State. His father, Don Laz, was one of the nation's standouts a few years back at Illinois. He has cleared 16-11.

While the pole vault event offers some interesting sidelights in the meet here, there's another one that could also be exciting.

It's the mile run, which surprisingly enough has never been timed in under four minutes in a conference meet. There have been 23 sub-four minute miles run by league athletes, but never in the outdoor Big Eight.

Jim Ryun, who has 16 of the sub-fours, did it in 4:58.8 in 1967 in the Big Eight Indoor at Kansas City.

Best performance in the conference miler this season has been by Nebraska's Bob Unger, who did 4:00.2 against Colorado State a couple of weeks ago.

Even though Nebraska doesn't figure to contend for the team title, a sub-four minute mile by Unger would add some luster to the meet.

Tickets to the meet are on sale at the NU ticket office at $4 for a season ticket, $2 for Friday's session and $3 for Saturday's finals.

Hill Rises On Money List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dave Hill's victory in the Houston Open moved him from 44th to 14th place among the year's golf money winners, according to figures released Monday by the PGA Tournament Players Division.

Hill's triumph Sunday, which was worth $30.000 and was his first since the 1973 Danny Thomas Memphis Classic, raised his earnings for 1974 to $53.196.

Johnny Miller continued to lead the money winners with $192.877. Buddy Allin was second with $103,964. He was followed by Hubert Green, $100,597; Jerry Heard, $90,417; John Mahaffey, $90.207; Leonard Thompson, $88,929; Lee Trevino, $84.394; Jack Nicklaus, $83.676; Dave Stockton, $75,839, and Hale Irwin, $75,520.

Brewers In AL East Lead

. . . May, Mitchell, Briggs Slam Home Runs

Compiled From News Wires

Dave May, Bobby Mitchell and Johnny Briggs slugged solo home runs and the Milwaukee Brewers moved into first place in the American League East Monday night with a 9-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

May opened the game with his fifth homer of the baseball season, a shot into the right field stands off Ross Grimsley, 4-3 The Orioles got the run back off winner Ed Sprague, 1-0, in the bottom of the first when Rich Coggins singled, moved to second on a walk and raced home when a passed ball by Milwaukee catcher Darrell Porter ricocheted off the backstop and up the third base line.

The Brewers moved in front again when Mitchell led off the second inning with his second homer of the year and they made it 3-0 on Briggs' sixth homer with two out in the third.

Milwaukee added two more runs in the fourth. Bob Coluccio tripled and Porter singled to bring Doyle Alexander in from the bullpen. Pedro Garcia forced Porter, then he stole second and scored on Robin Yount's single.

The Orioles got a run in the bottom of the fourth on Brooks Robinson's single and one in the sixth on Boog Powell's homer.

The Brewers scored again in the seventh on Don Money's single, in the eighth on Garcia's hit and wrapped it up with two runs in the ninth. Al Bumbry had a sacrifice fly for a Baltimore run in the seventh.

The victory raised Milwaukee's record to 14-13 for a .519 percentage and dropped the Orioles into second place, just .002 further back. Cleveland, with a 4-1 victory over Boston, is third at .516.

Sprague, 1-0, making his first start in nearly two years, picked up his first victory as a Brewer. He worked the first six innings before Tom Murphy got him out of a jam in the seventh. Sprague was tabbed for runs in the bottom of the fourth on Tommy Davis' single, an infield out and Robinson's hit and Powell's first homer of the year, a shot that bounced off the glove of the leaping Coluccio and over the the center field fence.

Yount's double set up Money's run-scoring single in the seventh. Scott's single and a sacrifice in the eighth preceded Garcia's RBI hit.

In the ninth, May was safe on second baseman Bobby Grich's error, then Money singled and Briggs walked to load the bases before Scott hit a sacrifice fly and Ken Berry singled for the two runs

Murphy replaced Sprague in the seventh after Robinson singled and Earl Williams walked and, after an infield out, he gave up Bumbry's sacrifice fly

In other American League action, Cleveland defeated Boston 4-1, Minnesota topped Chicago 7-5, and California bombarded Texas 8-4

In the National League, the Cincinnati Reds beat San Francisco 4-1; New York beat St. Louis 5-3, Atlanta edged San Diego 7-5, and Los Angeles struck Houston 8-4.

Dusty Baker drove in four runs with three singles and a homer to aid the Braves over San Diego and hand the Padres their sixth consecutive loss.

The Braves took a 2-0 lead in the third inning on Craig Robinson's single, Ralph Garr's triple and a single by Baker

The Padres scored a run in the fifth on Derrel Thomas infield hit, a balk and an error but the Braves made it 4-1 in the sixth Baker led off with his fourth homer of the season and the other run scored on a walk, Rowland Office's infield hit and an error

The second error of the game by San Diego shortstop Enzo Hernandez and Baker's second single accounted for a run in the seventh In the ninth, an error by Rich Morales, who replaced Hernandez, preceded Baker's third RBI single.

The Padres got a run in the seventh on Bobby Tolan's bases-loaded grounder. Willie McCovey hit his first home run of the season in the eighth and Dave Roberts got his first in the ninth, when San Diego also got its final run on Willie McCovey's bases-loaded walk

John Ellis hit a three-run homer in the first to back the combined four-hit pitching of Jim Perry and Tom Buskey, pacing Cleveland over Boston

Johnny Bench drilled his sixth home run of the year and Don Gullett and Pedro Borbon teamed up to pitch a six-hitter Monday night, leading Cincinnati past San Francisco.

Cleon Jones and Jerry Grote slugged two-run homers to power the Mets over Bob Gibson and the Cardinals.

Red-hot Jimmy Wynn drove in three runs with a single and a sacrifice fly to pace the Dodgers past the Astros for their sixth straight triumph

Wynn, a former Astro, increased his major-league leading RBI total to 34 by igniting a five-run fifth inning with a two-run single and scoring another run in the sixth with a sacrifice fly.

Cesar Cedeno's sixth homer of the year in the fourth inning gave the Astros a 1-0 lead, but the Dodgers loaded the bases in the fifth on Bill Russell's infield single, a throwing error by pitcher Dave Roberts and a walk to Bill Buckner.

Wynn, coming off a 13-for-18 series at San Diego, followed with a line drive single into right-center. Wynn's fly ball to center in the sixth brought in Dave Lopes with the sixth Dodger run.

Andy Messersmith allowed eight hits in going the distance, but the Dodger righthander was tagged for a pair of homers in the ninth before registering his fourth win in as many decisions. Doug Rader hit a solo homer in the ninth for the Astros and pinch-hitter Ollie Brown hit a two-run shot.

The victory increased the Dodgers' lead in the National League West to 5½ games over the Astros.

Controversy Hits Indianapolis 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Wally Dallenbach, an easy-going, up-and-coming businessman from New Jersey, found himself in the middle of a raging controversy at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Monday.

The dispute centers around an over-size, unconventional turbocharger Dallenbach used on his Eagle race car last Saturday in nailing what, for the moment, at least, is a front row start in the May 26 500-mile race.

It wasn't the four-lap speed of 189.683 miles per hour that he recorded. He had been expected to do that.

Also, the turbocharger he mounted on his engine was held to be legal. Trouble is, he now has been told he'll have to use it in the race, and that's the core of the controversy.

Dallenbach and his chief mechanic, the highly capable George Bignotti, want to change to a more conventional turbocharger for the race. United States Auto Club officials say they can't.

Frankie Del Roy, USAC's top technical authority, says to change now would be a violation of the rules. Something about, you can't change a car's configuation—engine or chassis—between qualifying and the race.

Most of the other drivers, mechanics and car owners agree with Del Roy. And they are looking expectantly at a hearing on the controversy scheduled for Tuesday morning.

It all goes back to a rule USAC placed into effect at the start of the 1974 championship season. The rule provides that before qualifying, each engine-turbocharger must be fitted with a "pop-off" valve, about three inches in size, and a quarter-sized "pressure plate."

These gadgets limit the amount of "boost" the turbocharger can use in forcing air and fuel into the engine. The idea is to encourage mechanics to "detune" their engines so that the end result will be less horsepower, better fuel consumption, and, hopefully, lower speeds.

Bignotti admitted that the turbocharger Dallenbach used developed such a thrust that the pressure bypassed the "pop-off" and "pressure plate" devices and gave his driver considerably more boost than the other qualifiers enjoyed.

Del Roy says allowing Bignotti to revert to the conventional turbocharger the other drivers are using would mean a change in configuration He doesn't think his ruling will be overturned

Dallenbach's speed was two miles off that of A.J. Foyt, who clocked four laps at 191 632 m.p.h. to gain a stranglehold on the pole position.

There's a final qualifying round Saturday and it is possible that both Foyt and Dallenbach can be dislodged from the front row. There is a group of 11 drivers who still are in the original qualifying lineup, held over from last Saturday because of rain.

They include 1973 winner Gordon Johncock, also a Bignotti-team driver, and Mario Andretti, the 1969 winner and three-time national champion.

Meantime, top practice speeds Monday were posted by Johnny Rutherford, who is not eligible for the pole, 191.693 m.p.h.; Foyt, who posted 190.234 on what he insisted was his "race setup"; Bobby Unser, who also is already in the field, 190.516; Al Unser, still without a berth, 187.891; Gary Bettenhausen, 186.760; the already qualified Mike Mosley at 184.350; and Andretti, with 184.804

In all, 25 drivers took part in the practice session

Adams' Behrens Eyes Class D Discus Mark

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Rex Behrens hasn't exactly been inactive lately, but a lack of competition certainly can't help his chances in the Class D-1 district track meet Thursday at Fairbury

Behrens this season has thrown the discus more than 11 feet beyond the existing state Class D district record.

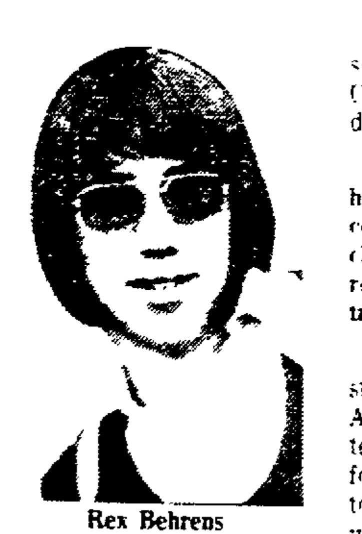
But having been unable to compete for almost three weeks could hurt the Adams standout's chances to break the state's second oldest district record

Byron's Ivan Grupe flipped the discus 153-9 and the mark has withstood 16 years of challenges. A 22-5¾ Class C long jump by Loup City's Irving Thode in 1949 is the only record older than Grupe's

Behrens achieved 165-3½ March 25 at Adams, but hasn't been close to that effort since.

"I guess everything was just right that day," says Adams track coach Ken Cook. "He had another throw of 163

"Then the next week," adds Cook, "Rex hit 152-5 in about 20 degree weather at Fairbury. I thought he'd hit 160 again without much trouble But he's been right about 150 ever since "



Rex Behrens
Seeks District Record

A lack of competition may be a big factor in Behrens' effort to improve. Since Adams' senior class was dismissed two weeks ago, he assumed a summer job, helping his dad with heavy construction work.

"They were leveling land the other day at Red Cloud," notes Cook "By the time district rolls around, he will have missed competing for about three weeks.

"It's a problem a lot of small schools face," according to Cook The time element doesn't help

"Rex has been working out at home," adds Cook. "He's a good competitor. It'll take a good chuck to get it out as far as the record, but he'll give it a good try."

Behrens, 6-3 and 195, was a starting back-middle guard on Adams' once-beaten football team last fall and a standout forward on the Hornets' state tourney basketball team last winter

District competition this week includes

Class A — Thursday at Norfolk and Bellevue, Friday at Millard and North Platte.

Class B — Wednesday at Fairbury Junior College, Thursday at Plattsmouth, Plainview, Seward and Grand Island Northwest, Friday at Nebraska Western (Scottsbluff).

Class C — Wednesday at North Bend, Wood River and Nebraska Western (Scottsbluff), Thursday at Doane College (Crete), Wisner, Adams Central (Hastings), Midland College (Fremont), Plainview and McCook

NWU Receives Player Bid

The Nebraska Wesleyan baseball team has received an intivation to face Mankato State and Central Missouri in a three-way double-elimination regional playoff match for the NCAA College World Series to be held in Omaha in June.

Wesleyan, 23-12 in the season and undefeated with a 10-0 record in the NAIC, will play host college Mankato State on Friday with Saturday and Sunday scheduled for the remaining games.

Consumer Safety Test For Synthetic Turf

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Products Safety Commission said Monday it will issue subpoenas for National Football League injury data if club owners do not furnish it voluntarily by Friday.

Sargeant Karch, attorney for the NFL management council, which represents the owners in collective bargaining with players, said the information will be turned over to the commission by the deadline, but he indicated it may not be complete.

"We hope it will be satisfactory to the commission and helpful in their study," he said in an interview.

The commission, under pressure from the NFL Players Association, has been trying since last January to get the team owners' injury figures in an attempt to determine whether synthetic turf is more hazardous than natural grass fields.

The players' petition last year for a federal freeze on new installations of artificial turf was rejected by the commission, which said it could find little evidence that artifical playing surfaces cause more injuries.

Karch said the NFL owners will turn over some of their base 1969-72 injury data which went into a Stanford Research Institute report covering turfs, playing equipment and other factors.

The Stanford report concluded: "Injuries occur more frequently on synthetic turf than natural turf when minor injuries are included, but no difference between the two is observed when gradients of injury severity are analyzed "

In other words, Karch said, players suffer more skin burns on artificial turf.

The players contend that synthetic turf, installed in 13 NFL stadiums, aggravates knee and ankle injuries, cartilage and ligament tears, burns, infections, fractures, concussions, heat prostration and blistering.

Karch noted that among the players' 57 demands in contract talks this spring was a ban on further artificial turf installations, and a requirement that present artificial turf be replaced with grass when it wears out.

He said the Players Association had been denied the same injury data to be furnished the commission.

"The owners feel that the players are trying to use the commission to serve their collective bargaining purposes," he said.

Some of the information to be turned over to the commission "may be in the form of physicians' reports," he said, and the commission indicated it would try to preserve the confidentiality of such information "to the degree that it can under the Freedom of Information Act."

Karch said the owners won't furnish 1973 injury figures Friday, but has given them to Stanford for inclusion in a new report expected to be completed in a few months.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — A fringe benefit in this pillar-to-post life is a collection of handsome courtesy cards.

The cards entitle you to little extras — the hotel manager calls: "Glad to have you with us. Everything all right?"

I said: "Fine. Except the bathroom's out of soap."

He said: "We can't have that, can we? I'll send some right up."

I went out in the hall and got some from the room maid. But it's the thought that counts. Right?

I got a "preferential" card from a big hotel chain. "When you check in, present your card. The management will be alerted. You need not check out. A bill will be sent to you."

I called the PR and said: "Does this give me a commercial discount?"

He said: "Well, no. But it entitles you to royal treatment." (Royalty hasn't done very well in the last half century. But I didn't mention that.)

A month later I checked into a chain hotel. The clerk was entranced with the card. "I've never seen anything like it before. What does it mean?"

I said: "Do you give a commercial discount?" I gave him my business card.

He said: "You should have given me this in the first place. 20%."

Lazy, crazy days around Snug Harbor. Spring blows through the open doors. Poppies spring up on the hillsides.

I wrote out a VIP card for the cat.

"Here cat, take this to the kitchen and they'll open you a can of cat food."

I have a card from a big auto rental firm. "This five-star card is being sent to you with our compliments. It is the highest rating credit card . . ."

I used to have a three-star card so it was certainly a promotion.

I phoned the public relations man and said: "Does this carry a discount?"

He said: "No, it is a courtesy card. Why a five-star card holder in Rome couldn't get a car — we were all out. And the manager gave him his car!"

I said: "I already get a 20% company discount."

"I'm glad to hear it," he said courteously.

It's a plastic world, mates. A PR man told me: "What happens is some vice president thinks up an idea: 'Why don't we give our most valued customers courtesy cards. Like they could show the card and the bartender gives them a lot of attention.'

"The thing is," said the PR man, "this word doesn't drift down the line. A letter comes to the manager. He says: 'What are those people in New York going to think of next?'

"If the word does get down to the bartender, he can't figure how to give one man more attention without enraging the rest of the people at the bar.

I spread all my cards on the coffee table: One is solid gold from a gambling club. One is embossed with gold elephants.

They carry grand endorsements by presidents and chairmen of the boards. They say "VIP" and "Preferential" and have five stars and golden printing.

I don't know what you can do with them except pick a door lock. Like the detectives do on TV.

New Municipal Golf Course Being Proposed . . . Again!

Ike's View

by Randy Eickhoff

If everything goes right, Lincoln golfers just may have a new golf course to challenge within the next two years. But if wishes were horses, beggars would ride. That new golf course has been a subject of controversy for the past five or six years.

Once again, Don Smith, director of city parks and recreation, has made the new golf course proposal for Mahoney Park part of his budget.

"We're in the process of trying to get our budget taken care of right now," Smith says. "This has been a proposal for the past five or six years."

For anybody playing golf, it is readily apparent that Lincoln does need an additional course. Right now, all public courses in Lincoln are playing to capacity.

"Golf in Lincoln has been on the increase for the past couple of years" Holmes park and city pro Bob Schuchart says. "We are playing to our capacity now and the play is still increasing.

"We could use another golf course to help even out the play," he adds. "I think that if we had another course that one would also be playing to capacity in no time."

One of the reasons for this is that everyone seems to want "prime time." They all apparently want to play at 8 a.m. Saturday morning and 7:30-9:30 the rest of the week. Holmes Park is now the busiest golf course in Nebraska with Pioneer Park rating in the top five.

The average play this time of year for Holmes is from 270-275 golfers per day with summer averages hitting on or over 300. Trying to shuffle that many golfers over a single course in a day is practically impossible, but Schuchart still manages to do it.

"We do have a few slack periods, but we can usually have them filled in no time," he says. "We start taking reservations for Saturday on Tuesday and by the end of the day the early times are all sewn up."

The businessman who wants an early tee time before going to work and the better players all favor the early starting times. But the slower players during the day can clog up the works. Could they be staggered, sandwiched between the good golfers?

"Everybody tends to play with golfers of equal capability," Schuchart says. "That gives you a group with a lot of poorer players in it and they hold up the groups behind them."

Another course would help spread those slow groups around so they wouldn't all choke up the courses now in operation.

The crowded courses have also forced many to seek membership in one of the country clubs in town. But even those have been restricted to just so many playing members.

"Another golf course would definitely help," Hillcrest pro W. A. "Bunny" Richards says. "Right now our membership is full and we have people on a waiting list. The crowded courses are forcing them here. If the public courses were not so tight for play, we probably wouldn't have the demands we have now.

"This is pretty indicative that Lincoln needs another public course," he says. "In a good solid day, we'll even run 30 minutes late but we marshall our golf course to help speed up play."

If the new course proposal is turned down again, this may force the present ones to adopt similar measures.

One such measure would be the adoption and enforcement of a slow play accountability card system under which the low handicap player in a group is responsible for maintaining the play of his group and the one ahead of them.

If neither conforms to the time element involved, the low handicap player would turn in a report to the golf committee whereby they would be censured and not allowed ideal times for play in the future.

A few other adoptions that could be made are:

— installation of slow-play checkpoint signs establishing two our hour time limits for each nine.

— placement of 150 yard markers from green to aid club selection.

— allow a putting ball to eliminate cleaning and wiping time.

— establish a lateral boundary rule to permit dropping two club lengths from the spot where a ball goes out of bounds rather than returning to the tee for a second shot.

"We have applied for a federal loan for outdoor recreation that would help us build the new course," Smith says. "For a first class course which would include the clubhouse, maintenance shed and the course, it would cost close to $1,200,000.

"We have asked for $395,000 in this year's budget but that hasn't gone through as yet," he continues. "According to the loan, the federal grant would give us 75 per cent reimbursement on a 50 (federal)-25 (state)-25 (city) basis."

Smith also indicated that the golfers themselves will put up $117,000 for the new course. This would come from the 35 cent capitol improvement fee that each round at Holmes and Pioneer produces.

"Even though the state and federal government may approve the loan, I believe that we would still spend the full amount we have request in our budget." Smith says. "That would allow us to construct an 18 hole course but prices on everything changes every day.

"We have made this one of our top priorities. but this budget hear is the hardest I've had since I came here nine years ago There are just so many needs "

According to a study made in 1966 by the Federal Recreation Department, Lincoln would need two additional courses by the year 1985, but Smith says the city could have used one additional last year.

"We have preliminary designs by Floyd Farley of Oklahoma City (who designed Holmes) so we can start whenever we get the word," Smith says "But that will still take a good deal of time.

"The ideal time for seeding a new course is in the fall as that would give us one growing season before summer. But we would still have to wait another growing season so we couldn't allow play on it until the following August

"But if we get started by this August, then it will probably take two years to get the final designs and work completed. That's two more years "

Two years of crowded courses, waiting for tee times that have been set ahead because of slow play and wondering if membership in a country club would be a worthwhile investment.

With everybody deciding to take up golf, the courses are getting more and more crowded each day. Already this year Holmes has put 400 golfers through on a single day. More are in sight.

"AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER"

Preakness Field Small

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The 99th running of the Preakness Saturday will feature the best of both worlds for those entered in the second jewel of the Triple Crown.

Like the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness will be the richest race in the history of the event. But, unlike the Churchill Downs rush-hour mob scene, the Preakness aspirants will not have to contend with a thundering horde on the Pimlico racing strip.

The probable starting field for the Preakness stood at 13 Monday, enough to make this year's total purse the largest ever, but small enough to forestall the possibility of having to split the race into two divisions.

Cannonade, the winner of the 100th Kentucky Derby, is a 9-5 favorite to capture the $156,500 winner's share of what will be a $203,000 purse, if there are 13 starters.

Cannonade's trainer Woody Stevens said the Derby champ will arrive at Pimlico Tuesday afternoon from New York. John Olin's three-year-old worked six furlongs in 1:10.4 Sunday at Belmont Park.

Monday's chief Preakness development saw the withdrawal of Bushongo, the winner of the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park. The son of Mongo came out of the Blue Grass Stakes lame and was forced to skip the Derby. Trainer Frank Bonsal said there would not be enough time to have Bushongo in top form by Saturday.

Heir To The Line, winner of last Saturday's Preakness Prep, was returned to New York Monday, but only for a short shopping spree. The son of Majestic Prince, winner of the 1969 Preakness, will return to Pimlico Thursday with a new pair of shoes.

Hudson County, the surprising runnerup in the Derby, is the early second choice for the Preakness at 9-2 with J.R.'s Pet third at 6-1.

Rube The Great, Little Current, Silver Florin, which is being supplemented at $10,000 for the Preakness and helping to boost the purse to record proportions, and Heir To The Line were quoted at 10-1.

All Game and Destroyer have been listed at 12-1, with Neopolitan Way and Jolly Johu at 20-1. Kin Run and Buck's Bid were placed in the mutual field, also at 20-1.

Tenopir Resigns McCook Post

McCook—Milt Tenopir, head football coach and athletic director at McCook the past five seasons and head coach for the South Shrine Bowl this summer, has resigned.

Tenopir has accepted a graduate assistant post at Nebraska and will coach freshmen linebackers and assist in recruiting while taking classes in administration.

No Celebration If Unser Wins Indy 500?

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Even if Bobby Unser wins the Indianapolis 500 mile race, there won't be any big celebration in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

But the guys who make toilet seats and steering wheels in half a dozen plants around Detroit probably will drop their tools, head for the nearest pub and bend an elbow or two.

Sort of in Ozzie Olson fashion.

Olson, who lives in the fashionable Detroit suburb of Grosse Pointe, owns the Olsonite Eagle Unser will drive in the 58th running of the richest automobile race in the world.

A polished multi-millionaire who is the sole owner of several corporations Olson doesn't believe in celebrations.

Oh, when an order comes in for a million more toilet seats that carry the slogan "Tops for Bottoms" or when there's a sudden surge in the demand for steering wheels, there might be some backslapping and shoulder pounding among a half-dozen aides who help Ozzie run his industrial empire.

"Celebration? Party is a better word," Ozzie says in a soft voice. "I have a list of party subjects that reaches from here to over there. Quiet little parties, of course, the kind that break up say around 3 a.m." Olson, a slender, impeccably dressed, outgoing person, is among the best-loved and most respected men in auto racing.

He has been the chief financial backer of Dan Gurney's All-American Racers, developer and builder of the Eagle race cars that have become the standard fare in Indianapolis type racing in the past seven years.

"Would you believe that Ozzie and I have never had a contract?" former driver Gurney asks. "We started out with a handshake, and that's the way it has been over the years. Ozzie and I never quibble over money, or how our racing team operates."

Just how much money Olson has poured into racing, most of it through Gurney's organization, neither will say. Insiders say Gurney himself has a $150,000 yearly personal contract with Olson.

But the overall amount is sizeable, so much that it is the only expenditure for advertising that the Olsonite Corporation and its subsidiaries allocate for the year.

A sportsman of note, Olson formerly was part owner of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League. He was a prime prospect for a franchise in the new World Football League but turned it down.

"I've become too much of an auto racing fan," Ozzie says. "We use our participation in it in many ways. The hourly-paid workers in our plants love it, and they take pride in the way our cars perform. It's a morale booster. Hundreds of them wear All-America Racers jackets to work each day."

As in his dealings with Gurney, and in the personal retainer he pays Unser, Olson's workers also operate without a contract.

Olson maintains a mansion in Grosse Pointe, not far from where the Fords and the other auto moguls live. He belongs to their clubs, their executive business groups, and, like the others, maintains a sizeable yacht on Lake Michigan.

But he says he's happiest at the race tracks. At Indianapolis in May, he rents a sumptuous suite in a downtown hotel, surrounded by an entourage of Olsonite executives and customers.

On qualifying and race days, Olson puts together a fleet of buses to transport his group to the track, accompanied by police escort.

Olson, who will say only that he is "fiftyish," and Gurney got together in 1967, the result of a casual conversation in Detroit with an automobile designer.

Olson already had the auto racing itch — and a lot of "scratch" — and Gurney, then one of the country's top drivers, had the know-how. There was a brief conversation and a handshake.

With his cars carrying the Olsonite brand for the first time, Gurney went on to win his first United States Auto Club race two weeks later. Before he retired, he won six others.

Unser, now 40, joined Gurney in 1971. With his flying Eagle, he set speed records at almost all of the tracks where the Indy cars run. This year, Unser has won two of the three championship events and finished second in the other.

He has a high starting position for the May 26 Indy race, and, some say, a very good chance of winning it.

Olson thinks so. Already, the latch string is out for a horde of "guests" from Detroit, including some of the country club set from Grosse Pointe.

But the after-hours doings on race days, if Unser wins, won't be a celebration. It'll be a party.

Ward's In First Place

Ward's Lawn Service took over first place in the Lincoln Gun Club Skeet League after weekend shooting figures were compiled Monday.

High individuals for the week were Bob Bauer and Doug Seaton with 50 straights and Bob Moore with a 49.

District C-1 Title Won By Paulsen

Doug Paulsen of Friend led all qualifiers Monday in the C-1 District golf tournament held at Pioneers Park.

Paulsen's 84 was two strokes better than the next four qualifiers for the state meet. Shooting 86's were Doug Ottersberg, Wymore Southern; Steve Graves, Waterloo; Ray Horner and Dave Paulsen both of Friend.

Placement of three individuals on the qualifiers list enabled Friend to top team qualifiers for the state meet with a 344 total. Wymore Southern qualified for state with 376 while Waterloo's 411 placed third and gave them a berth at the state meet.

Tulsa Tops Omaha, 7-4

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Tulsa scored six runs on six hits in the top of the ninth inning Monday night to take a 7-4 American Association baseball win.

Oiler pitcher Greg Terlecky played the waiting game, going the distance to get his fourth win in as many decisions.

Omaha hurlers Mark Littell and Eddie Bernard were tough until the ninth. Littell giving only three hits in four and one-third innings of work. He left after being struck by a line drive. Bernard sailed along on one hit until the top of the ninth.

With one down, Bernard gave up a run on a walk and a double by Ed Kurpiel. Omaha Manager Harry Malmberg then opted to bring in ace reliever Jim Foor, who had won four straight without giving up a run.

Foor was touched for four consective singles.

That started the parade, which was aided by an error.

A revolutionary new Interest Plan!

NBC'S Rate Watcher Loan

It can save you money on the money you borrow!

National Bank of Commerce introduces a brand new, long overdue type of installment loan — the Rate Watcher. It's a service that rewards you for prepaying on your loan by reducing, to a minimum, the interest you pay. With a Rate Watcher Loan you can actually save money on the money you borrow:

- Because interest is not added to the principal in advance. It's figured each day on the remaining principal balance.
- Because by prepaying at any time, you can reduce your loan balance and the amount of interest you pay.
- Also there's no penalty fee or late charge if your payment is delayed, though interest does continue to accrue on the unpaid principal balance until payment is made.

A Rate Watcher Loan is easier to keep track of, too. Each month you receive a two-part statement showing the principal balance of your loan.

The next time you need to borrow money — for an auto, vacation, appliance, or any other personal need — come in and ask about a Rate Watcher Loan.

In the meantime, remember who offered it to you first.

$3 Million Suit Filed

San Francisco (UPI)—Attorney Melvin Belli is suing the state bar for $3 million on grounds it suspended him for 30 days in violation of the U.S. Constitution.

Police Prepare Sketch Of Man In Webb Slaying

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said Monday that police artists have made a composite drawing of a man being sought for questioning in connection with the death of Patricia Webb.

Douglas said that the man is presently being sought merely as a material witness in the case.

The composite drawing may be made available for publication by news media after he checks out "legal ramifications," Douglas said.

The drawing was made about a week ago from descriptions by witnesses who saw the man in the Adult Book and Cinema Store at 140½ N. 11th where the 24-year-old woman worked.

Police reportedly believe the man may have been the last customer in the store the night the woman disappeared.

Her body was found April 20 on a farm near Hallam. She had been shot 10 or 11 times with .22-caliber and .25-caliber weapons.

Webb, of 3015 N. 68th, had worked for the State Patrol as an undercover agent in drug cases until about 10 days before she disappeared April 18.

Gauger Turns Over Probe Results

In response to an inquiry by William Swearingen on warrants paid by the county for electric motor work, Lancaster County Commissioner Jan Gauger said Monday that she had completed her investigation and referred the matter to the county attorney.

Swearingen, at last week's county board meeting, charged that motors are being repaired for the county on a "call basis" rather than by bids and that the cost of repair exceeded the cost for a new motor in one instance.

Mrs. Gauger said that she had checked the four warrants involving Colin Electric Co., of which County Board Chairman Robert Colin in president, specifically referred to by Swearingen in a letter on the matter requested by Mrs. Gauger.

She said she had turned her findings as well as the letter from Swearingen over to the county attorney and would await a reply from that office.

However, she said it was her understanding that the statutory limit of $2,000 for business with the county by a county commissioner relates to work directly contracted with the county.

"Colin Electric Co. has motors arriving daily from firms such as those noted on these warrants with no knowledge of the origin of the work," Mrs. Gauger stated.

'Tremendous' Progress Told

. . . Planting Weather Ideal

Another week of nearly ideal planting conditions resulted in "tremendous progress" for Nebraska farmers and ranchers, the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics reported Monday in its weekly crop-weather report.

However, farmers in some areas have begun irrigating because of prevailing dry conditions, the bureau said. Crops on sandy soils in parts of the state are showing signs of stress from the lack of precipitation, it was pointed out.

"Alfalfa weevil continues to be a problem in fields in many areas," the ag experts said.

Winter wheat condition is good or excellent in 83% of the counties, down two points from last week, the report said.

The wheat crop "has been making rapid growth and development, but is showing signs of stress from the lack of moisture in many areas," according to the bureau. Some farmers in the Panhandle area are reportedly still considering abandoning wheat fields heavily infested with downy brome.

Other crop comments included:

Farmers made good progress planting corn last week due to favorable weather throughout Nebraska. County agents report approximately 70% of the corn acreage planted compared to 30% last year and normal. A good general rain is needed throughout much of Nebraska.

Sorghum and soybean acreages are about 10% planted.

Alfalfa hay condition ranges mostly fair to good. In areas of heavy weevil infestation most farmers are spraying or mowing their stands for control. Control chemicals are in short supply in some localities.

Topsoil moisture supplies remained nearly unchanged from a week ago. Topsoil moisture is short in 52% of the counties and adequate in 48%. Subsoil moisture supplies continued to decline with 83% of the counties adequate, 15% short and 2% surplus.

Rainfall received throughout the state during the past week included:

Chadron	.25	North Platte	.19
Grand Island	1.85	Omaha	1.14
Imperial	.43	Scottsbluff	.12
Lincoln	1.26	Valentine	.43
Norfolk	1.01

Moisture via sections since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to longtime averages follows:

Northwest — 1.60 inches (1974), 2.72 inches (normal)
North Central — 2.80, 3.05
Northeast — 2.80, 3.33
Central — 2.60, 3.22
East Central — 3.10, 3.45
Southwest — 1.60, 2.85
South Central — 3.00, 3.24
Southeast — 4.30, 3.73

Hooper Brothers Scatter As MD's

Omaha (AP) — A town of about 800 in eastern Nebraska will have native son brothers practicing medicine in Omaha, Philadelphia and the Canal Zone later this year.

They will be the Drs. Meyer-Philip, David and Mark — sons of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Meyer, farmers between Hooper and Uehling.

Philip, 24, will be graduated from the University of Nebraska Medical Center's College of Medicine May 26.

David, 28, and Mark, 26, both received MD degrees from the Medical Center last May.

David and Mark are serving in rotating internships at Gorgas Hospital in the Canal Zone.

Mark will remain at Gorgas for three more years in an orthopedic surgery residency, while David will return to University Hospital in Omaha for a one-year surgery residency.

Philip will go to Philadelphia next month for a three-year pediatrics residency at Children's Hospital.

His wife, Jane, is completing her first year at Creighton University Law School in Omaha. She hopes to transfer to the University of Pennsylvania Law School so she can finish in Philadelphia.

Philip obtained his bachelor's degree at Brown University in Providence, R. I., where he met his wife. David and Mark went to Midland College in Fremont.

Younger brother Paul will be a senior at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, next fall. He plans to apply to the UN medical college.

Highway Is Closed Near S. Sioux City

U.S. 77 between Dakota City and South Sioux City closed Monday and will remain closed for about 10 days, according to Tom Doyle, director of the Department of Roads.

The road is being closed while tests are conducted on Interstate 129 bridge pilings.

Bottle Band Only One Of Kind?

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Lexington — You might call them a combination of the Boston Pops and Lawrence Welk's champagne music makers.

Their only instruments are bottles, their only purpose rootin' tootin' fun. Still, the notes blown forth by "The Grand Generation Tooters" are more than melodious burps.

Under the direction of Mrs. J. Elizabeth Wiessner, who spent 50 years as an Illinois teacher, even Coke and The Uncola end up in harmony. Retiring here to be with her son, Dick, she organized the unique band last summer.

"There are lots of kitchen bands and that sort of thing, but I don't know of another bottle band anywhere," said the livewire director, 74. "My ear is too keen to claim this as musical greatness, yet we do manage two-part harmony and a 20-number repertoire."

An offshoot of the local Grand Generation Center, one of the state's liveliest senior citizen establishments, the band makes up in maturity what it lacks in experience. Only three of its 14 members are under 70, the senior being an especially bubbly Mrs. Delma Stewart, 80.

Among the more faithful at the weekly practice sessions is the Tooters' only couple, Walther Camin and his wife Mabel. At a sprightly age 77 and 74, they fit right in to the avowed "Pepsi generation."

Other players are Mrs. John Edwards, Mrs. Fred Batten, Mrs. Helen McFadden, Mrs. Clara Gainsforth, Charles Matz, Mrs. Homer Casteel, Mrs. Guy Beans, Fred Knoedler, Mrs. Tom Bailey and Mrs. Flo Houlden.

Similar to bell choirs is that the director points out the notes and timing, the bottle band is considerably more demanding. Just the right pucker is required for the creation of the full rich notes insisted upon by Mrs. Wiessner.

"It's more difficult than it appears, especially for those persons blowing the high-note bottles," said the director, who has been an organist and pianist since her girlhood. "Even the tuning of each bottle must be precise. Of course different notes depend upon how much water is in each bottle, and even the absence of a few drops can make a player flat."

The band manages a range of 1½ octaves, with a good deal of two-part harmony adding extra class. One of the more ambitious numbers is also the overall favorite — "How Great Thou Art."

With several local appearances behind them, the Tooters have hesitated to accept out-of-town invitations. Coordinator Mrs. Kay Gerken explained that the center must be cautious because of the age of participants.

Mrs. Wiessner definitely isn't one of those prompting such concern. After a long career in the Chicago suburb of Glenview, she is always on the go.

Representing the local center, incidentally, she was elected vice president of the Nebraska Senior Citizens Council.

"I'm always getting involved in something," the personable woman remarked. "I guess it's because I just love people — even when they're playing pop bottles."

Father Recovers Children In Sweden

Holt, Mich. (AP — J. Dennis Ortiz says nobody else would help, so "we had to take the law into our own hands" to recover his three children when his former wife flew them to Sweden and asked for asylum.

The 39-year-old Ortiz and a friend-turned-detective scoured Omaha, Neb.; Washington, D.C., and Stockholm before they found the vanished youngsters in a suburb of Malmo, Sweden.

They spirited the children out of Sweden in a cloak-and-dagger-type operation in early February and returned them to Ortiz' two-story home in a rural, tree-laden community near Lansing.

In his first interview with a newsman since then, Ortiz said the case points out what he calls the "tremendous weakness" of America's legal system to protect the right of a divorced parent who has custody of the children.

Ortiz, who is executive director of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing and Speech, criticized state and federal laws and Swedish laws that allowed his former wife to take the children so easily to the Scandinavian country.

His former wife, Carolyn Ortiz, picked up Anna Marie, 12, Rachell, 9, and Matthew, 7, here Dec. 22 for a five-day visitation period she was granted in a 1971 Nebraska court order.

Ortiz said she was supposed to fly them to her home in Omaha, Neb., for the Christmas holidays but took them to Sweden instead.

The first indication of their disappearance came on Christmas, Ortiz said. His former wife's brother called from Omaha to say he did not know where his sister was but that she would not bring the children back to Michigan.

Ortiz has had legal custody of the children since 1971 when a Nebraska court agreed with an earlier ruling by a Missouri court to give him the children.

Ortiz now is married to a woman who also works with the deaf and hard of hearing. They have a two-year-old child.

After the call from his former wife's brother, Ortiz and his wife went to Omaha. But the trip was not too productive, and they returned home.

A break came when a friend, Thomas Coleman of Silver Springs, Md., discovered from the U.S. State Dept's Passport Division that the former Mrs. Ortiz had obtained a group passport.

Coleman, director of the National Association of Hearing and Speech Agencies, and Ortiz went to Omaha again. By showing airlines officials past court documents, they determined that Ortiz's former wife and a female companion, Jan Phipps, had purchased tickets to Sweden.

They went to Washington, but Ortiz says he was unable to get any help from the State Dept. toward launching an international investigation.

The two men flew to Stockholm Jan. 30. Ortiz said that from unofficial sources, whom he would not identify, he learned that his wife had asked for welfare and political asylum.

Sources also informed them his former wife and children were living in the Malmo suburb of Oxie. They went there and kept watch on the apartment, disguised in hats, dark eyeglasses and topcoats, Ortiz said.

He also talked to a Swedish attorney, Ortiz said, who advised him that the law was on his side but that his attempts to get his children back could involve a lengthy court battle.

Instead, Ortiz said, he went to the school the children attended and showed officials American court documents. The children's names were called over the public address system, and two of them, Rachell and Matthew, came to the office, where they embraced their father. "I was so happy," Rachell recalled.

The other child, Anna Marie, was home because of a twisted ankle. Ortiz returned to the apartment and found Anna Marie there alone. She went with him. That night, all went to Copenhagen, Denmark, on the leg of the trip back to Michigan.

Ortiz said it "cost me $8,000, we wiped out the kids' college funds completely. Besides that, I owe money. I had to borrow money.

"It's a tremendous emotional thing. It proves to me that love for your children is really something, and you will do whatever you have to do," he said.

Citing what he termed the lack of help from state, city and federal authorities, Ortiz said:

"They simply do not have any uniform divorce laws, no uniform custody laws that apply to all areas of the country."

Deere Reaffirms Orchard Closing

. . . Franchise To Be Lifted

By The Associated Press

The John Deere farm equipment company said Monday its dealership at Orchard, Neb., will be discontinued at the end of this year, as announced earlier.

A spokesman for the company said it had reviewed its original decision and concluded discontinuation is in the best long term interests of customers "in this entire farming area in northeastern Nebraska."

Protests had been voiced after the firm announced recently the franchise of the Holliday Implement Co. would be discontinued.

The 32-year-old firm is operated by Lloyd Holliday and his sons, Wayne and Dean. It has nine employes.

Late in March, when the company announced its intentions, an estimated 800 persons watched as farmers, their wives and children staged a protest parade down the main street of Orchard.

About 120 tractors were in the parade.

Various Antelope County and local interests supported the protest and statements in favor of retention of the franchise came from Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., and State Sen. John De Camp of Neligh.

The company pointed out the number of farms in Antelope County has declined 40 per cent since 1954. Spokesmen said the average size of a farm in the county increased from 308 acres in 1954 to 475 in 1969, and in 1969 there were twice as many farms in the county with 1,000 or more acres than there had been 15 years earlier.

The company statement said irrigation also had increased, and to farm these larger acres and increase productivity "farmers have demanded larger and more sophisticated machinery. . ."

John Deere spokesmen said "larger capital investments are required if dealerships are to adequately sell and service such machinery."

For a dealership to justify the necessary capital investment, they said "it is essential that its dollar market potential be large enough to offer the dealer a reasonable return on a bigger investment."

The Orchard dealership, the statement said, "is one of those with very limited potential."

The company said there are five other John Deere dealerships within a 25-mile radius which sell more major company machines in the trading area than the Orchard firm.

Beefland Meatcutters Slated To Return To Work Tuesday

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—Striking meatcutters are scheduled to return to work Tuesday at the Beefland International packing plant in Council Bluffs.

Frank West, board chairman and president of American Beef Packers Inc. of Omaha, plant operator, said Beefland should be operating at capacity. He said the plant can slaughter 2,200 head of cattle a day and process 1,200.

Beefland has been operating on a limited basis since members of District 271 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America went on strike May 2.

Union members voted 203 to 92 Sunday to end the strike, which affected 650 workers.

Gilbert L. Simonson, international vice president of the union, said slaughter workers will receive an 80-cents-an-hour raise over three years, while processing workers will get raises of $1.11 per hour over three years.

In addition, he said, workers will be guaranteed cost-of-living wage adjustments every six months beginning next July 1. He said the first cost-of-living increase will amount to about 12 cents.

Union officials said the minimum wage for slaughter workers had been $4.10 an hour, becoming $4.25 per hour with acceptance of the new contract.

They said processing workers had been receiving $3.50 an hour and that figure has been raised to $3.80 an hour.

Union members said their negotiators told them both the union and company would withdraw federal court litigation which stemmed from the strike.

HOUSING AUTHORITY WORKMEN . . . trim grass around barrack to be used by Indians.

Readying Of Barrack Under Way

Cleanup work began Monday on the former Air Force barrack in which families and supporters of defendants in Wounded Knee cases will stay during trials in Lincoln.

The announcement that a decision had been made to use the barrack as housing was made Monday morning by Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf.

A-Go Sheridan, local coordinator of the American Indian Movement, said at the site Monday afternoon that he thinks the barrack can be made liveable in about 10 days.

About 12 volunteer workers were sweeping up broken glass and dust Monday.

Sheridan said he was "quite satisfied" with the building and said it was in surprisingly good shape for being out of use for several years.

The barrack was made available to followers of Wounded Knee trials last week by Bud Irons, who had purchased 10 of the buildings to salvage building materials after demolition.

Electrical power had been restored to the building by Monday and water was to be reconnected soon.

The building, which officials say can house about 90 to 100 persons, is in a state of some disrepair.

A bird's nest occupied a fan in the laundry room. There were holes in some of the walls, obscenities were still scrawled on some steel lockers and some windows were broken out.

"What we need now is paint and paint brushes," Sheridan said. He said the supplies committee of the Lincoln Committee of Concerned People is trying to fill that need.

Other needs, he said, are light bulbs and all kinds of beds and bedding.

"Some people have already donated some double beds," Sheridan said. "The Civil Defense agency is also going to furnish some Army Cots."

"If people have some sleeping bags they aren't going to use any more we could use those too," Sheridan said.

Truck Traffic Across State Varies From 'Lots Slower' To 'Same'

Truck traffic through Nebraska Monday varied from "lots slower" than normal to "about the same," a check of truck stops over the state revealed on the first day of a proposed nationwide shutdown.

Drivers generally seemed to be taking a "wait-and-see" attitude to determine how many join the shutdown and whether those who go on the road encounter violence, according to spokesmen for the trucking industry.

Dave Shoemaker, manager of Shoemakers Truck Stop, 4500 West O, said business was as usual there Monday. He declared some truckers indicated they would go ahead and drive while others were "afraid of a brick being thrown through their windows," and won't attempt traveling.

A check late Monday afternoon with Grant's Truck Stop on Interstate 80 near Waco revealed no truck had stopped there "in the last two hours." It was slow there all day, a spokesman said.

At the Wood River Truck Plaza, located on I-80 and Highway 11 near Wood River, truck traffic was reportedly slower than normal for a Monday.

Truck traffic was "lots slower" at Odessa's Landmark 66 Travel and Truck Stop, while things were "about the same" at Conley-Detlefsen Truck Stop at North Platte.

According to an Associated Press dispatch, Ben Butler, president of Hunt Transportation of Omaha, said independent truckers who haul for his company were continuing to run.

Butler said sentiment against the strike was running high among drivers he talked to. He said they were not prepared to strike and had not recovered financially from the February strike.

Traffic was reported near normal at the Bosselman Truck Plaza at Grand Island. Manager Chuck Bosselman said "the truckers keep asking us what's going on."

Meanwhile, members of the North Platte-Western chapter of the Nebraska Independent Truckers voted Saturday for a shutdown. But the chairman, Richard Peterson of Hershey, said the vote at the North Platte meeting was not specifically for the strike that started Monday.

Peterson agreed that a strike might get the results wanted by the truckers, but added that the group needed more organization nationwide.

Don Mulder of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Independent Truckers, said he would recommend a Nebraska shutdown if violence occurred in neighboring states.

Mulder said Saturday's vote was significant because of its opposite results from the vote two weeks ago, at a similar meeting in Grand Island.

A number of truckers agreed, saying that even if only 10% of the truckers went out, that there would probably be enough violence to keep most others off the road as well.

Mulder said he would contact all other Nebraska NITA chapters, and that he was reasonably certain that they would vote to go along with the shutdown if it was a nationwide effort.

Mulder said he felt the state legislators and Gov. J. James Exon were in sympathy with the truckers' needs, and that the "real enemy is the federal government." Mulder said federal officials were blackmailing the states into putting unrealistic speed limits and restrictions on the truck drivers.

An unidentified trucker said the major trucking outfits would not penalize drivers who did not go on the roads during the shutdown.

The group also voted to cancel a June 9 meeting with Federal Highway Administrator Norbert Tiemann. The meeting with the former Nebraska governor was set up by State Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton.

One trucker voiced the group's feelings on the meeting by saying the people of Nebraska could not get Tiemann to leave the signs next to the highways, so it would be fruitless to ask for his help in the trucking issue.

G. M. Callender, Former Council Candidate, Dies

Gladys Callender

Gladys Margaret Callender, a former Lincoln City Council candidate, died Monday. She was 66.

Miss Callender, of 5113 M, was defeated in her City Council bid in 1961. She retired in 1969 after 43 years with the Lincoln Journal.

Born in Columbus, she lived in Lincoln the past 54 years. She was a Lincoln High School and Lincoln School of Commerce graduate, and attended the University of Nebraska.

She was active in the YWCA, Methodist Church and Daughters of Union Veterans. She was past president of the City Recreation Department's women's leisure time activities committee.

Miss Callender is survived by an uncle and two cousins.

Trucking Monopoly Defended

Attorneys for Herman Bros. trucking firm of Omaha Monday asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to uphold a State Public Service Commission order denying Ruan Transport of Des Moines the right to haul bulk cement out of the Ash Grove Cement plant at Louisville.

In a written brief, Herman Bros. argued that its "near perfect" past record of meeting the cement plant's demands demonstrates that an additional carrier is not needed.

And they predicted that competition from Ruan could result in an annual net loss of $153,678 and jeopardize a $2.5 million investment in the Ash Grove facilities made by Herman Bros.

Ruan has appealed the commission's order, contending the commission has established a monopoly in bulk cement hauling out of Louisville, one of the state's two sites for cement manufacturing. Such a monopoly, Ruan has said, is contrary to the public's and the shipper's interest.

Herman Bros. countered that Raun would have the court believe monopolies are inherently undesireable.

"This is not a good precedent, especially when that monopoly is regulated," they said.

The purpose of the Public Service Commission, they said, is to ensure adequate and reliable service at a minimum cost and to protect the investments made by regulated utilities.

Out of 40,000 truck loads of cement moved by Herman Bros. since 1966 out of Louisville, they said "only 29 or 30" deliveries were delayed by approximately an hour or two. And during 1971, they said 99.7% of Herman Bros. deliveries were on time.

"This is an outstanding transportation achievement and dramatically shows the lack of a public need for a competing motor carrier," they said.

"In addition, it is fair to assume that the service is being performed at a reasonable and minimum cost."

In fact, Herman Bros. claimed a net loss of $95,858 in the Louisville operation during the first six months of 1973.

"This loss, admittedly, in part could be attributed to a price freeze by the federal government, but the remainder is due to a reduction in actual volume of traffic than tendered in prior years," they said.

Although Ruan said it would not divert any traffic from Herman Bros., the attorneys said in fact Ruan could mean a 25% traffic loss to Herman Bros.

"The secondary carrier theory is an approach by Ruan to become a full competitor of Herman Bros., Inc., and will divert operating revenues to the extent that (it) will dangerously impair Herman Bros. . . . ," they said.

Ravenna Firm Told To Explain Grain Shortage

The Nebraska Public Service Commission Monday ordered the Ravenna Grain Co. to explain why an inspection of the company's grain warehouse revealed it was short 35,000 bushels of grain.

Commission staff said the firm mistakenly sold 33,997 bushels of wheat, 3,075 bushels of soybeans and 86 bushels of rye owned by the Commodity Credit Corp. (CCC).

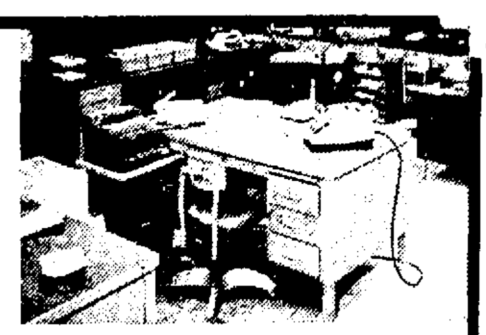
on a mix-up of records resulting from two changes in managers. The firm's licensed capacity is 850,000 bushels.

The commission staff said the firm apparently has sufficient assets of repay the CCC.

A hearing on the matter has been set for June 10.

Stock Splits 2 For 1

New York (AP) — A 2-for-1 split of Squibb Corp.'s common stock was approved by shareholders.



If MUZAK were here, this chair would be filled ..... EVERYDAY!

A bored employee will use any reason to stay off the job, and just nine days absenteeism in a year can cost you $126 per employee, based on the minimum wage scale. Multiply that by the number of people you employ and the cost can be staggering. Few businesses today, large or small, can afford profit erosion like this. More and more now subscribe to the MUZAK service. Independent studies show that MUZAK increases alertness and vigilance.

The MUZAK service is different from mere background music. Far different! For years, scientists studied the ebb and flow of employee efficiency.

They found it flows in a cyclic curve. By studying this curve and the employee moods underlying it, MUZAK specialists were able to discover, through exacting tests, just what kind of music would best stimulate the mployee at the times of day when efficiency is lowest.

Thus, Music by MUZAK is psychologically selected, arranged, recorded and programmed to vary throughout the day and fit the employee efficiency curve. There is an answer to profit erosion, and MUZAK has it.

Stock Mart Has Another Dreary Day

New York (AP) — Surging money costs helped to dictate another dreary day for the stock market Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 4.85 to 845.59, and the more broadly based New York Stock Exchange composite index was down .44 at 48.75.

Declines outpaced advances by about 3-to-1 on the Big Board in turnover of only 11.29 million shares.

Several banks across the country posted 11¼ per cent prime lending rates as a quarter-point increase in the key rate begun Friday spread quickly throughout the banking industry.

Meanwhile, First National Bank of Chicago lifted its prime to 11.4 per cent.

Monte Gordon at Dreyfus Corp. said the market also had to grapple with worries about inflation and the extremely uncertain economic outlook, as well as the Watergate case and unsettled situations in governments of several other Western countries.

Westinghouse Electric was the most-active issue on the Big Board, rising ¼ to 16¼ in trading marked by a 350,000-share block at 16.

Some of the sharpest losses showed up in the stocks of concerns with a direct stake in borrowing costs.

In the real estate investment trust group, Colwell Mortgage Investors was down 2¼ to 10⅞; First Mortgage Investors ⅝ to 3⅜; Builders Investment Group 1⅜ to 13⅛, and Capital Mortgage Investors 1½ to 11⅜.

Among finance company issues, Liberty Loan sagged a point to 9, and Dial Financial was 1¼ lower at 11¾.

Precious metals issues gained broadly. In the golds, Homestake was up 2¼ at 80¾, Dome Mines rose 3 to 160½, and Campbell Red Lake 1¼ to 77⅝. Top gainers in the silver sector included Hecla Mining, up 2 at 25½, and Sunshine Mining, ahead 1⅝ at 16¾.

Oil-service, auto, electronics, and metals issues all generally lost ground.

On the American Stock Exchange, the volume leader was Elco Corp., down ⅛ at 7⅞.

The Amex market value index lost 1.60 to 86.30.

Bus Line Gets 20% Rate Hike

The financially-troubled United Motor Ways, Inc., of Grand Island Monday was granted a 20% increase in passenger rates effective May 27.

The increase, approved by the Nebraska Public Service Commission postpones efforts by United to drop two routes entirely. The commission reportedly found United's bus routes out of Grand Island to Albion, O'Neill, Broken Bow, Hastings, Superior, Loup City and Sargent were running deficits.

The commission said United has tentatively agreed to continue for 90 days its Albion-Grand Island and Hastings-Superior runs. At the end of the 90 days, the commission will review United's financial situation and make a permanent disposition on the rate increase.

In other action, the commission denied a request by a Norfolk bus line, Arrow Lines, for a 10% charter rate increase.

The commission indicated the line has a favorable financial condition and noted that the firm's top two officers each earn $60,000 annually. The denial was recommended by the commission staff.

Cattle Trade Fairly Active

Omaha (AP) — Trading on fed cattle at Omaha Monday was fairly active for the modest outlay offered by feeders.

Slaughter steers were steady, instances 25 cents higher, while heifers were steady to strong and cows steady to 50 higher.

The 5,000 fresh arrivals included only about 300 head of feeder stock. Quality of the fat steers and heifers was a bit short, much of the array running good to choice.

Overall weight appeared to be about par with the last two weeks but still 35-40 lbs over a year ago on steers.

Butcher hogs sold in a higher but definitely two-way market. Those under 250 lbs were 50-1.00 higher, topping at 29.00, while 250-360 lbs were steady to 50 higher, bottoming out at about 23.00.

Sows were steady to 50 lower.

New arrivals in the slaughter lamb division reached about 800, neatly double the early estimates, and prices were 1.00-1.25 higher on lambs and strong to 50 higher on butcher ewes.

Late Rally Lifts Commodities

Chicago (AP) — A rally in the closing 30 minutes pushed most farm commodity futures prices higher on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday.

As the advance set in much short covering developed in all the pits.

There appeared to be no outstanding reason for the late buying move. It appeared, however, that some commercial buying in the wheat pit generated some higher prices and as prices advanced the professional shorts were forced to cover their positions.

Omaha Gaming Counts Likely To Be Dropped

Omaha (AP) — U.S. Atty. William Schaporst says a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court Monday is likely to lead to the dropping of gambling charges against Max "Little Giant" Abramson and five others.

Monday's high court ruling invalidated several anticrime wiretaps because federal officials failed to follow the law in some cases under former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Earlier this year, Schaporst asked the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis to overrule an earlier decision by Senior U. S. District Court Judge Richard E. Robinson. Robinson suppressed wiretap evidence in a case stemming from a Dec. 12, 1971 raid on the Rocket Club here.

Following the raid, Abramson, Max Groom, Edward Wisnewski, Nicholas Sirian and John Salantrino were charged with violating the Federal Anti-racketeering Act, while Mrs. John Quinn, Las Vegas, Nev., was charged with interstate use of telephone circuits to aid gambling operations.

Robinson ruled that permission for the wiretap, which led to the raid, was not properly granted.

After Robinson's ruling, Abramson and some of the other defendants filed a $1 million suit against law enforcement officials. The petition claimed that wiretapping, authorized under the 1968 Omnibus Crime Act, was unconstitutional. The suit was later dismissed.

Meeting Slated By Hog Cholera Advisory Panel

Omaha (AP) — The U.S. Secretary of Agriculture's National Hog Cholera Eradication Advisory Committee will meet Wednesday at the Hilton Hotel.

The meeting is being held in conjunction with the 1974 session of Livestock Conservation Inc., a national organization representing the livestock and meat industry and its concerns with losses due to disease, injury or parasites.

Officials said the committee's current emphasis is on preventing a resurgence of hog choldera in this country.

The committee consists of members from various regions of the country, and includes swine producers, market operators, private and government veterinarians as well as representatives of industry organization and the scientific-academic community.

11 District 4-H Horse Shows Set

By The Associated Press

Dates and locations for 11 Nebraska district 4-H shows and two regional horse shows have been announced by Extension Horse Specialist R. B. Warren.

The two regional shows were added as intermediate shows between the district contests and State Fair and Ak-Sar-Ben horse shows, where entry numbers were outgrowing facilities.

Only those receiving a purple ribbon at the eastern or western regional shows now will be eligible to compete at State Fair or Ak-Sar-Ben.

The schedule of district shows includes: June 27, Madison; June 28, Weeping Water; June 29, Scribner; July 1, Stapleton; July 2, Wauneta; July 8, Fort Robinson; July 9, Valentine; July 10, Broken Bow; July 11, Seward; July 12, Sutton, and July 13, Fairbury.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 5-14
